STOP BOMBS! CITY'S DEMAND

GOV. ROOSEVELT ASSAILS 'PUBLIC UTILITY BARONS'

For U. S. Control of Power.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Portland, Ore., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The "public utility barons" of the nation were severely lashed tonight as Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt delivered a demand for a "new deal" for the American users of power, of electricity and gas, the telephone and the telegraph.

The fallen public utility empire of Samuel Insull was cited by the Democratic candidate for President as a horrible example. Gov. Roosevelt referred to this as the "Insull monstrosity" and he condemned a system whereby hundreds of thousands of investors could lose their savings through their innocent and trustful purchases of stock represented as under the control of state governments.

The governor fired his big guns against the leaders of the public utility world in a speech delivered at the Portland civic auditorium before an audience whose cheers demonstrated that he had chosen a proper setting for this attack. Oregon has riches in undeveloped water power second to no other state in the Union.

For Regulation and Publicity.

Mr. Roosevelt laid down a program which called for strict regulation by the federal government of holding companies operating under the same system as the Insull holding companies did. His program proposes:

"1. Full publicity as to all capital issues of stocks, bonds, and other securities; liabilities and indebtedness, capital investment, and frequent information as to gross and net earnings.

"2. Publicity on stock ownership of stocks and bonds and other securities, including the stock and other interest of all officers and directors.

"3. Publicity with respect to all inter-company contracts and services and interchange of power.

For Federal Regulation.

"4. Regulation and control of holding companies by federal power commission and the same publicity with regard to such holding companies as provided for the operating companies.

"5. Coöperation of federal power commission with public utilities commissions of the several states, obtaining information and data pertaining to the regulation and control of such public utilities.

"6. Regulation and control of the issue of stocks and bonds and other securities on the principle of prudent investment only.

"7. Abolishing by law the reproduction cost theory for rate making and establishing in place of it the actual money prudent investment principle as the basis for rate making.

"8. Legislation making it a crime to publish or circulate false or deceptive matter relating to public utilities."

Against U. S. Ownership.

Gov. Roosevelt declared that he did not hold with those who advocate government ownership or government operation of all utilities.

"I state to you categorically that, as a broad general rule," he said on this point, "the development of utilities should remain, with certain exceptions, a function for private initiative and private capital.

"But the exceptions are of vital importance, local, state, and national, and I believe that the overwhelming majority of the people in this country agree with me."

Gov. Roosevelt denounced President Hoover directly and said that he and the Republican administration had adopted a policy "dominated by private rather than public interest." The administration proposes to "continue as in the past," said Gov. Roosevelt, "to allow the interstate promoters and manipulators of public utilities to play fast and loose with the American public without adequate regulation or control."

Charges Propaganda Spread.

Continuing, the candidate said that "certain great private public utility corporations" bought and paid for the spreading of "misinformation, propaganda, and, if I may use the words, of lies and falsehoods."

This propaganda, the governor said, "permeated the schools, the editorial columns of newspapers, the activities of political parties, the universities and the printed literature in our book stores."

"A false public policy has been spread through the land," he said, "through the use of every means, from the innocent school teachers down to a certainly less innocent for-

VOTES UNHORSE LA FOLLETTE AND BLAINE

Kohler 92,500 Ahead; Chapple 18,000.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Wisconsin's conservative landslide which overthrew the La Follette régime in yesterday's primaries grew into the political epic of the year today. Almost complete returns show ex-Gov. Walter J. Kohler, conservative Republican, defeated Gov. Philip F. La Follette by nearly 100,000 majority, unseating the La Follette "dynasty" at Madison, and shattering the tradition "a La Follette has never been beaten in 40 years."

With only a few precincts missing, John B. Chapple, the crusading Ashland editor, has unhorsed Senator John J. Blaine, one of the "sons of the wild jackass," by an indicated majority of about 20,000.

The conservative regular Republican state ticket, led by Kohler and Chapple, appears to have won in all except the race for secretary of state.

For congress the tally seems to be three conservatives, three La Follettites, and possibly an even division among the other four.

Radicalism Chief Issue.

It was the greatest upset Wisconsin has experienced in more than a generation and the politicians account it more of a political sensation than the recent Maine elections, the overthrow of dry Bourbons in formerly dry southern states, and the defeat of Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart in Iowa, another one of the "sons of the wild jackass" by Henry Field, Shenandoah nurseryman. For three decades the La Follette group has ruled Wisconsin almost continuously.

Conservatism versus radicalism was the basic issue. The conservatives won in a state which for three decades has had insurgency as its normal pose. Politicians today discerned a reflection of Wisconsin's action in the country's markets. Wheat went up 2½ cents; stocks moved upwards.

The vote in 2,837 precincts out of 2,899 gave for governor:

For senator, 2,757 precincts gave the Republican vote: Blaine, 316,325; Chapple, 334,257. With 142 precincts missing Chapple was 17,932 votes in the lead.

Democrats Increase Vote.

The Democrats increased their votes. For a quarter century the state Democratic party has been swallowed up in La Follette versus anti-La Follette politics. Yesterday the Democrats apparently cast some 150,000 votes where two years ago they cast only 17,000. It is figured that La Follette lost the votes of 80 per cent of the Democrats, who this time stayed in their own party primaries. Last spring in the Roosevelt delegate primaries, the Democratic vote was 247,000.

For governor, A. G. Schmedeman, mayor of Madison, is leading the Democrats. The vote in 2,033 precincts gave Schmedeman 44,727; William B. Rubin, 37,252; Leo P. Fox, 25,804.

Seen as Aid to Hoover.

How the presidential campaign between Hoover and Roosevelt may be affected by the Wisconsin results was a popular topic of conjecture tonight. During the primary campaign mention of Hoover's name was studiously avoided by the conservatives to keep the primaries separate from the national fight. The La Follette camp kept repeating that Chapple was encouraged to enter the race in Wisconsin by the Hoover administration. Mr. Kohler himself, head of the conservative Republicans, got into politics four years ago when he smashed the La Follette slate for delegates at large and went to the Kansas City Republican national convention as a Hoover man.

Republicans in general hold that yesterday's upset will strengthen Hoover in Wisconsin, where Roosevelt so far has had the running to himself and where 70,000 Republicans wrote Roosevelt's name on their ballots last spring. October is to see a drive by the Republican national campaign managers for Wisconsin. Four years ago Al Smith had Wisconsin in his lap three weeks before the election, but in November the state went to Hoover.

Politicians are now awaiting the

MANCHURIA GIVES WORLD 6 MONTHS TO RECOGNIZE HER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 22.—[Thursday.]—Manchukuo [Manchuria] today announced it had asked the powers to recognize its sovereignty within six months, otherwise it will refuse to recognize the rights and interests of those countries which do not recognize the new state.

This revolutionary departure from international diplomacy was made in a statement by the Manchukuo foreign minister, Hsieh Chien-shin.

"Manchukuo's contemplated action is quite different from China's determination to abolish unequal treaties," he said. "We have already asked the powers to open friendly relations, guaranteeing the open door. We want others to show sincerity towards Manchukuo. If they refuse, we must decline to have intercourse with them."

Norman Thomas Gives New Phrase in Political Life

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, left tonight for Chicago on a western and southern campaign trip. He said he hoped to "take the La Follette crowd into camp now that they're beaten." The La Follette supporters, he said, should not have been in the Republican party, but he admitted that many of the radicals undoubtedly would vote for Roosevelt.

"That's one of the moronic features of American life," he said. "When you are mad at a rattlesnake, you adopt a copperhead."

Tells How Cow Fixed Size of U. S. Counties

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—It was the cow that created the county, Thomas H. Reed, professor of political science at the University of Michigan, told the national conference on government today at a session marked by numerous attacks on unwieldy, top-heavy growth of American government.

"The county," said Prof. Reed, "was chosen as the governmental unit of area so that the settler could milk his cow, get to the county seat and transact whatever business he might have there and return home in time to milk the cow again without causing her much distress."

But in an age of automobiles, good roads, and speedy communication, said the speaker, the reasons for the small county unit no longer exist.

Compares English Plan.

"In my state of Michigan there are 43,000 local public officials. In England today there are 2,000. That is just a comparison of what has been done in England toward simplifying and consolidating government in the interests of economy and to meet the changing governmental need of the country.

"Now that the pinch has come upon us and our pocketbook nerve is rubbed raw every time the tax bills come in we are beginning to take an interest in the government, and I believe the depression will go far toward sending us back to sound governmental principles.

"Certainly it is agreed that consolidation of large metropolitan areas would work great benefit upon the communities thus consolidated, both as to the services rendered by government and as to economies effected."

Too Many Employés.

Charges that a saving of 50 per cent could be made in the postoffice department alone by application of sound business principles to the problem of personnel were made by H. Eliot Kaplan, secretary of the National Civil Service Reform league.

"The growth of the civilian army in the last quarter century," he declared, "has been tremendous and at present totals over 3,000,000. One person in every 40 draws compensation from the public treasury, either national, state, or municipal. The annual pay roll of this civilian army is more than four billion dollars."

Chided About Leaky Roof and Liquor, He Shoots Self

Newport, Ky., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Willard Earls, 53, was suffering from "too good a last night." His wife asked him to repair a leak in the roof and he refused.

"If there was a bottle of liquor there you'd go," she said.

"When I made that remark he shot himself," she told police.

STOCKS PUSH AHEAD IN WIDEST ADVANCE SINCE FEBRUARY 13

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Rallies in wheat and cotton imparted strength today to the New York stock markets, setting in motion a buying movement that pushed prices 2 to 10 points higher for the widest advance since Feb. 13.

The turnover on the stock exchange was 4,346,000 shares, as compared with 1,250,780 on the day before. Bonds, in which the trading was extremely active, gained 1 to 6 points.

Stocks of the United States Steel corporation led the upswing, the preferred showing a maximum gain of 11 points and the common 8¼ points. They closed with net gains of 10¼ and 7⅞ points, respectively.

Final quotations disclosed such net gains as these: American Telephone, 3¼; Allied Chemical, 8¾; American Water Works, 6¼; Santa Fe, 5⅝; Auburn, 9¼; Coca Cola, 6; Consolidated Gas, 4⅞; Western Union, 5⅝; Union Pacific, 7⅝; Macy, 5⅝; National Steel, 6; Reading, 5; New York Central, 4¼; Goodyear first preferred, 9; International Business Machines, 7, and J. I. Case, 9¾.

The average for fifty selected stocks showed a net gain of $6.40; twenty-five industrials, $8.39, and twenty-five railway issues, $3.41.

BOY PICKING UP COAL IS KILLED BY WATCHMAN

John Gawlik, 12 years old, 1156 Cherry street, was shot and killed last night as he and two other boys were picking up coal in the rear of a building at 1136 Hickory street.

The fatal bullet was fired by John Lechowski, 54 years old, 1015 Division street, a private watchman. He asserted that when he saw the boys he ordered them to leave.

"They didn't do what I told them," Lechowski added, "and I shot three times over their heads, just to scare them. One of the bullets must have struck a wire and turned down."

After being shot the boy tried to run home, but collapsed before he had gone a block. His mother, his two brothers, and a sister are all receiving aid from the emergency relief commission. None of them is employed.

The police held the watchman, who is employed by the Contractors' Service corporation, 915 Division street.

"No Hen's Land" Fixed by Wilmette Ordinance

PARADE ROUTE

Time—9:30 a. m.

Line of march—East on Addison street to Sheridan road and south to link bridge. West on Wacker drive to Clark street, south on Clark to Jackson and west on Jackson to La Salle street. North on La Salle to city hall. Parade officially ends at city hall.

Chicago will honor the Cubs, new champions of the National league, officially today when the entire personnel of the team will be taken from Wrigley field by automobiles to the loop and up to the city hall, where Mayor Cermak will extend the city's best wishes to Manager Charley Grimm and his players from the reception platform on La Salle street.

The parade is expected to be several miles long. All fans with automobiles are invited to participate in the demonstration. Ald. J. M. Arvey, chairman of the mayor's committee on arrangements, yesterday had prepared to handle a crowd of upward to 100,000 at the city hall.

Players and fans will gather at Wrigley field at 9 o'clock this morning. Led by Jack Bramhall's band atop a bus, the procession, starting at 9:30, will move east on Addison street to Sheridan road, thence south to the link bridge. The line of march then will be west on Wacker drive to Clark street, south on Clark to Jackson, and west on Jackson to La Salle street. As the celebrants progress north on La Salle street they will be showered with ticker tape and confetti from brokerage houses.

President William Veeck and Grimm will make short speeches at the city hall, after Mayor Cermak has delivered his address, and each of the players will be introduced. On the rostrum, along with the present champions, will be a score of old timers, champions of other years. These will include Jimmy Archer, Jimmy Callahan, P. J. O'Brien, Jim Slagle, Tom Hughes, and Frank McNichols. K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, and Harry Grabiner, secretary of the White Sox, will be among the notables on the reception platform.

Rope Off La Salle Street.

La Salle street will be roped off from Washington to Randolph during the reception. Arrangements had been made last night for a large corps of motorcycle patrolmen to conduct the motor calvacade through the loop. After the speeches the players will be conducted back to Wrigley field, where they must be dressed by 1 o'clock for the final game of the series with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

SPEEDBOAT PILOT DIES IN CRASH; 2 WOMEN RESCUED

Alfred W. Meyer, 30 years old, 5230 Wayne avenue, was drowned early last evening when a speedboat he was driving crashed into the breakwater half a mile out in the lake off 11th street.

His wife and Miss Evelyn Olson, 22 years old, 532 Hinman avenue, Evanston, also were in the boat, but clung to the breakwater until they were rescued by coast guardsmen under Boatswain's Mate Elmer Dudley.

Meyer, a chemist for a bakery company, recently brought the power boat to Chicago from a small Wisconsin lake. It was his first trip on Lake Michigan. Apparently he was stunned by the crash and this caused him to sink. The accident was witnessed by South Park Policeman Matthew Connolly, who called the coast guards.

URGE A SECRET POLICE DRIVE; SEIZE SUSPECT

Judge's Tip Leads to Neighbor's Arrest.

From a city shocked over the blinding of a boy and serious injuries to a girl in a bomb explosion Tuesday night in front of the home of Judge John P. McGoorty there came two demands yesterday:

1. "Get the bombers."

2. "Establish a secret police able to cope with criminals and terrorists and end bombing in Chicago for all time."

The picture of the two maimed victims, Lee Wilbur Koeppen, 16 years old, 4305 Oakenwald avenue, whose eyes were blown out and whose right leg was shattered, and Mrs. Ada Miller Moyer, 4558 Oakenwald avenue, a 16 year old wife and mother, was fresh in the minds of officialdom as the task of hunting the perpetrator started. The challenge to law and order in the attack on a judge's home was an additional incentive.

Suspect Is Quizzed.

One suspect was held. He is Alexander St. John, 4103 Prairie avenue, who is alleged to have made threats against Judge McGoorty. Others were sought as suspects. Meanwhile, the aim of the concerted drive of the law enforcement agencies was expressed by Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime commission, who voiced the demand raised by the public, "Get the bombers."

The sum of $200,000 a year, or more if necessary, should be given the commissioner of police to be spent by him as he sees fit in a secret and never ending campaign against criminals, Mr. Loesch said. The secrecy with which bombers and other criminals work makes necessary the use of secrecy in opposing them, he declared.

Bombs Made to Order.

"I have given much thought to this problem of detecting bombers and the criminals who make bombs," said Mr. Loesch, who has been president of the crime commission for the last five years and is a member of President Hoover's law enforcement commission. "I am convinced that bombs are made to order and that the maker rarely, if ever, throws or places it where it is exploded.

"There must be expert bomb makers who are well known to the criminal fraternity and it's very likely there is a market price on each bomb ordered. I am satisfied that the bomb maker requires full information as to where, when, and at whom the bomb is to be exploded and fixes his price accordingly.

"I know of no better solution for the detection and prosecution of such criminals than that recommended by the report on police by the National Commission on Law Observance. I shall paraphrase the language in applying it to the present purpose.

Secret Police Force.

"'The chief of police should have a secret force of officers known only to the chief and reporting only to him and to be paid from a contingent fund in his hands for such service.

"'Without such a limited number of capable detectives, unknown to the public and the members of the police force, it is and will be practically impossible to secure the detection, arrest, and conviction of such criminals or those associating with or protecting them in their criminal careers. Such a force might well be modeled upon that of the secret service of the United States, so effective against mail robbers and counterfeiters.'

"This group, if properly selected, would in time be able to disclose and apprehend the men engaged in this criminal industry of bombing and bring the perpetrators to justice."

Unable to Find Motive.

The arrest of one suspect was not due to any lack of eagerness or activity on the part of the police and officials. It was due to the lack of a motive for the bombing. Judge McGoorty himself gave St. John's name to the police.

St. John is mentally deficient, Judge McGoorty said. The suspect appeared before Judge McGoorty in 1931, charged with being the father of a baby born to his niece. St. John denied fatherhood of the child, but Judge McGoorty ordered him to pay $1,500 to the girl.

After the court hearing St. John was reported to have made threats against Judge McGoorty, repeating them before Mrs. Susan Hough, social service worker in the state's attorney's office. Of all the defendants who had appeared before him St. John stood out yesterday in the judge's mind as the one most likely to have thrown the bomb. St. John lives near the McGoorty home, which is at 929 East 45th street.

Questioned at the state's attorney's office last night by Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne and others, St. John calmly denied having threatened Judge McGoorty or any one else and indignantly denied planting the bomb. He said that at the time of the bombing he was at the home of a Negro friend, Temble Cunningham, 450 Bowen avenue. Cunningham and his wife were quizzed, and except for minor discrepancies as to the hour of the visit, confirmed St. John's alibi. Police said they would hold St. John overnight for further questioning.

James "Fur" Sammons, arch criminal recently released from the Joliet penitentiary by Judge Edward Shurtleff of McHenry county, was another who was sought for questioning. He had been returned to prison in 1930 by order of Judge McGoorty, who ruled that Sammons should be kept behind the bars for life.

Demand for Action.

While this was going on there was a united demand from the community that law enforcement officials do something to end bombing and similar crimes. Mayor Cermak, Police Commissioner Allman, and State's Attorney Swanson were among those to whom the appeal was made and they replied by declaring war on racketeers, bombers, and all criminals in general.

One of Allman's first acts was to increase the bomb squad from three to nine members. Lieut. John Treacy, known as a terror to criminals, was named as new head of the squad. He will be assisted by Sergt. Michael Toohey.

Acting Chief of Detectives Walter Storms checked lists of criminals sentenced by Judge McGoorty. Every one released in recent years is under suspicion, he said, and their present activities are being investigated.

Chief Storms and Sergt. Toohey were of the opinion the bomb, which exploded just as Koeppen and Mrs. Moyer were walking past the jurist's home, was made by a professional, although, they stated, it may have been thrown by an amateur. It consisted either of dynamite or a quantity of black powder wrapped with tape and had a long fuse.

If it was intended for Judge McGoorty's home, the job was bungled, Storms and Toohey said, because it fell short of its mark. It was probably thrown from a passing automobile and instead of landing near the building it struck the top of a metal fence and dropped back to the sidewalk, they said.

Fail to See Auto.

Koeppen and Mrs. Moyer were walking past the McGoorty home, followed by Fred Koeppen, 18 years old, brother of the injured boy, and Miss Betty Lewis, 17 years old, of 4560 Oakenwald avenue, when the explosion occurred. Neither of them saw the bomb tossed nor saw the automobile from which it probably was thrown, police said. No other persons have been located who saw the automobile.

Young Koeppen saw the package and the sputtering fuse and tried to stamp it out, according to the youth's father, who talked with the injured boy at the Chicago hospital.

He may even have stooped over to examine it, police said, because both his eyes were blown out. His right leg was shattered, although it may not be necessary to amputate it.

Mrs. Moyer, who is the mother of a 4 months old baby, Mitzi Jean, and who is estranged from her 19 year old husband, Robert, a mechanic, had probably bent over, too, police said, judging from the injury to her face and eyes.

Although believing the bombers intended vengeance on Judge McGoorty, police investigated the possibility of domestic troubles. The husband of Ada was questioned and exonerated. Some significance was at first attached to the fact that his father had been employed in a munitions factory during the war. Chief Storms said, however, that both father and son are reputable citizens and are employed by a motor bus company.

BOMBING SHOWS NEED FOR MORE POLICE—CERMAK

Officials Assure Public Justice Will Be Done.

A wave of indignation, which swept the city yesterday following the bombing at Judge John P. McGoorty's home and the blinding of two passers-by, brought a response from the city's leaders to the public demand that punishment be dealt out to the bombers.

Mayor Cermak declared that the crime emphasized the need for co-operation and concerted action on the part of all law enforcing agencies and civic bodies to exterminate gunmen, bombers, and racketeers.

"The city authorities and the police will not leave any stone unturned to run down the criminals who are responsible for this latest act of violence which has caused suffering to two of our law abiding citizens," the mayor said.

Shows Need for More Police.

"This regrettable incident is more proof of the necessity for adding numbers and additional facilities to our police force, even though there are no immediate funds available for the necessary expansion of our police department to protect the lives and property of those who are able but still refuse to pay their taxes.

"If necessary, we shall have to appeal to the patriotism and liberality of our citizens who are willing to contribute to a fund for the maintenance of an efficient police force.

"I propose to raise money somewhere to offer additional rewards for the apprehension of the criminal or criminals, whoever they may be, and I hope that the slackers among the taxpayers will take this object lesson to heart and open their purse strings to the tax collector so that government may adequately function for their own protection."

Thomas J. Courtney, Democratic nominee for state's attorney said: "This bombing serves to emphasize the need for vigorous and fearless enforcement of the criminal law in our community. Kidnaping, bombing and like crimes would not be permitted in Chicago unless a relatively small group of criminals responsible for them felt they were immune from prosecution.

"These bombs will stop just as soon as the perpetrators know they are without friends and influence in public office. If I am elected state's attorney, I intend to carry the fight to gangsters, bombers, and racketeers. I will not feel satisfied to sit back and await their challenge."

Judge Promises Action.

"This is a horrible affair," he said. "I will insist on having all details of it. This thing cannot go on. I will not wait for a meeting of the judges for a decision. To bomb a jurist's home is serious enough, but to maim these poor children is horrible, and every believer in righteousness should and will help bringing those responsible to justice."

Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee of the city council, joined with the mayor in declaring the bombing was a proof that the city was under-policed.

"I thought we had bombings in Chicago stopped," said Robert I. Randolph, head of the "Secret Six," "but it appears that I was wrong. This affair is outrageous and calls for immediate action."

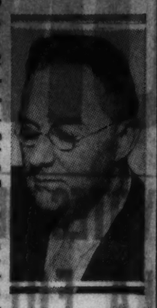
ROBS PEACE JUSTICE; SLAIN.

Medicine Bow, Wyo., Sept. 21.—(AP)—A man identified as Richard Fletcher, 30 years old, believed to have come to Medicine Bow from Tennessee, was shot and killed in the Frank Boyd pool hall here last night after he had robbed Boyd and W. W. Boss, justice of the peace. Boss then drew a pistol and killed the robber.

POLICE EXPERT REVEALS INSIDE OF BOMB RACKET

A dynamite bomb costs less than $1 to make and a crew of professionals can be hired to throw it for $50. Lieut. Make Mills, bomb expert of the detective bureau for thirty-six years, yesterday revealed these facts and other details about the bombing business in Chicago.



LIEUT. MILLS.

"A bomb is the most dastardly weapon that can be used by a criminal, and a bomber is the most cowardly of criminals," he said.

"There is little danger of apprehension in throwing a bomb and the rats of the underworld regard bombing as one of their favored professions."

The first bombs thrown in this city, about thirty-five years ago, were used in a gamblers' war and were little more than giant firecrackers intended to frighten and intimidate but not injure, Lieut. Mills said. Later, black powder bombs were popular but the modern bomb is usually concocted of dynamite, or is of the type known as "pryotol," a combination of black powder, sodium nitricum, and nitroglycerine.

"It is favored more than a black powder bomb because it can be thrown and the fuse will not be extinguished by water or dampness. The fuse burns 33 seconds to the foot, so the time of explosion can be calculated to a second.

"Years ago the price of a bombing was $250. Now it has descended to $50, or even less. Bombers are not paid until after the job has been done and the price given them is often calculated according to the amount of publicity given the bombing. The McGoorty bombers probably collected a good sum."

Lieut. Mills outlined the difficulties attendant upon discovering bombers and bringing them to trial.

"More than 90 per cent of the victims of bombings know who was responsible," he declared, "but this 90 per cent are afraid to talk. About 2 per cent will help the police, telling all whom they suspect."

HOODLUMS SMASH MACHINERY IN GINGER ALE PLANT

Six hoodlums entered the plant of the Westerholm Bottling works at 2340 West Erie street yesterday, and smashed part of the machinery with sledges, doing $250 damage. The bottling concern makes ginger ale and other soft drinks.

Leon Hirsch, part owner, and Miss Sarah Perrin, 2048 North Western avenue, a stenographer, were in the place when the vandals entered. They were threatened by two of the men while the other four damaged the equipment.

Hirsch said he was at a loss to explain the vandalism. Police declared, however, that the syndicate has muscled into the ginger ale field, and is probably responsible.

BOY BLINDED BY BOMB ASKS WHY HE CANNOT SEE

Doctors Fear to Tell Youth His Eyes Are Gone.

The two 16 year old victims of Tuesday's night bomb explosion in front of Judge McGoorty's home lay in the Chicago hospital yesterday trying to console the members of their families. Lee Wilbur Koeppen, known as Bill, refused to admit to his family, who live at 4305 Oakenwald avenue, that he was anything but "O. K." In private he asked his physician, the latter revealed, why he could not see.

He was not told that both of his eyes were blown out and that he would never see again.

"He has no idea that his eyes are gone forever," said Dr. S. J. Conway, chief surgeon of the hospital. "If his general condition warrants it we will operate in the morning to remove what is left of the eyeballs. A part of the eyelids remains and with the aid of plastic surgery he can have artificial eyes in the event of his recovery.

May Be Able to Walk.

"Half of his right foot was blown off, but we expect to do no amputation. I think he will be able to walk with a cane if he recovers. The tip of his nose also was blown off."

More hope was entertained for his recovery than on the previous night, Dr. Conway said. A consultation was held in the afternoon over both Koeppen and the other victim, Mrs. Ada Miller Moyer, of 4558 Oakenwald avenue, girl mother who sustained injuries endangering her sight. Dr. C. C. Clement, Dr. L. P. Piper, and Dr. Victor Frankenstein took part in the consultation. They agreed her eyesight can be saved, Dr. Conway said.

"Bill wouldn't say anything to us about himself," his father, John Koeppen, building manager at 4305 Oakenwald avenue, said. "He asked how Pat, his year old niece, was, and he joked about baseball and told his chums he'd be playing ball with them Sunday. I said, 'You'll be out soon,' and he said, 'You bet I will, dad.'"

The father said Bill had told him he knew the missile at his feet was a bomb. He could have run, he added, but he hoped to "put it out so it would harm no one."

Mother Confined to Bed.

Mrs. Koeppen, the mother, was confined to her bed after a visit to see her son. She has three other sons, Reynold, 22; Fred, 23, and Jack, 9 years old. Bill delivered newspapers until three weeks ago. He had planned to attend Parker Junior High school, where he studied last year.

Mrs. Moyer, her eyes bandaged beneath her shock of light brown hair, boyishly cut, her face pitted with powder burns, which also cover her legs and arms, doctors said, was asked how she felt.

"Just fine," she said in a faint voice. "How do you feel?"

Mother Cares for Baby.

Her mother, Mrs. Nina Miller, 36 year old grandmother, hurried to their home on Oakenwald avenue after a morning visit to the hospital, to care for Mrs. Moyer's 4 months old baby, Mitzi Jean. Her father, Charles Miller, worked as usual in Gary, where he is a railroad shops inspector.

"I don't care how I look, how scarred I am, just so I can see," the girl told her mother.

Back in her home, Mrs. Miller told of the tragedies which had befallen the family since moving to Chicago from Champaign. She lost a daughter three years ago. Then Ada, one of two remaining children, married when she was 14 years old, the parents giving their consent to avoid an elopement. Six weeks ago Ada and Robert Moyen, 5427 Cottage Grove avenue, separated.

"She doesn't go with Bill," the mother said. "He's just a nice kid in the neighborhood who's come over to our house for years. He and my son, Ralph, 14, are on the same ball team. Ada had been in with the baby all day, and decided to go for a walk with the kids last night. Her father said she could if they'd come home by 10 o'clock. It seems strange that you could go for a walk from here to Drexel and back and be blown up."

Judge John P. McGoorty and his daughters, Betty and Margaret, visited young Koeppen and Mrs. Moyer in the hospital and expressed their sorrow that they were victims of the outrage.

A terrific explosion late yesterday afternoon rocked the huge five story plant of the Jewel Tea company which stands on a 200 acre tract of land near Barrington, 32 miles northwest of the loop.

Four employes were severely injured and taken to the Barrington hospital. The damage totaled at least $25,000, according to M. H. Harker, president of the company, who was in his office on the fifth floor of the plant at the time of the blast.

The explosion occurred at 4:45 p. m. when most of the 200 employés in the plant were on the top floors. Ten minutes later, Mr. Harker said, most of the employés would have been on the first floor preparing to leave for the day and the blast would have injured and perhaps killed scores of them.

Four Severely Burned.

The injured are Leroy Zimmerman, Earl Olson, Bart Sheehan, and Charles Thomas, all of whom were severely burned. All reside in Barrington.

Zimmerman was descending in an elevator when the force of the explosion wrecked the car and a gust of flame swept him. Olson was in the basement and was burned by the blast and knocked down. Sheehan was carrying out the leaking gas tank which was blamed for the explosion when he was knocked down and injured. Thomas, a watchman, was in the boiler room.

The explosion wrecked the boiler room, storeroom and shop in the basement of the plant, destroyed twenty automobiles stored in a garage in the rear of the building, caused much damage on the first floor, and shattered almost every window in the big structure.

Leaking Gas Tank Blamed.

Just before the explosion, Thomas Owens, superintendent of the building, noticed that the tank, containing protane-butane gas, was leaking and ordered it carried out of the basement, which had become filled with the fumes. This gas is used for commercial purposes in the absence of regular manufactured gas. It can be concentrated into liquid form by great pressure and great quantities can be stored in containers.

Sheehan had just removed the tank when the explosion occurred. Mr. Harker said the fumes in the basement may have been ignited by a small oil lamp kept burning in the boiler room for emergency purposes.

Flame Sweeps Basement.

A great sheet of flame swept half the basement area of the structure, which is of concrete construction, 400 feet long and 100 feet wide. The force of the explosion swept up the elevator shafts at the rear of the building and caused some damage on the fifth floor.

Mr. Harker, in his office on that floor, and others on the floor were endangered by flying glass while employés on the second, third, and fourth floors escaped the direct force of the blast.

Mr. Harker denied that the explosion might have been caused by a bomb. Rumors to that effect had been heard by Police Chief Ernest Baade of Barrington and he asked Deputy State Fire Marshal Paul E. Bertram of Crystal Lake, who helped extinguish the fire, to start an investigation.

Labor Dispute a Year Ago.

There had been no labor trouble at the plant since a year ago when the company built a number of cottages for workmen at Jewel Park near the plant, Mr. Harker said. Labor unions at that time protested the building of the cottages with nonunion labor, but there was no violence.

The big plant in Barrington was built three years ago. It houses the general offices and most of the light manufacturing and warehouse activities of the concern. More than fifty grocery products are handled by the company, which formerly distributed all its products by delivery trucks. Last March the company purchased the 77 Chicago stores of Loblaw Groceterias, Inc., and thus acquired its first retail outlets.

Charges Ex-Shop Owner with Taking Her $650

Mrs. Mildred Cohen, 2056 North Keeler avenue, appeared at the Central station yesterday and asked police to arrest Albert C. Cohen, former lingerie shop owner, who, she charged, disappeared with $650 in cash and checks belonging to her.

SIGNS OF GAINS IN TRADE CITED BY ROY CHAPIN

Building in August One Example.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Further factors which he characterized as "straws" indicating improved economic conditions were pointed out today by Secretary of Commerce Roy D. Chapin.

An August total of construction contracts amounting to $133,938,000 Secretary Chapin termed "rather pleasing."

A departmental statement said that this volume of construction indicated that a "well defined resistance stage has been met following a downward tendency which, allowing for seasonal swings, persisted through more than three years."

An analysis, it was said, showed that public works, a good share of them federal, comprised nearly 60 per cent of the August total, as compared with less than 30 per cent during the years 1926-'28.

Loans Expected to Help.

Reconstruction Finance corporation loans were expected to help start local public works, and the federal home loan bank system was looked to to aid residential building. Construction through strictly private enterprise, it was indicated, had fallen so low that only a steady level or an upturn was possible.

The secretary of commerce also pointed out that during the first half of September, for the first time in many weeks, banks that had reopened for business exceeded the banks that had closed during the period.

"Another favorable factor," said Mr. Chapin, "comes in reports from our agents in London, Paris, Berlin, and Amsterdam which indicate that these countries are having much the same experience we have had. The attitude of their people is improving and a measure of confidence is returning.

Reports More Favorable.

"In the main, the statistical indices of economic conditions are steadily moving forward. There are some recessions, but a majority of them have stopped going down and many have started moving up. Instead of the comment 'still downward,' which we heard for many months, there are now attached to these various reports comments of 'well maintained,' 'steady,' or 'upward.'"

"It is too early to say that general business conditions are better, but reports of improvements are coming in from an increasing number of individual businesses and industries."

The secretary's discussion of present conditions followed yesterday's report of the bureau of labor statistics, which showed a slight gain in employment in 16 major industries for the first time in two years. It also followed yesterday's announcement in the federal reserve bulletin that the last few weeks have witnessed an inflow of gold into this country and an outflow of currency from hoarding.

Hindus Draft New Vote Plan; Gandhi May End Death Fast

BOMBAY, Sept. 21.—Strong hopes prevailed here tonight that the caste Hindus and untouchables would settle their political differences, thus enabling Mahatma Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader, to abandon his "fast unto death" before it might have a fatal ending.

A committee including two of the greatest Hindu conciliators, Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and M. R. Jayakar, visited Gandhi in the Yervada jail today. They had with them a list of the demands of the untouchables, which were submitted by the untouchable leader, Dr. B. M. Ambedkar. The committee had a long interview with Gandhi, which was declared to be hopeful, but Gandhi reserved judgment until he has had further consultations with Dr. Ambedkar and M. C. Rajah, another spokesman of the depressed classes. Dr. Ambedkar left tonight for Poona to see Gandhi.

Declares Difficulty Settled.

The situation is declared to be so promising that Dr. Moonje, leader of the orthodox Hindus, announced that the whole difficulty has already been settled. He left Bombay for a meeting of the Hindus at New Delhi.

Some other Hindu leaders are not so optimistic, however, in view of Dr. Ambedkar's demands. As his "irreducible minimum," Dr. Ambedkar says he is willing to accept joint electorates provided the untouchables are given three times as many "reserved" seats as they would have under the British government's scheme. Among Dr. Ambedkar's demands are complete adult suffrage for untouchables, representation in all local bodies on a population basis, special grants for education in each province, and a provision in the constitution giving untouchables the right to appeal to the British viceroy over any neglect of their interests in education, sanitation or recruitment for public service.

Gandhi Weak and Tired.

Gandhi was weak and tired at the end of the second day of his hunger strike, although he seemed cheerful in the morning when the committee visited him. In the afternoon he was visited by his old friend, Sarojini Naidu, Hindu poetess, who spent several hours with him.

The cessation of work in Bombay in sympathy with Gandhi's fast was not as complete as yesterday. Many shops in the Hindu quarters were open and the colleges, schools and cotton factories resumed work. The stock exchange, bullion exchange and cotton market remained closed, however.

Again there were isolated instances of temples being opened to untouchables, but orthodox Hindus continued to resist such gestures. Guards were stationed outside of one temple by orthodox Hindus to prevent untouchables from entering.

SEIZED ON BIGAMY CHARGE WHILE HE BEARS GIFT TO SON

The desire of Frank A. Howard, 22 years old, of 2051 Farragut avenue, to remember the first birthday of his son, Keith, with a toy led to his arrest yesterday on a charge of bigamy.

Howard, son of Frank J. Howard, an insurance man, was seized at Pine Grove avenue and Diversey parkway by Detectives Robert McCarthy and Samuel Block of the detective bureau as he advanced to meet his first wife, Mrs. Gladys Howard, of 2648 Burling street, and the child. The trap was laid when Howard telephoned her several days ago that he wished to see Keith and give him a birthday present. He was taken to the bureau and held for arraignment in the Felony court today.

Howard and his first wife were married on March 29, 1929. On March 28 this year he was alleged to have married Shirley Johnson. Howard said, however, that only a mock marriage ceremony was performed.

CHARGE FRAUD OF $79,000,000 IN INSULL DEALS

Petition Accuses Utility Trust Directors.

A petition charging Samuel Insull and thirteen associates with a $79,000,000 fraud in the financing of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., was filed yesterday in Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley's court here. The $250,000,000 corporation, second largest of the Insull companies, is now insolvent.

The petition, brought on behalf of investors in a $80,000,000 debenture issue of the corporation and requesting permission for the debenture holders to intervene in the receivership, was originally presented to the court a month ago and denied. The fraud charges, not being a part of any court record, were therefore suppressed.

Judge Allows Intervention.

These charges were brought into the open yesterday when Judge Lindley wrote from Danville, where he is at present holding court, that he would now allow the debenture holders to intervene, being assured of the responsibility of their protective committee, represented by Attorneys Leo S. Samuels, Edmund P. Kelly, and Sylvanus George Lee. At the same time the judge instructed the court clerk to make the petition part of the record in the receivership.

The petitioners cite forty pages of records from the Chicago stock exchange and the securities department of the secretary of state as proof that the Insulls and their associates "fraudulently manipulated the securities of this and affiliated companies so as to obtain secret, illegal and fraudulent profits to the sum of $78,900,528."

In conclusion, the petition asks that Samuel Insull, now in Paris, his brother, Martin, in Canada, and twelve other directors of the corporation still in Chicago, be subpoenaed to explain how the $79,000,000 was diverted from the company's treasury. Attorney Kelly said that immediately upon Judge Lindley's return to Chicago he and his associates would ask appointment of a master in chancery to hear the petition and grant them authority to start action for recovery of the millions allegedly diverted.

Accused in Petition.

Besides the Insull brothers the others accused in the petition are Samuel Insull Jr., Walter S. Brewster, Britton I. Budd, Edward J. Doyle, Louis A. Ferguson, John F. Gilchrist, John H. Gulick, P. J. McEnroe, George F. Mitchell, Stuyvesant Peabody, Marshall E. Sampsell, and H. L. Stuart. All were directors of Insull Utility Investments.

In addition to these individuals, the petition asks that the court name as defendants in the suit for accounting the Corporation Securities company, Insull, Son & Co., Utilities Securities company, and the Public Service Trust, all affiliates or subsidiaries of Insull Utility Investments.

Charges of Manipulation.

The manipulation of Insull stocks began within a few days after Insull Utility Investments was incorporated in February, 1929, and continued up to a few weeks before the receivership occurred last April 16, the petition avers. Citing the secretary of state's records, the petition asserts that month after month, hundreds of thousands of shares of Insull stocks were issued at $15 when the market price was $49, at $7.48 when the market price was $80, and at $50 when the market price was $80 to $100.

In a particular instance on last Jan. 15, the petition charges, directors of the corporation issued $1,776 shares of common stock and "pretended" to pay for it by transferring $1,085,000 from surplus to capital account "when, in fact, the balance sheet of the company showed that in place of a surplus, there was a $15,000,000 deficit."

Messrs. McEnroe, Doyle, and W. F. Tebey, incorporators of the corporation, were mere "dummies" of Samuel Insull, the petition asserts. Calvin Fentress and George A. Cooke, whom Judge Lindley named receivers, are former employes of Samuel Insull and hence are incompetent to represent the debenture holders, is another charge.

3 BOY BANDITS SAY POLICEMEN PLANNED HOLDUP

Three youths, arraigned yesterday for the $1,445 pay roll robbery of the J. W. Johnson Awning company, 1237 Macedonia street, told Judge John J. Sullivan that a Racine avenue policeman arranged the robbery and took most of the loot. The prisoners are Edward Christenson, Frank Rzezkowski, and Walter Wing, each 17 years old.

Edward Kedzior, 1050 North Wood street, planned the holdup and introduced them to the policeman, who served as guard at the Johnson company, the trio said. The policeman told them everything was ready on July 29, Wing said, and they committed the robbery. Later they turned the loot over to the policeman, who gave them $25 each, according to the story told in court.

Judge Sullivan arranged for a special showup of Racine avenue policemen to be viewed by the three youths although he indicated he gave little weight to the story. He issued an order for the arrest of Kedzoir and continued the case until Sept. 28.

Catches 'Possum on State Street

G. W. Johnson with Prosperity, a 'possum he captured in the 4000 block on South State street. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

PROSPERITY HAS TURNED CORNER, GEORGE ALLOWS

But He Needs Some Study in Zoology.

G. W. Johnson of 4021 South State street is a Pullman porter whose first name is really George. He is a mighty hunter, but a little weak on zoölogy.

Early yesterday morning Johnson, nearing home, was astonished to see the largest rat he had ever beheld run out from under the lights of a passing automobile and dash up on the State street sidewalk.

Exactly in front of Porter Johnson the animal apparently dropped dead. He touched the rodent with his toe. There was no movement. Then in a gingerly manner Johnson took hold of the animal's tail, which was about a foot long, and carried it into his home. He laid it on the living room floor and went to the kitchen for a drink of water.

This Is One on George.

When he returned an astonishing development had occurred. Instead of lying in the middle of the floor the seemingly dead animal had moved over to the door. It still looked dead, but Johnson took no chances. He ran out for help and found a colored man in front of the house.

To this stranger he related what had happened.

It's the Real Article.

"No, suh," he said in a soft southern drawl, "he ain't playin'. That is possum." A note of admiration crept into his voice. "Boy, you sure are a hunter to ketch a possum on State street without no dogs. And nevah even had to shake him out of a saplin'. He just come right up and laid down and said: 'Here's yoh dinner.'"

"I call him Prosperity," remarked the captor last night. "Times must be better when possums come to State street. Soon as I can get some sweet potatoes we'll cook him."

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Corliss Palmer, estranged wife of Eugene V. Brewster, today was named defendant in a $100,000 suit for alienation of affections filed by the wife of Albert J. Cohen, a business agent for movie writers and players. The plaintiff, Mrs. Estelle A. Cohen, daughter of a Philadelphia manufacturer, accuses the film actress of spending week-ends with her husband in apartments and hotels in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Cohen also filed a suit for divorce. She demands custody of her 5 year old daughter and alimony.

According to Mrs. Cohen the association between her husband and Miss Palmer began in October, 1931.

Miss Palmer lost a similar suit filed in 1926 by Mrs. Eleanor Brewster, former wife of Brewster. Mrs. Brewster won a $200,000 judgment.

T. R. GOWENLOCK ROUTS BURGLARS IN LAKE FOREST

Two burglars were routed early yesterday from the home of Col. Thomas R. Gowenlock, advertising executive, at 413 East Illinois road, Lake Forest, when he interrupted and fired several shots at them.

Mr. Gowenlock fired directly at the men and believes one of them was wounded. Late yesterday police canvassed north shore medical offices and hospitals at the request of Chief Frank Tiffany of Lake Forest, but found no record of any one seeking help for a gunshot wound.

Mr. Gowenlock and wife were awakened by the burglars tampering with a side door. The colonel crept downstairs, but the intruders heard him and fled as he opened fire. The area around the Gowenlock home is heavily wooded.

Favored Insull Stock Buyers Are Classed as "Goats" Now

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The search for the mysterious list of favored individuals who are alleged to have bought the stock of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., at less than the price at which it was put on the market bore fruit yesterday, although the list itself remained as elusive as ever. Several discoveries were made:

1. It was found there is not one list or two lists, but a whole series of lists, because every time additional stock was floated there was an underwriting syndicate, as is customary when stock is offered.

2. It was learned further that, although there were some differences, many of the same individuals and concerns were included in the various underwriting syndicates.

3. One of the lists—that containing the names of those who underwrote a $30,000,000 issue of stock about two years ago—was found to be in the hands of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, which in still collecting from members of the syndicate for a loan made by the bank to the syndicate at the time the stock was offered.

Some Interesting Revelations.

But the interesting disclosures that have come out of the hunt for the names of members of the underwriting syndicates are those which have to do with the financial antics of Samuel Insull and his business relations with those who looked upon him as friend or "angel."

It is possible that discoveries still to be made may change the picture, but on the evidence so far the men who signed up to pull Samuel Insull's chestnuts out of the fire are "goats" rather than crooks.

Some of the participants, it is said, were in the syndicates because they had to be, since Insull happened to be a big customer, but taken as a group the lists, it is claimed, would probably constitute as imposing an array of suckers as has been got together in years.

It now appears that Samuel Insull double crossed them. He not only double crossed a syndicate by leaving its block of stock high and dry in a receding market while demand for the stock was being met with shares from elsewhere, but he also played one syndicate member against another.

Sees Value in Publicity.

"I see no reason why members of a syndicate should object to having their names published, provided the names of all the participants are published," one banker said yesterday.

"There is no stigma attached to belonging to a syndicate unless it be that of gullibility. Publication of the names would reveal that the syndicate members were in good company. Personally, I think it would be a good thing, because it would show that the little fellow wasn't the only one who made mistakes and lost heavily in Insull stocks."

Those who promoted the syndicate, it was learned, got one man to put up $300,000 by telling him that another man had put up a similar amount. Then the second individual was induced to participate by being told that the first one had signed up.

Acts on an Insull Tip.

The case was cited of another individual who went to Insull seeking a tip on the market. He was advised to buy Insull Utility Investments common. He bought $900,000 worth and lost the $900,000.

The collapse of the Insull empire has flooded La Salle street with post mortem stories. Piecing them together, the discovery is made that the plush carpet to Samuel Insull's office was being worn thin by people of high and low degree, all seeking market tips to make a cleanup. They all seemed to get what they went after.

The syndicates organized to sell stocks during the lean years that followed the crash of 1929, according to the evidence gathered so far, were simply part of the almost superhuman efforts to forestall the inevitable wreck.

Insull's Name a Magnet.

The aura of infallibility surrounding Insull was such that even in a declining market when investors had lost confidence in other business enterprises they sought eagerly to ride with Insull.

Thus it was possible for him to organize syndicates to sell stock. But it was not always easy. Although it was not suspected at the time, after Insull Utility Investments, Inc., went into receivership it was discovered that the syndicate organized to float the $30,000,000 stock offering had to be padded with dummy subscriptions from other Insull investment companies. Corporation Securities company, it is understood, is on the list for $14,000,000 of the total of $30,000,000. The syndicate also was partly financed by the bank loan which is still being liquidated.

SLAIN IN HOME

MRS. MARY SINENI.

Mrs. Mary Sineni, 32 years old, the mother of four children, was shot and killed in her apartment at 1212 Frontier avenue yesterday morning.

Neighbors heard two shots. A moment later, Mrs. Sineni staggered down a hall and died on the kitchen threshold of Mrs. Jennie Rizzo, 30 years old. Before she died she said a man had shot her. No one saw the slayer leave the building.

Mrs. Sineni had been supporting herself and her four children with the help of the Joint Emergency Relief fund. Three of her children were in school, and the fourth, Samuel, 2 years old, was present at the time of the tragedy.

The police ordered a search for George Sineni, divorced husband of the woman. Last night Sineni walked into the Hudson avnue station and asserted he knew nothing of the slaying. He was held for the inquest.

PRINCE MICHAEL IN PARIS; BOWS AT NAPOLEON'S TOMB

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 21.—Crown Prince Michael, Rumania's past and future king, already at 11 years a colonel of a guard regiment and known as a fervent, if boyish, admirer of Napoleon, visited that hero's tomb today as the first item of his sojourn in Paris. He arrived on his way to England to visit his mother, Princess Helene, divorced wife of King Carol.

Having satisfied the boyish impulse to hero worship, Michael, accompanied by his father's aid de camp, Col. Trajan Grigorescu, visited the nearby Eiffel tower, the Bois de Boulogne, and the zoo. After a husky dinner he went to the "Cirque," which is the peculiar Paris indoor institution, a cross between a circus and vaudeville.

The arrival of Michael was coincident with the departure of another small prince, Mauloy Hassan, son of the sultan of Morocco, who has been visiting Paris with his youthful father. Moulay is three years old and cute.

The last of a whole series of tricks by him was perpetrated yesterday, when, with a new toy trumpet, he stopped traffic in front of the Hotel Crillon on the Place de la Concorde for several minutes.

The taxi drivers only grinned, being by this time well acquainted through the Paris press with Moulay's cheerful ways, most notable of which was when he asked Premier Herriot the other day for a certain papier mache horse and got it, setting back the Quai d'Orsay expense account 26 francs 70 centimes (almost a dollar).

AL CAPONE ASKS FOR RELEASE; IN COURT ON WRIT

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Al Capone, Chicago gang chief, who entered the federal penitentiary here last May 4 to start serving a 10 year term for income tax evasion, moved unexpectedly through his attorneys today to obtain his release on a writ of habeas corpus.

At 11 a. m. a petition for the writ of habeas corpus was sent to the office of United States Marshal Louis Crawford. It had been issued by Federal Judge Marvin Underwood on the plea of Attorneys William E. Leahy and William Hughes of Washington that a phase of the law had been overlooked in Capone's conviction and sentence.

Hides His Handcuffs.

Capone was taken from his cell and allowed to don the dark suit and light hat which he wore when he entered the prison. He appeared thinner. He was manacled and brought to the courtroom by a squad of guards.

The hearing before Judge Underwood was brief. The judge set Oct. 19 for arguments on the petition and Capone was taken back to prison. The date was set by mutual agreement of the Capone attorneys and the United States district attorneys who will oppose the petition.

Based on Boston Case.

The petition was based upon a decision by the United States Supreme court last April in the case of the United States vs. Schwarton, tried in Boston.

"Schwarton, a Boston broker, was charged with violation of the income tax laws under conditions similar to Capone's case," said Attorney Hughes. "The Supreme court held that the statute of limitations applied after a period of three years, and that offenses committed more than three years before indictment could not result in conviction."

Capone was sentenced for violations of the income tax laws in 1926, 1927, and 1928. His indictment came more than three years after these violations, his attorneys said, and the statute of limitations therefore made his indictment and subsequnt trial and conviction illegal.

ASKS $100,000 OF MRS. BLACKLIDGE FOR LOSS OF LOVE

Placing a cash value of $100,000 on the love and affection of her husband, a patrol wagon driver at the Grand Crossing police station, Mrs. Susanne Nottingham, 35 years old, 7616 Langley avenue, filed suit yesterday in the Superior court against Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, former collector of internal revenue, who now conducts a dress shop at 1519 East 67th street.

Norman E. Nottingham, the policeman, became estranged from his wife last May 15, according to the suit. On that date and other days, the suit declares, Mrs. Blacklidge alienated Nottingham's affections from his wife and thereby damaged her to the extent of $100,000.

Both Women Silent.

"The plaintiff has wholly lost and been deprived of the society, affections, comfort and support of her husband" as a result of the defendant's acts, says the plaintiff in her suit.

Mrs. Nottingham refused to be interviewed or give further details of the alleged alienation, declaring she "didn't want to give her husband unfavorable publicity."

Mrs. Blacklidge declared she had nothing to say.

"I haven't a lawyer and I don't know if I'll get one," she declared. "I suppose four or five persons who want their names in the papers might bring suit on the same charges."

Nottinghams Wed 10 Years.

The Nottinghams have been married ten years and have a 6 year old daughter, Jeanette.

About a year and a half ago Mrs. Blacklidge was accused by Edward R. Litsinger, then a member of the board of review, of having participated in a faro swindle at Springfield, in which he lost $50,000. Mrs. Blacklidge has a suit pending which charges Litsinger with libeling her in his comments on the transaction.

EX-HOTEL OWNER KILLS INVALID WIFE AND SELF

His small fortune lost in the last three years, David Piotke, 58 years old, former hotel owner, yesterday shot and killed his partially paralyzed wife, Etta, 55 years old, and then committed suicide. Their bodies were found by police in their apartment at 4635 Drexel boulevard.

A letter written by Piotke with directions for disposing of the body of himself and his wife was received yesterday by Leo Rosenbloom, 825 East 53d street. He notified the police, who found the bodies.

Friends said that Piotke had seen most of his wealth wiped out by foreclosure proceedings against a hotel and other real estate he owned. He entered the candy manufacturing business with his remaining money and lost all he had, it was said. The couple had no children.

POLICEMAN FIRES ON ROBBERS.

Three Homes Go

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Following the recent death of Lady Beatty, the former Ethel Field of Chicago, Earl Beatty is disposing of his London town house and is also giving up tenancy of two other establishments. The Reigate priory, on his famous Surrey estate, will be leased furnished, and Brooksby hall, in Leicestershire, will be let at a nominal rental. The latter was the meeting place of the Quort and Belvoir hunts. The earl also is disposing of several of his horses.

Hull Pays $200 for Use of U. S. Barge on Junket

William E. Hull of Peoria, lame duck congressman, announced yesterday that he had forwarded a $200 check to the Inland Waterways corporation in Washington for the rental of a steel barge recently used for Len Small's vote getting junket in southern Illinois. The waterways corporation is federally subsidized, and the use of the barge on a so-called "showboat" tour created a controversy involving the question of whether a government boat had been used for political campaign purposes. Charges to this effect by Democrats led to an inquiry by Washington officials.

KAROLYI RESIGNS; HUNGARY FACES MILLIONS DEFICIT

Premier Fails to Curb Interference in Business

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Sept. 21.—The government of Count Julius Karolyi, after just a year in office, resigned today. Count Stephen Bethlen, the real political boss of this country, prepared to take over the reins he relinquished last August when the going became a bit rough due to the financial breakdown of the country.

The reason for the cabinet's resignation has been evident for a long time. When Karolyi assumed office last year at Bethlen's request, he had the support of the latter's well disciplined United party, which enjoys a huge parliamentary majority.

But lately the bankrupt farmers have escaped from the heel of the gentry who form the ruling class in Hungary and at each successive bye-election they have defeated the representatives of the government party.

Karolyi Too Weak.

Bethlen's party of noblemen started to crumble. Karolyi was not strong enough. If something was not done the ruling gentry would be overthrown.

Tomorrow the United party had planned to meet, throw out Karolyi and invite Bethlen back to take a strong hand. Hence Karolyi's resignation. Bethlen, who has been hunting at Lillafuered, left tonight for Budapest to confer with Admiral Horthy, the regent.

Because of the financial scandals connected with his former ten year régime, and his too open flirtations with Italy, which have displeased France, it is believed Bethlen will not be asked to take over power nominally. But he will direct from behind the scenes with Kerasztes-Fischer, present minister of interior, who was regarded as the "strong man," in the premier's seat.

Count Karolyi's self-appointed task of financial rejuvenation was apparently too great for him, as the annual financial report for the fiscal year ending June 30 shows the government's wide plunge into business is costing the taxpayers more than ever. Its deficit is $36,400,000. Half of this was incurred in the state administration proper. The other half was run up by the state's interference in business.

Figures Are Cited.

The state undertakings themselves lost $8,900,000 during the year. The Boletta fund, which is a government subsidy for wheat and rye, showed a deficit of $3,430,000. Other miscellaneous undertakings lost $1,680,000, and the state social insurance fund enjoyed a deficit of $1,660,000.

The provisional figures, subject to later correction, show that the governmental enterprises had a net revenue of $80,300,000, while expenses amounted to $89,300,000.

The largest of all state business losses was that incurred by the state railways. It amounted to $7,600,000, the receipts being $36,300,000 and expenditures $43,900,000.

The state iron, steel, and engineering works also went into the red. Receipts were $2,700,000 against expenditures of $4,900,000.

Postoffice Shows Profit.

The only important government business which paid its way was the postoffice, which closed the year with a favorable balance of $660,000.

Next year the government business enterprises face a still larger deficit. They have been budgeted to balance at $86,890,000, but it has become obvious that the revenues will not amount to anywhere near that amount and that the state will have to make up for a loss even greater than this year.

Experts have suggested that expenditures be cut down 10 per cent in order to make the state undertakings break even, but the suggestion has not been welcomed nor acted upon in official government circles.

CLAIM $7,066 FOR GOWNS SOLD TO EDITH M'CORMICK

A claim of $7,066 was filed against the estate of the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick in the Probate court yesterday by the McAvoy shop, 615 North Michigan avenue. Another claim for $2,540 was filed by the Ravinia Opera company.

The McAvoy shop claim was for the unpaid balance of a bill for $28,121 incurred by Mrs. McCormick between Feb. 4, 1931, and May 10, 1932. The itemized bill from the shop listed 40 hats, 11 bags, 51 gowns, and 20 coats and suits purchased by Mrs. McCormick. The last payment, according to the claim, was a $5,000 check sent on June 21, 1932. Mrs. McCormick died two months later, on Aug. 25.

HARVARD WON'T CUT PAY DESPITE DROP IN REVENUE

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Despite a decreased income from its investments, Harvard university will discharge none of its officers of instruction or administration and will not reduce salaries.

This was announced at university hall today, together with a statement that dining hall rates will be reduced so much this year that students will have a total of more than $150,000 on food bills.

The university, however, has made plans for every economy that does not seriously affect academic work. Budgets of the various departments have been reviewed in detail and savings are being made in all possible non-essential matters.

The fabric looks alike—one is hand-loomed home-spun, and the other is Sawyer-Spun.

The style looks alike, even though the home-spun is custom-tailored by a famous New Haven tailor and the Sawyer-Spun is tailored in a replica of the custom tailor's model.

GOV. ROOSEVELT ASSAILS 'PUBLIC UTILITY BARONS'

Accuses Utility Interests.

The Democratic candidate said he was well aware that in this speech he was sailing in "dangerous waters," and that he must guard against "unseen shoals and rocky reefs." He referred frankly to the charges that he had been ticketed as a "radical" and "unsafe" for American business, and he counter-charged that this was propaganda fostered insidiously by the public utility interests.

"To the people of this country I have but one answer on this subject," Gov. Roosevelt declared dramatically as the finale of his address. "Judge me by the selfish purposes of these utility leaders who have talked of radicalism while they were selling watered stock to the people and using our schools to deceive the coming generation. My policy is as radical as American liberty. As radical as the constitution of the United States.

"Never shall the federal government part with its sovereignty and control over its power resources while I am President of the United States."

Terms Cost Prohibitive.

The reason electrical appliances have not been adopted in the United States as extensively as should be, the governor declared, is because the cost of power is prohibitive. In Canada, where rates are much cheaper, Mr. Roosevelt added, families use more than twice as much electricity as American families.

The governor traced the origin of his theory of the government's responsibility to protect the citizens in the free use of public utilities back to the reign of King James, when the king's chancellor, Lord Hale, handed down a doctrine that a ferryman was serving the public and had no right to charge an exorbitant fee.

Through the intervening two hundred years governments have protected their peoples against oppressive monoplies, Mr. Roosevelt said. He added that he had no objection to the method of control through a public service commission and held that a proper way for the people to protect their interests.

Many "Commissions Fail."

"But in our modern American practice," he said, "the public service commissions of many states have often failed to live up to the high purpose for which they were created. In many instances their selection has been obtained by the public utility corporations themselves. These corporations have often influenced to the prejudice of the public the actions of public service commissions."

Citing the situation as he found it when he became governor of New York, Mr. Roosevelt said he found the New York commission acting merely as an arbitrator between the public on one side and the utilities on the other. He then laid down a principle which he said created "horror and havoc among the Insulls and other magnates of that type."

"I declare," the governor said, "that the commission was created for the purpose of seeing that the utilities, first, give service and, second, charge reasonable rates.

"Tribune of the People."

"The regulating commission, my friends, must be a tribune of the people, putting its engineering, accounting, and legal resources into the breach for the purpose of getting the facts and doing justice to both the consumers and investors in public utilities. This means positive and active protection of the people against private greed."

Candidate Roosevelt quoted from a speech made in the senate by Senator George Norris, radical Republican of Nebraska, who had promised his support to Roosevelt. Senator Norris, said the governor, had cited the results of an investigation which showed that public utility stocks had been watered and that the companies were charging rates based on three, five, and even ten times the money actually invested in them.

Attacks "Insull Monstrosity."

Launching then into his bitter attack of the "Insull monstrosity" the governor said he wished to cite an illustration of the evils which result from the improper secret manipulations of holding companies in the public utility field.

"My illustration," he said, "will show not only the vast extent of operations by some of these great companies but the unsound conditions created by the policies of the federal non-interference which the President of the United Steate still so valiantly maintains.

"The crash of the Insull empire has given excellent point to the truth of what I have been arguing for a long time.

"The great 'Insull monstrosity' made up of a group of holding and investing companies, and exercising control over hundreds of thousands of operating companies, had distributed securities among hundreds of thousands of investors, and had taken their money to an amount running over one and a half billions of dollars.

Methods Termed Unsound.

"The 'Insull monstrosity' grew during the years of prosperity until it reached a position where it was an important factor in the lives of millions of people. The name was magic. The investing public did not realize then as it does now that the methods used in building up of these holding companies were wholly contrary to every sound public policy.

"They did not realize that there should be arbitrary write-ups of assets, inflation of vast capital accounts. They did not realize that excessive prices had been paid for property acquired. They did not realize that the expense of financing had been capitalized. They did not realize that payments of dividends had been made out of capital.

"They did not realize that sound subsidiaries had been milked and milked to keep alive the weaker sisters in the great chain. They did not realize that there had been borrowings and lendings—an interchange of assets, of liabilities and of capital between the component parts of the whole. They did not realize that all these conditions necessitated terrific overcharges for service by these corporations.

Says Failure Opens Eyes.

"The Insull failure has opened our eyes. It shows us that the development of these financial monstrosities was such as to compel ultimate ruin; that practices had been indulged in, that suggest the old days of railroad wildcatting; that private manipulation had outsmarted the slow moving power of government.

"As always, the public paid and paid dearly. As always, the public is beginning to understand the need for reform after the same public has been fleeced out of millions of dollars.

"I have spoken of a 'new deal' for the American people. I believe that that 'new deal' can be applied very definitely to the relationship between the electric utilities on the one side, and the consumer and the investor on the other. True regulation is for the equal benefit of the consumer and the investor, and the only man who will suffer from true regulation is the speculator, or the unscrupulous promoter who levies tribute equally from the man who is buying the service and from the man who invests his savings in this great industry."

Lays Down Principle.

Going then to his stand that the government should be permitted to operate power sites where private enterprise has failed in the public interest, Gov. Roosevelt laid down the following principle:

"That where a community—a city or county or a district—is not satisfied with the service rendered or the rates charged by the private utility, it has the undeniable right as one of its functions of government, one of its functions of home rule, to set up after a fair referendum has been taken, its own governmentally owned and operated service.

"The fact that a community can, by vote of the electorate, create a yardstick of its own, will, in most cases, guarantee good service and low rates to its population. I might call the right of the people to own and operate their own utility a 'birch rod in the cupboard to be taken out and used only when the child gets beyond the point where a mere scolding does any good.'"

"That is the principle that applies to communities. I would apply the same principles to the federal and state governments.

"State owned or federal owned power sites can and should properly be developed by government itself. When so developed private capital should be given the first opportunity to transmit and distribute the power on the basis of the best service and the lowest rates to give a reasonable profit only. The right of the federal government and state governments to go further and transmit and distribute where reasonable and good service is refused by private capital gives to government, vise the people, that same very essential 'birch rod' in the cupboard."

"I have opposed the government undertaking the operation of the power business and I shall continue in this opposition."

His own stand, repeated from Roosevelt's first inaugural speech as governor of New York on Jan. 1, 1929, reiterated by him tonight, the governor quoted as follows:

"The water power of the state should belong to all the people."

"The title to this power must rest forever in the people," the governor continued. "No commission—not the legislature itself—has any right to give for any consideration whatever, a single potential kilowatt in virtual perpetuity to any person or corporation whatever. It is the duty of our representative bodies to see that this power is transferred into usable electrical energy and distributed at the lowest possible cost. It is our power—and no inordinate profits must be allowed to those who act as the people's agent in bringing this power to their homes and workshops."

Four Projects Cited.

Gov. Roosevelt named four major electrical power projects in the United States—the St. Lawrence river in the northeast; Muscle Shoals in the southeast; Boulder dam [the Democratic candidate did not call it by its new name of "Hoover dam"] in the southwest, and the Columbia river in the northwest.

"Each one of these," he added, "will forever be a national yardstick to prevent extortion against the public and to encourage the wider use of that servant of the people—electricity.

"The power issue, when vigorously handled in the public interests means abundant and cheaper current for American industry, reduced rates and increased use in millions of urban and rural homes and preservation of our water power resources in coordination with flood control reclamation and irrigation."

Talks to Farmers.

Earlier in the day the governor had an opportunity to speak briefly to a farmer audience on his hopes for improving their lot.

He drove out to Gresham, on the outskirts of Portland, to address the Multnomah county Pomona grange, and to several thousand farmers and their families he reviewed his plan for changing the farmers' headaches to profits.

Gov. Roosevelt was well introduced to the crowds of farmers at Gresham by Grange Master George Gill, a Republican, who spoke rather bitterly of agriculture having had "three doctors" and "gradually getting sicker and sicker." He said the time was ripe for getting a new doctor or making the old doctor change his medicine.

Telling of the program he announced in his farm speech at Topeka last week, Gov. Roosevelt held that the tariff revisions and national planning would give permanent relief, and that meanwhile a domestic tariff on basic farm products should be applied for immediate emergency relief.

Tells of New York Record.

The governor got a big hand from the crowd when he told of saving the people of New York state $24,000,000 a year in taxes, and promised to apply the same yardstick of economy to the federal budgets.

Returning to Portland, the governor entered into conferences with party leaders and other prominent citizens. One of his major conferences was with Gov. Julius L. Meier, a wealthy Portland merchant who rather reluctantly became an independent candidate to defeat a political ring and was elected.

Gov. Meier, a Republican, denied reports that he might openly indorse Gov. Roosevelt. He said his call was a courtesy, intended to extend to the New Yorker the hospitality of the state of Oregon. Gov. Meier's views on power developments are practically identical with those expressed by Gov. Roosevelt.

Crowd Cheers Him.

Gov. Roosevelt was welcomed into Portland by a cheering crowd, but his reception was marred somewhat by an almost complete lack of order in the police control of the thousands who lined the streets.

Local Democrats on the reception committee declared a Republican city administration was deliberately attempting to befuddle the effect of a triumphant entry by Roosevelt. The local newspapers, principally the Portland Oregonian, stanch Republican organ, printed nothing on the line of parade to be followed by the governor and failed even to publish a program of the events.

ROOSEVELT TO TELL BONUS STAND AFTER STUDY OF PROBLEM

Portland, Ore., Sept. 21.—(AP)—The Associated Press has been reliably informed Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will comment upon the soldier bonus payment some time during the first half of October, perhaps in his second campaign trip to the middle west and south.

The Democratic presidential candidate again today at a press conference, as he has throughout the present campaign journey, refrained from expressing himself on the veterans' demands for immediate payment of adjusted compensation certificates.

The Associated Press has been informed his advisers are preparing information on the bonus and the complete financial condition of the government and business in general. The governor is said to be preparing to make a complete study of the veterans' hospitalization and disability costs.

They departed for the east at 1 o'clock this morning. The boys are returning to school. Their journey started at Manila.

FRANCE, BRITAIN WARN U. S. TO GO "EASY ON JAPAN"

Europeans Wish to Avoid Antagonizing Nippon.

PARIS, Sept. 21.—(AP)—France and England were understood in authoritative American circles tonight to have given Senator David A. Reed an impression of "caution and reserve" on the subjects of Manchuria and Japan.

This became known as the Pennsylvania senator left for the Riviera after conversations in London and Paris with Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon of Great Britain, and Premier Herriot of France.

It was emphatically pointed out that while Senator Reed had no official mission or authority to conclude agreements, he did receive first hand knowledge in his capacity as a senator.

Wary on Antagonizing Japan.

It was believed the Pennsylvanian found both France and England "attached to the sanctity of treaties" and displaying, as well, "a certain caution and reserve as to what concrete attitudes will be adopted in the Manchurian affair."

The impression gleaned in an authoritative American quarter is that neither England nor France wishes to antagonize Japan and that they want to keep her, like Gemany, as a great power in the league of nations and within the framework of world peace organisms generally.

The concrete position of England and France probably will not be fixed until the Lytton report on Manchuria is discussed in Geneva, probably after the American elections.

Edge Keeps Hoover Advised.

Ambassador Walter E. Edge officially is keeping Washington informed of his impression and, like Senator Reed, will personally consult with the administration as guide in the American diplomatic course.

Both Senator Reed and Ambassador Edge are preparing to participate in the coming election campaign in the United States. In fact, the ambassador is starting for home tomorrow, and after reporting on negotiations for a Franco-American commercial treaty will devote his time to other affairs.

Senator Reed, after a brief stay on the Riviera, will sail for home on Sept. 29. He will report first on his conversations in Paris and London.

Edge Summoned Home.

The embassy announced this afternoon that Mr. Edge had been summoned to Washington. After consulting with the state department there he will have a brief vacation at his home in New Jersey, returning here later with Mrs. Edge and their children, who have been in Maine this summer.

Today he received the French proposals regarding a trade treaty. Persons close to embassy affairs said they were conciliatory. Negotiations for the treaty have continued over a period of many weeks. It was understood that the French proposal is in the form of a draft treaty which was described at the embassy as "containing the basis for a favorable agreement."

HOOVER DEMOCRATIC CLUB QUARTERS ARE OPENED IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Politicians were somewhat mystified when it was announced that headquarters had been opened at the Hotel Commodore for the Hoover Democratic clubs, said to have been organized in sixteen states in the east, with Meyer Solmson as executive director. Mr. Solmson is a member of the Tammany Hall general committee.

If Mr. Solmson's plans are carried out, the personnel of the executive committee, said to include some prominent Democrats, is to be made public, and there will be a speaking campaign.

Mr. Solmson asked himself the question: "Are the Hoover Democratic clubs sponsored by friends of Alfred E. Smith and the dethroned Mayor James J. Walker?" and answered it thus:

"They are not. Nevertheless, it is quite reasonable to infer that the enrollment includes many admirers and supporters of the former governor and the former mayor."

STATE, NATIONAL CANDIDATES LEFT OFF G. O. P. SIGNS

The appearance of billboard advertising calling attention to the candidacies of Republican candidates on the county ticket, but omitting reference to the Republican national and state candidates, attracted the attention yesterday of leaders in the Democratic party.

"It is an open secret," said Patrick A. Nash, chairman of the Democratic county central committee, "that downstate the candidates on the Republican ticket have cut loose from the presidential candidate and that some of their workers are even offering to support the Democratic presidential candidate in return for the support of the Republican candidate for governor.

"Now it would appear that in Cook county the Republican county candidates have gone the state candidates one better, and have cut loose not only from the presidential candidate but also from the state candidates."

Seized in Plot to Extort Money from a Physician

Frank Miller, 42 years old, 459 West 41st street, was arrested yesterday by Lieut. William V. Blaul of the state's attorney's office on a charge of trying to extort $600 from Dr. M. E. Davis, 5841 Maryland avenue. Miller confessed that he had written letters to Dr. Davis demanding payment of the money on threats of making untrue accusations against him. Sergt. Martin Boyle, posing as a special delivery messenger, took a decoy letter to an address given in the extortion letters. When Miller accepted the document Boyle called Lieut. Blaul and the arrest was made. Miller said he was recently placed on probation for rifling the mails.

G. A. R. VETERANS PARADE AGAIN IN OLD TIME SPIRIT

Springfield Resounds to Drum and Fife.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic paraded today through the streets of Springfield with pomp and pride worthy of returning Roman legions in triumphant procession. Some 75,000 spectators lined the way.

Infirmities, attested by the canes of two out of three of the 800 comrades, were scorned, as were Boy Scouts who offered assistance, and only five who left with the starting cannon dropped out before finishing the one mile parade. Another 350, too old and too feeble to keep up with the marchers, brought up the rear in automobiles, shouting and waving to the crowds.

Old Fashioned Parade.

It was an old fashioned civil war parade, as Commander in Chief Samuel P. Town had ordered, with muskets and banners glittering in the sun and fife and drum corps playing the stirring tunes of "Marching Through Georgia," "The Girl I Left Behind Me," "Yankee Doodle," and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

The veterans, even those hobbling along with canes, bore themselves erect and stepped lively to the two-four time of the music. Some of them went into as snappy a jig as their grandchildren could hope to put on when the march was halted for the movie cameraman and the bands struck up "Yankee Doodle."

The spectators stood ten deep on both sides of the route, which began at 4th street and Capitol avenue, circled around the courthouse, and terminated at 6th and Jackson streets.

Spirit Undimmed by Years.

Veterans of the G. A. R. who haven't missed many of the sixty-five previous annual encampments said the parade equaled, not in numbers, by far, but in spirit, any they had seen.

Many of the marchers, perhaps most of them, will never march again at an annual encampment, for last year more than a fourth of the total G. A. R. membership died, and the percentage grows higher each year.

But the boys in blue were not thinking of that. The past, restored by the old tunes and old faces, in some instances not seen in sixty-seven years, and the present, with its grateful tribute from the multitude, filled them with jubilation.

They waved and threw kisses at the school children, stepped to the sidelines during pauses to kiss babies on the cheek and pat their mothers on the shoulder, autographed books for Girl Scouts, smiled for the photographers and—in at least one instance—harangued the spectators about the glorious battles of the army of the Potomac.

Commander Heads Parade.

Commander in Chief Frank C. Huston of the Sons of Union Veterans and his assistants in an automobile preceded the parade, and was followed by another car in which was Commander in Chief Town smilingly bowing right and left.

Forty men marched in the contingent of the National Association of Civil War Musicians of the G. A. R., led by Bert B. Child, Nevada, Ia. In this big fife and drum corps, the first of a long series to come, were 18 veterans of the G. A. R., pounding their snare drums and tooting their fifes with the untiring zeal that has kept them up—as well as lots of other people—until midnight, serenading on the street corners since the opening of the encampment.

R. S. McGeehon of Atlantic, Ia., 93 and the oldest of the association's 104 members, carried and beat the great bass drum, and was the idol of the crowds all along the line of march.

Wisconsin Leads States.

The department of Wisconsin, following the precedence custom, came first in the line of state delegations, headed by the Beloit fife and drum corps. Illinois, the home state of the G. A. R., comes first at all other encampments, but being the host state, it was assigned to bring up the rear.

Illinois had the largest representation with 112, and other large delegations were from Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kansas, and Indiana. Texas, Montana, and Georgia had only one each, but their delegates marched as proudly behind the banners of the state department, their state, and the United States flags, carried by Boy Scouts, as any of the big delegations. Louisiana and Mississippi each had three representatives, all Negroes.

The fife and drum corps of the New York contingent brought a new note to the procession, playing "The Sidewalks of New York," and the Maine unit, not to be outdone, rendered the "Stein Song." Seven comrades marched behind the standards and fife and drum corps of Maine, and each was supported by a woman relative.

Ready for More at Close.

After the big parade was over the veterans poured into the lobbies of their hotels, particularly the Abraham Lincoln, without any show of weariness, eager to find out what was coming up next.

Interest centered in the election of a commander in chief, for all the state departments have held caucuses and the backers of each of the three candidates claim certain victory. But supporters of Capt. William P. Wright, Chicago, claim he has all the states which will vote as units, east of the Mississippi river and a lot more west. Col. Russell C. Martin of California and Harding I. Merrill of Kansas already are being called "favorite son" candidates.

The delegates were too busy this afternoon with organization work and committee deliberations, to be followed at night with the annual campfire meeting to elect officers, and this will be done tomorrow. They did, however, take time to select St. Paul as the site of the 1933 encampment over Grand Rapids, Mich., by a vote of 247 to 207.

HORNER STANDS FOR HOME RULE, SLASH IN COSTS

Favors Consolidations as Economy Moves.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Decatur, Ill., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Complete autonomy to cities which have demonstrated their ability to run their own affairs economically and efficiently is the home rule program of Judge Henry Horner, Democratic candidate for governor.

This he promised in speeches before crowds at Clinton and Decatur today. "The life of the nation is built upon pride of community," the judge declared, "and the basic theory of democracy is local self-government. Consolidation should be resorted to in the case of overlapping governments within a county if the expenses of operation can be reduced and if the localities want consolidation.

Would Guard Rights.

"But my belief is that state legislation should be passed to enable rather than compel such consolidation. In Illinois there are scores of municipalities which have demonstrated great pride in maintaining their divisions of government at the highest standards. No consolidation should deprive them of the right to run their own affairs efficiently and economically. A full measure of home rule in all matters that do not affect the state as a whole is my thought on the matter.

These declarations found favor with the Horner audiences today. They were no less interested in his reiteration of the promise to rip deadwood from the pay roll tree and limit the state employés to the number necessary to carry on the work of the state and to prune useless bureaus and commissions.

Pledges Economy Régime.

"Under my administration," he said, "not one dollar of taxes shall be collected that shall not be necessary for essential public service for maintaining public institutions and for caring for the wards of the state."

To refute the subsurface charges leveled by those opposing his candidacy that he favors a plan of "Chicago domination," Judge Horner also devoted considerable time to an exposition of his plan for senatorial reapportionment wherein control of the state senate would be guaranteed downstate while Chicago would be given full representation in the house.

"With this protection thus given each section of the state I feel that the same harmony of action will be obtained as was procured by the adoption of the constitution of the United States with its compromise between the big and little states, and which has resulted in our present federal system," Judge Horner said.

Republicans at Dinner.

An indication of growing sentiment in his favor was given the judge tonight at a dinner in his honor at the Decatur club attended by ninety prominent Republicans. Robert I. Hunt was host.

Tomorrow Judge Horner and his tour companions, John C. Martin, candidate for state treasurer, and Martin A. Brennan, candidate for congressman at large, will visit Effingham and Fairfield and will spend the night at Mount Vernon, where the first of Friday's meetings will be held.

BEATEN AND ROBBED IN SHOP.

Beaten unconscious by two bandits Tuesday night, Francisco Perio, 60 years old, lay for twelve hours in his shoe repair shop at 913½ North State street. He was discovered yesterday morning. Perio told police the robbers took $2,500 in postal saving certificates.

Former Judge, a Republican Veteran, Is Out for Horner

Declaring that he felt it would be a disgrace for Illinois to elect Len Small governor again, Charles L. Barnes, former Republican county judge of McHenry county, in a statement issued in his home in Woodstock yesterday, announced his support of Judge Henry Horner, the Democratic nominee. He urged other Republicans to follow his lead.

His announcement was regarded by Democratic leaders in Chicago as significant of an overwhelming trend against Smallism in the state. McHenry county, always strongly Republican, went five to one for Harding in 1920 and two to one for Hoover in 1928. Claims have been advanced that the county will give Horner a majority on Nov. 8.

Assails Small Machine.

After asserting that he had never voted anything but the Republican ticket since 1884, except in 1912, when he was a Bull Mooser, former Judge Barnes said:

"I realize that Frank L. [Insull] Smith of Dwight, who was twice refused a seat in the United States senate, along with a former mayor of Chicago and thousands of Small's former office holders and many others who hope to obtain jobs, are all earnestly working to elect Small governor.

"Is it possible that the voters of Chicago and the state have forgotten how the Republican mayor, with his hungry crowd of tax eating pay rollers, brought financial ruin and bankruptcy to the city of Chicago?

Recalls "$1,000,000 Looting."

"Can Republicans be expected to vote for Small when it is still fresh in their memories how he and his crowd looted our state treasury of over $1,000,000 of the taxpayers' money, as is fully shown by the decision of the Supreme court of our state?

"In their anxiety to eat again from the public crib the former officeholders under Small seem to have forgotten how assessments were levied upon them to help make up the million dollars that Small, as state treasurer, had wrongfully taken from our taxpayers.

"I have never met Judge Horner, but my many lawyer friends and other acquaintances in Chicago are unanimous in expressing themselves that he has been an honest, fair, and impartial judge, and my vote for governor at the coming election will be cast for him."

COURT UPHOLDS OAK PARK MAN IN ESTATE CASE

A decree vindicating John F. Flanigan, Oak Park manufacturer, who as trustee had been charged with misappropriating funds from the $100,000 estate left to Francis O'Keefe, 21 years old, a senior at Notre Dame university, was entered yesterday by Judge Joseph Burke in the Circuit court.

Young O'Keefe's bill was filed in October of last year. He charged that Flanigan, who had been appointed executor of the estate after the death of his father, Frank, had engaged in rash speculation, used large sums for his own son, and had neglected the care of his property.

After a hearing before Master in Chancery Roswell B. Mason the charges were withdrawn by O'Keefe. Judge Burke approved all of the trustee's transactions.

CRIPPLE FOUND SLAIN.

Chateau, Mont., Sept. 21.—(AP)—George Burrell, 42 year old crippled cigar store proprietor here, was found dead in his store today. Police said Burrell had been struck on the head with a heavy weapon and then strangled with a light cord.

VATICAN AGREES TO PLAY AT WAR IN ITALIAN 'RAID'

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The Vatican agreed today to coöperate with the Italian government in its plan to stage an experimental mock air raid on Rome on Sept. 28.

The government asked the Vatican to follow the rules for extinguishing lights which have been issued to the civilian population, explaining that otherwise Vatican City would be a "sighting point" for the enemy raiders.

Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, agreed that the Vatican and also the extraterritorial buildings belonging to the Vatican would be darkened at the proper time.

FOUND DEAD BESIDE TRACKS.

A man about 37 years old, identified by papers in his pockets as William Delaney of Wauseon, O., was found dead yesterday afternoon beside the Chicago and North Western railroad tracks at Irving Park boulevard. He apparently had been struck by a train.

DIAGNOSE ILLNESS OF BORAH'S WIFE AS PARROT FEVER

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The illness of Mrs. William E. Borah, wife of Senator Borah, was diagnosed today by her physician as psittacosis, or "parrot fever."

A bulletin issued this afternoon by Dr. Ralph Falk, Mrs. Borah's physician, said the nature of the ailment was discovered after an earlier diagnosis had indicated she was suffering from influenza.

Mrs. Borah has been in a local hospital for a week with a high fever. Her condition was reported daily as serious.

"I was informed yesterday," said Dr. Falk's statement, "that a parrakeet belonging to Mrs. Borah had died. This bird was sent to Boise from California. Upon investigation I find that psittacosis has been reported in California parrakeets. The conclusion has been reached that Mrs. Borah has psittacosis."

He reported Mrs. Borah improved.

IOWA FARMERS MEET TO DRAFT RELIEF PROGRAM

Brookhart May Run on Third Party Ticket.

Moville, Ia., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Braving a chill rain that blocked previous plans for an open air meeting, approximately 3,000 farmers gathered here this afternoon to draft a legislative program of farm relief for presentation to Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa.

Taking a new course in their fight for higher prices for their products, the farmers, many of them active in recent picketing of highways in this vicinity, hoped to add congressional action to their own efforts in withholding products from market until prices reach a cost of production basis.

The meeting fell on the day in which a concerted movement began in Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Iowa, and Oklahoma to withhold nonperishable products for 30 days.

Two Million Asked to Join.

Two million farmers were asked by the National Farmers' Holiday association to join in the program, a peaceful drive that does not include picketing and violence which characterized early stages of the farm strike.

Farmers in Ohio, Wisconsin, Kansas and Illinois have shown interest in the movement and were expected to join.

Senator Brookhart, asked to "start our battle and organize senators from other agricultural states," rushed here by train from Washington to speak at today's meeting, which was held in a lumber company shed.

Early Decision Expected.

A move is under way here to place Senator Brookhart in the Iowa senatorial race as a third party candidate. He was defeated for the Republican nomination last June by Henry Field of Shenandoah. The third party will meet at Washington, Ia., Brookhart's home town, Sept. 26, at which time he is expected to make his decision.

Ed A. Ellison, leader in organizing the meeting here, was the chairman. He said a committee had begun work on a program of farm relief recommendations which would be turned over to Brookhart.

Picketing Virtually Ceases.

Virtually all picketing activity had ceased today. Around Worthington, Minn., latest focal point of the road blockades, a few members of the Nobles County Holiday association took to the highways as "observers." They said they hoped to determine what was being shipped and its source. They found no trucks on the highways, however.

The new strike program will permit the movement of perishable farm products, such as eggs, butter, and cream. If a general price increase is not noted in thirty days, however, the holiday leaders intend to place these products under the ban also.

LINDBERGH KIDNAP HOAXER'S FIRM FILES BANKRUPTCY PETITION

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The J. H. Curtis Boat and Engine corporation, organized by John Hughes Curtis, convicted in New Jersey of obstructing justice in connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping case, today filed a petition in bankruptcy.

No liabilities or assets have been listed.

Curtis was formerly president of the corporation, but following the Lindbergh case business fell off and application was made to the state corporation commission for permission to change the name of the concern to the Hague Boat corporation. The application was not pressed and the matter was dropped.

Council Gets Proposal for a Port Authority

The creation of a port authority that would govern shipping in the Chicago metropolitan area was proposed yesterday in a legislative bill sent by Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, to the city council for its consideration. Under the terms of the bill there would be created a body to be known as the interstate board of authority of Illinois and Indiana which would have supervision of shipping along the lake front from the Wisconsin state line to that of Michigan. The bill was drafted by Rufus W. Putnam, director of the Chicago regional port commission, an unofficial body.

VOTES UNHORSE LA FOLLETTE AND BLAINE

Kohler Is 92,500 Ahead; Chapple 18,000.

next move of the La Follettites. Democrats are hopeful the "Madison dynasty" will vote for their state ticket, as it appears much more than likely the La Follette managers will not support Kohler and Chapple. Rumors were current that La Follette and Blaine might run as independents, but neither has vouchsafed definite comment.

As fuller returns came in they bore out forecasts that a record breaking vote would be cast at the primaries. Indications are that it will run close to 900,000, total of all parties, or about 200,000 more than two years ago.

High taxes, "wild jackassism," high cost of government and unemployment relief were the outstanding issues in the Republican primaries. The response to the conservative view of these questions which put over Kohler and Chapple came from rural regions and industrial centers alike. Precincts in which the factory vote predominates voted for Kohler and Blaine. Two years ago mill workers in these same precincts carried Phil La Follette on their shoulders when he spoke at the factory gates.

Chapple Triumph Spectacular.

The triumph of the 32 year old editor, Chapple, over Blaine, second of the "sons of the wild jackass" to be beaten this year, Brookhart drawing the premier defeat, is accounted even more of a political upset than Kohler's victory over Phil La Follette.

In sending Blaine back to Boscobel, Chapple in his first venture into politics has vanquished one of the most adroit members of the La Follette machine. Chapple gave the conservative regular campaign its tone and pace. He is a Yale graduate and a Legionnaire, and for months he has been traveling up and down the state turning upon the La Follettites the same "treat 'em rough" platform tactics for which for years they have been celebrated.

The "La Follette political racket" was Chapple's first topic. He pictured the "dynasty" at Madison as applying to Wisconsin politics the racketeering methods of Al Capone and organized gangland. He told the voters that the "political blackjack" applied in the interests of "10,000 racketeering pay rollers" was driving industries out of the state, that La Follettеism was Red, and that Moscow had its eye on Wisconsin as a laboratory for communist-Socialist propaganda.

Communism Target of Attack.

Like a youthful Jeremiah, Chapple in speeches and booklets turned loose upon the La Follette group a scorching torrent that for the first time in the history of the old machine placed it on the defensive. He went after the University of Wisconsin, charging that radicals on the campus have turned the university into a hotbed of communism. He said pinks and reds were on the faculty, and that among the student body professors are spreading the seeds of communism, free love, and atheism.

His attacks led President Glenn Frank of the university to call a convocation at which Chapple's charges were denied. Upon the voters, the Chapple onslaught appeared to have a profound effect. The young editor drew tremendous audiences; the women voters appeared especially strong for him. The cry of atheism seemed to shock a large part of the electorate. It was recognized by the La Follette group as a deadly menace to the old machine. They spoke of it as devastating.

Wheeler Invades State.

To make things uncomfortable for Chapple the machine began dragging him away from speaking engagements to answer questions at Madison about his income tax. It served to put Chapple somewhat into the rôle of a martyr, for nothing was dug up.

From the La Follettite throats welled up a Macedonian cry. To the rescue rushed Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana. He toured the state seeking to vamp the Democrats into voting in the Republican primaries for Blaine and Phil La Follette. Wheeler in 1924 was running mate for the late "Fighting Bob" when he ran for the White House.

Democratic leaders sought to chase Wheeler out of the state, charging he was trying to wreck the party.

Kohler a Manufacturer.

Ex-Gov. Kohler is a manufacturer of bath tubs and other plumbing appurtenances. After he broke the La Follette delegate slate in 1925 he became candidate for governor and was elected. Two years ago La Follette beat him, Kohler being victim of the depression and of the gibes of the La Follette men at "Hoover prosperity still around the corner."

In the present campaign Mr. Kohler took the ground that the first step to end the depression is to cut the cost of government. As a climax to his campaigning he submitted a proposal for a $16,000,000 reduction in taxes.

His second exhordium was that industry must be built up by changes in the Wisconsin tax situation which would keep it from driving industries out of the state. Industry, he sets forth, means employment; more factories mean more jobs, which means purchasing power, an essential thing if the depression is to cease. Kohler told them it is more important to build up individual incomes than to increase income taxes for the payment of armies of tax eating pay rollers.

Hatchet men sprung up all over the state bearing in their lapels tin hatchets with the words "Cut Costs with Kohler."

KOHLER, VICTOR OVER LA FOLLETTE, THANKS WISCONSIN VOTERS

Kohler, Wis., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Walter J. Kohler, who won the Republican gubernatorial nomination, today issued a statement in which he thanked Wisconsin citizens for their confidence in and approval of the policies he had proposed. The statement:

"The citizens of Wisconsin by the very large majority vote cast have most emphatically voiced their sentiments for the constructive kind of state administration advocated by our ticket during the primary campaign just closed. It is splendid evidence of the character of our citizens who have a substantial stake in Wisconsin and who have the deepest interest in the future stability and prosperity of our state.

"It will be my purpose, with the cooperation of the legislature, to inaugurate a program of state economy and stimulation of productive enterprises and employment to the greatest possible extent with the purpose of benefiting workmen, farmers and other citizens, for only through the well being of all will Wisconsin progress and prosper as it should."

La Follette to Fight On.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Gov. Philip F. La Follette, defeated by Walter J. Kohler for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in yesterday's primary election, today issued the following statement:

"At the close of the campaign, I said, as I say now, the issues involved transcend personalities or the political fate of any individual. These issues involve the right of the average man to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Greater men than any now living gave their lives to the advancement of that cause and went to temporary defeat fighting for its principles.

"I am enlisted in the progressive movement for life. In or out of public office I shall do all in my power to advance the principles for which it stands. This contest will go on until it is won."

Chapple's Statement.

Ashland, Wis., Sept. 21.—(AP)—John B. Chapple, who won the Republican United States senatorial nomination in yesterday's primary, issued a statement today which said in part:

"The defeat of the La Follette racket marks a turning point not alone in the history of Wisconsin but of the nation. To have had the opportunity to serve in this great cause is far greater than any matter of personal victory or defeat. The hundreds of men and women workers throughout Wisconsin, inspired fighters for America and for the American home, have by their devotion and energy brought victory to Wisconsin and to the nation."

WISCONSIN VOTE, MARKETS CHEER HOOVER FORCES

See Signs of Change in Sentiment.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Republican hopes were buoyed today by the results in the Wisconsin primary, the bulge in the stock market, and receipt of more optimistic political reports on the Hoover prospects in the middle west.

The La Follette radicals, including Senator John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.], long have been severe critics of the administration and their downfall in the Wisconsin primary was interpreted as a good omen at the White House. While leading Republicans were inclined to agree that the defeat of Gov. Philip La Follette and Senator Blaine was in part due to a desire on the part of the electorate to throw the "ins" out, the consensus was that the Wisconsin results indicated a national conservative trend.

Had Supported Roosevelt.

Republican officials pointed to the fact that the radical group had hailed Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic nominee for the presidency, as their candidate to succeed President Hoover. Attention also was directed to the fact that the La Follette defeat followed the action of Iowa voters in turning out Senator Smith Brookhart [Rad. Rep.] in the Iowa primary.

President Hoover was represented today as pleased with the reaction to the announcement that he would speak at Des Moines, Ia., on the farm problem on Oct. 4. Reports reaching the capital were to the effect that the Hoover prospects were slowly improving in the doubtful middle western states. The President also was informed that the reaction to the Roosevelt speech had not been as favorable to the Democratic candidate as had first been indicated.

Kansas Leader Optimistic.

In a letter to a Washington official David A. Mulvane, Republican national committeeman from Kansas, said he was optimistic that his state would be found in the Hoover column when returns were counted. Mr. Mulvane reported that the overturn of Republican candidates in Maine had had the effect of goading Republican leaders into greater activity in behalf of the whole ticket.

In this connection it was learned that since the Maine primary an administration spokesman has been quietly calling the attention of leading Republican candidates including some radicals to the need for concerted work if the whole party is not to meet overwhelming defeat. Republicans who have not been friendly with the White House have been told they must work with the President if the trend toward Roosevelt is to be counterbalanced.

Plans 3 Major Speeches.

Callers at the White House today said that the President had told them that he plans to make but three major speeches outside Washington during the campaign. The third speech is to be delivered in the middle west, probably in Illinois, Ohio or Michigan following Gov. Roosevelt's second trip to the west in October.

First indication of the White House attitude toward the Wisconsin primary results came this morning when Secretary of the Treasury Mills emerged from the President's office following an hour's conference.

"The Wisconsin results were very refreshing," he said. "It appears that you do not have to be a radical to win elections after all. The Wisconsin primary may mean that the old rabbit-in-the-hat thing is not working today."

UPSTATE DRYS IN NEW YORK DEFEAT WETS

Party Machines Crush Opposition.

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Overwhelming victories for party machines were the universal rule in yesterday's New York primaries, almost complete returns showed today, with little evidence of any rebellious tendency on the part of the voters.

Hastings Is Winner.

State Senator John Hastings, who figured prominently in the Equitable bus section of the Hofstadter investigation, also won overwhelmingly, though his majority was less than that of Representative Emanuel Celler, who was renominated for congress.

The most significant upstate dry victory was in the 33d congressional district, where Representative Frederick M. Davenport of Oneida won handily over Daniel F. Srobel, a wet.

Another major dry victory was in the 30th district, where Representative Frank Crowther was renominated over John Barnes, wet banker of Amsterdam.

Representative Francis D. Culkin was renominated in the 32d district and Daniel A. Reed in the 33d. Both are drys and both were opposed by wets.

The chief consolation given the wets was the renomination of John D. Clarke in the 34th district over the opposition of Leon Ray Steenburg, dry.

Mr. Clarke is regarded as a moderate wet and was opposed by the W. C. T. U. Two outright wets, Walter Gresham Andrews, 40th district, and Edmund F. Cooke, 41st, also defeated dry opposition.

Representative Gale H. Stalker, pronounced dry and sponsor of the "five and ten" prohibition enforcement law, defeated Sterling Cole of Bath, his wet opponent, by 132 votes in the five counties comprising the 37th congressional district.

Youngman Wins in Bay State.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Returns from all but nine election precincts tonight showed that William S. Youngman won the Republican nomination for governor by about 30,000 votes in yesterday's primary. The vote on the 1,689 precincts reported gave Youngman 208,630 votes to 177,136 for his opponent, Frank A. Goodwin, chairman of the Boston finance commission.

All congressmen running for reelection appeared to have won renomination. In the 5th district George H. Norton, former secretary to Representative Charles L. Underhill who declined to stand for reelection appeared to have won the nomination on the Republican ticket. The Democrats named Arthur D. Healy.

College Treasurer Ousted; Books Show Shortage

Brunswick, Me., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Bowdoin college officials announced tonight that John C. Thalheimer, bursar of the college since 1926, had been relieved of the office because of "discrepancies and inaccuracies in his accounts." The statement said the college was "protected by a bonding company for the shortage, which is not great in amount."

KILLED BY AUTO.

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 21.—While walking across the street near his home last night, Franklin Leigh, 76, was struck and fatally injured by a car driven by L. C. Hochsledler.

CONGRESS RACES SPLIT, 5 TO 5, IN WISCONSIN VOTE

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—In the congressional races, returns from the primary election indicated today that the Republican candidates for the ten congressional seats will be composed of five Conservatives and five Progressives. In four of the districts there was some doubt as to the outcome.

The candidates who appeared certain for nomination were:

Conservatives: George Blanchard of Edgerton, First district; John C. Schafer, Milwaukee, Fourth; Louis B. Fellenz, Fond du Lac, Sixth.

Stone, Farm Board Head, in Johns Hopkins Hospital

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 21.—(AP)—James C. Stone, chairman of the federal farm board, was under observation tonight at Johns Hopkins hospital. Dr. Hugh H. Young, who is attending him, said an operation was indicated by his condition, but not a serious one.

THE FORT DEARBORN MASSACRE

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by the artist, N. C. Wyeth... inspired by the heartless treachery of a band of vicious Miami Indians, who massacred the settlers with inhuman ferocity . . . August 15, 1812.

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies . . . the mildest cigarette you ever smoked.

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"

That package of mild Luckies

"If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, tho he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."—RALPH WALDO EMERSON.

Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?

SEEK TO SHOW DAVIS PROFITED BY LOTTERIES

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Beginning an attempt to show that Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania profited personally from what it charges was a lottery run by the Loyal Order of Moose, the prosecution in his trial in federal court presented evidence that $127,418.20 of funds banked in the name of the organization department of the order was used to pay off a loan obtained by Mrs. Jean R. Davis, his wife.

The complicated transfer of the funds, involving two loans was documented by the records of the Fidelity Trust company of Pittsburgh and put in evidence by Assistant United States Attorney William B. Herlands through the testimony of Melvin N. Carnahan, an auditor of the Pittsburgh bank.

Claim Senator Aware of Lottery.

The proof came toward the close of a day in which Louis Mead Treadwell, assistant United States attorney in charge of the prosecution, had introduced a succession of witnesses and documents to support the government's contention that Senator Davis was at all times aware of the "lottery," had had a part in suggesting it, and had attended the "charity ball" in the Columbia lodge in Washington, which was a part of the promotion program.

Mr. Treadwell continued to be faced with witnesses who were reluctant to testify against Mr. Davis, and in one instance, when Rodney H. Brandon, a former supreme dictator of the Moose, was on the stand he obtained the permission of Judge Frank J. Coleman to cross-examine his own witness on the ground that a change in testimony had surprised him.

Another witness, Theodore G. Miller, the head of the propagation department which arranged the charity balls and the drawing of tickets for prizes totaling $50,000, refused to testify on the stand he was under indictment in the same case, to be tried later, and that his testimony in the current trial would tend to incriminate him. He was sustained by Judge Coleman in his refusal.

Through Mr. Carnahan, whose principal rôle as a witness was that of identifying various records from the Fidelity Trust company, Mr. Herlands showed that on Oct. 1, 1930, a loan of $150,000 was made to the organization department of the Moose. Mr. Davis, under his contract, was virtual czar of that department. The note was signed by Fred W. Davis and Joseph A. Jenkins of the organization department, and guaranteed by Mr. Davis, who put up the collateral on which it was granted.

On Feb. 7, 1927, Mrs. Jean R. Davis had obtained a loan of $150,000 from the same bank upon the same collateral which was put up for the organization department loan. At the time of the second loan, in October, 1930, there was due to the bank on her loan a total of $127,418.50, exclusive of $638 interest.

The first check that was drawn on the $150,000 checking account opened with the proceeds of the second loan was one which paid off the balance due on the three year old loan to Mrs. Davis.

Then, Mr. Herlands showed, on Jan. 9, 1931, $100,000 of the second $150,000 loan was paid off in three checks. These were for $50,000, $20,000, and $30,000. Continuation of the proof was suspended for the day at that point.

Charles H. Tuttle, former United States attorney, and Charles J. Margiotti of Pittsburgh, attorneys for Mr. Davis, sought to establish through cross-examination of Mr. Carnahan that Mr. Davis was only a secondary guaranter of the note.

PICCARD ASCENT FIXED OFFICIALLY 'AS 53,153 FEET

BRUSSELS, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Prof. Auguste Piccard and Max Cosyns, both Belgians, reached a height of 16,201 meters [10.07 miles, or 53,153 feet] in their balloon ascension of last Aug. 18, stated an official report by the Swiss Aero club received here today.

Though slightly below the height of 16,500 meters, claimed by Prof. Piccard, the official figures showed they ascended higher than any other human beings and exceeded the record of slightly under ten miles made last year by the professor.

They started this year's ascent at Dubendorf, Switzerland, and landed at Camballaro di Monzanrano, Italy. The official figures are subject to confirmation by the International Aeronautical federation.

SITE SELECTED FOR MONUMENT TO LEIF ERICSON

A site for the $250,000 monument to Leif Ericson in Grant park was selected yesterday by the south park board. The memorial will be erected on the south side of Monroe street, between the Leif Ericson and west drives, and facing south toward the Buckingham fountain.

Oskar J. W. Hansen, sculptor for the project, appeared before the commissioners and asked for the site. His daring conception of Ericson, acclaimed as the discoverer of America in the tenth century, has aroused controversy among Norwegians.

"Has your design been approved by the state board of art advisers?" asked President Edward J. Kelly of the park board. "Yes," answered Hansen. "They approved and praised it." The explorer's statue will be cast in bronze and will be placed between two 100 foot granite obelisks.

The commissioners voted to extend 55th street 400 feet east to the outer drive at a cost of $14,500. Park workmen will do the job except for the paving, George T. Donoghue, general superintendent, explained. A site for a new government lighthouse, a $40,000 project, was tentatively granted next to the coast guard station at 99th street and the lake in Calumet park.

SCIENTIST FINDS EASY SOIL TEST FOR PHOSPHORUS

Simple Method Promises Valuable Results.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Solution of a farm problem 2,000 years old—how a farmer can tell whether his crops have enough phosphorus—was announced tonight by Purdue university.

Years of observation hitherto had been the principal method, says the announcement. The new way is as simple and speedy as making a cup of tea.

From crop plants in the soil to be tested a farmer slices off about as much cuttings as would be used in making a cup of tea. With his fingers he crushes them slightly to bring out a little juice. He puts them in a small bottle filled with a special chemical compound, and shakes vigorously.

Colors Tell the Story.

If there is "abundant" phosphorus in his soil, the liquid in the bottle turns dark blue. More illuminating still, this liquid has a whole series of colors indicating precisely all the degrees of soil phosphorus.

Medium blue indicates a sufficiency, light blue "doubtful," and the "danger line" is shown in all its phases with bluish green, green, yellow and finally colorless, which means a phosphorus lack equally bad for crops and for human food.

For diet phosphorus is important in bone building. Good teeth recently have been traced partly to a proper fraction of this chemical. Some medical men have suggested that its lack in child diet may lay the foundation for deafness.

The chemical test was developed by S. F. Thornton, assistant chemist of the agricultural experiment station, after two years' research. The chemicals are ammonium molybdate, concentrated hydrochloric acid, and stannous chloride.

Much Soil Deficient.

"In this country," says the announcement, "a large part of our soils are either naturally deficient in phosphorus or have become depleted through cropping over a period of years. In the central states this deficiency is especially common, and responses to phosphorus applications are correspondingly marked."

The Purdue chemical has successfully tested corn, wheat, oats, barley, rye, alfalfa, tomatoes, sugar beets, cabbage, and potatoes.

FLYING FAMILY PLANS NEW HOP THROUGH ASIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABERDEEN, Scotland, Sept. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. George Hutchinson and their two small daughters, erstwhile "flying family," who were rescued off the coast of Greenland on a trans-Atlantic attempt, arrived here today by plane en route to London. They were landed at Loch Erribol yesterday by the trawler Lord Talbot, which picked them up off the Greenland coast.

"We were seasick and glad to get off that damned trawler," Hutchinson said.

When the Lord Talbot arrives at Aberdeen the four members of the Hutchinson plane's crew will disembark to join the Hutchinsons for their journey to London.

Hutchinson could not understand all the adverse talk about his having taken his children on such a hazardous expedition. He said he will continue to take his children flying because it gave them happiness. He said he would buy a new plane and next year fly through Asia.

FILIPINO LEADERS CAUTION AGAINST BREAK WITH U. S.

May Lower Standards of Living, People Told.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 23.—[By Mail]—The governor of a nearby province was discussing the independence question with two American visitors. He was amiable but cautious, somewhat bored. A gray haired man, nurtured on the emotions of the Spanish revolution and the American rebellion, he made it plain that he wanted independence but was in no hurry about it. His people wanted it too, for some of them thought it meant freedom from all law. He would soon set them right on that. They were poor and there were many things that needed to be done for them. Radicals were busy among them, telling them lies, and he had much trouble.

The governor was dressed in a clean pajama suit, sitting in the high front window of his home, sipping a cool drink and looking out upon the life of the dusty square. Independence would bring no change here. These incurious, conservative people, close to the earth, simple in their habits, loving their families, trusting God for the harvest, had no notion of the glories of Manila and Malacanang palace, where Filipinos aspired to rule. Taxes might be higher for them and markets poorer. It might be different for their children, so bright and neatly dressed, so proud of their books. Who could tell?

Two Strangers Intrude.

Up the stairway and through the back hall where the family wash hung and women scuffed around in the heelless native slippers, came an interruption. Two men walked into the governor's presence, unannounced, and bowed politely to him. One began to talk rapidly, earnestly, with many a glance of scorn and accusation at his companion. The talker was a tao, a farmer, a man of dignity, dressed in clean, pink flowered coat shirt that hung outside his trousers.

The governor sat up and took notice. This was reality. He was not in the least surprised at the informal entrance. He listened to the monologue, which was in incomprehensible Tagalog, a musical language. The second man broke in with denials of some sort. He shook his head and took a seat. The talk went on and on. It was all about a lost carabao. The farmer's work animal had disappeared and he was convinced that the man he had dragged before the governor knew something about it. The other man denied this.

That was all, but the discussion took a long time and when the talk returned to independence it seemed a remote and academic subject, indeed. The lost carabao filled the minds of all. The governor must solve this problem, lest the tao brood over his wrongs and use his bolo. Then there would be another number at Bilibid prison and a new group of women and children mourning on the visitors' benches at that sunset parade, that tourists love to watch.

Hotheads in Minority.

But independence has its realities, too, and it is consideration of these that has given pause to Filipinos in responsible places, leading to a situation in which the advocates of complete and immediate separation find themselves in the minority.

The hotheads talk of sending a new mission to Washington. The conservatives are engaged in the beginning of economic plans in preparation for the break. They want at least a ten years' transition period. It will take this long at least, it is argued, for the sugar investors, Americans and Filipinos who have been encouraged to put in 400 millions, to save themselves, and in the meantime production might be lifted to the Javanese level per acre.

A young man with the Harvard accent and shell rimmed glasses of the Washington efficiency expert tells a few things that it will mean to America. This is F. D. Hester of the American trade commission. He points out that the Philippines, in these "search for market" times, is the seventh customer of the United States, forming for one thing the largest cotton market.

Japan Menaces Trade.

Hester shows statistics to prove that these islands consume the product of 250,000 acres of southern farm land in the United States, and the labor of 5,300 mill workers yearly. And Japan is ready to step in and take this market, indeed is beginning to do so today over the tariff wall, opening retail stores by the dozen as a result of the Chinese boycott. The import of Philippine tobacco, the expert says, is offset by the export of American cigarets to the islands. And so on down the line.

"We need the markets. Why move out until we have to?" is his practical viewpoint.

Free trade, it now appears, has led to the hamstringing of the Philippines, has bolstered up a false and temporary prosperity, as was well foreseen by the Filipino leaders when it was adopted in 1909. It has led to economic dependence, the opposite way from political independence.

Manuel Quezon, that most astute and powerful of the Filipino leaders, has maintained his leadership of the independence movement and at the same time during the last two years has fostered caution, so that now Dr. Conrado Benitez, director of the school of commerce of the University of the Philippines, a graduate of the University of Chicago, is able to write in the Philippines magazine:

"These figures [trade balances] indicate not only the immense importance of our trade with the United States, but the value of the present free trade relations with that country, a privilege not to be lightly bartered away in exchange for the backing of certain beet sugar and dairy interests there in securing the passage of such a measure as the Hawes-Cutting bill, which would give us no more than the chance of starving to death under the aegis of an empty autonomy.

"The relations of this country with America have brought us nothing but happiness and prosperity, with ever increasing administrative independence—the only independence which can possibly benefit us. Commercial independence would mean an Asiatic poverty for us, and absolute political independence from the United States would mean our subjugation by Japan."

Want Adjustment Period.

A long period of adjustment is what the people here want, with as much autonomy as possible in the meantime. And at the end of the period there is no telling what a plebescite of the people of the islands would develop. There might even be the spectacle of Filipinos urging their countrymen not to sever relations any further. At the present time they would go ahead on the theory that only under trial and test and sacrifice can they develop their genius as a nation, that then only would true political parties develop and real national energy of the Russian type display itself.

The government probably would follow the leadership of Japan in assuming economic leadership. It would stop short, however, of socialism. The experience of the government in business has not been productive of confidence here, although the government railways and cement mills are apparently making money.

Cites Big Enterprises.

When Gen. Wood came here in 1921 he found the railways, banks and other government enterprises in a mess. They have been pulled up since, but the government chartered Philippines Development company has never seen fit to embark in new business.

Dr. Rafael Palma, president of the University of the Philippines, tells his people to welcome foreign capital and development, that they have twice lost their independence because of their economic weakness.

"American capital has been here long, and fortunately it is still here," he says. "We do not witness those disastrous consequences which many augured at its arrival. Is American capital holding us by the throat? Has it been strangling us? Citing only the big enterprises like the Manila Electric Railway and Light company and the Pacific Commercial company in Manila, the Canlubang Sugar company (which also owns 300,000 coconut trees), San Carlos mill, and the Mindoro Development company, in the provinces, has any one seen any family being deprived by those corporations of its daily bread, or Filipinos employed by them being converted into peons and slaves? On the contrary, it can be said that each and every one of these corporations has contributed to the material progress of this country."

The Canlubang Sugar company which he mentions keeps an intimate family record of all its employés, helping them to set up independently. They may make, after they have paid their installments for food and clothes and work animal, 600 to 1,000 pesos a year. As a Filipino family can live on from 15 to 35 pesos a month, an elastic margin of life is found here.

BOY WITH $1,600 WINS ARGUMENT, PUZZLES POLICE

Comes Into "Wealth" by Obeying Father.

There was none to dispute James Noble Jr., 12 years old, when arguments arose Tuesday between himself and fellow pupils at the Ogden Elementary school. James had one clincher which invariably silenced the others.

"I'll betcha a thousand dollars I'm right," James would say, nonchalantly drawing a small roll of currency from his pocket and peeling off a $1,000 bill.

Boy's Ambitions Modest.

If his opponent was difficult to persuade, James also would display a $500 bill. He was rather contemptuous of the remaining two notes in his possession. These were only $50 bills. He soon collected an admiring following who began calculating how much candy $1,600 in cash would buy. James' own ambitions ran no higher than the contemplated purchase of a bicycle.

Tuesday night James went home with Benjamin Ferrice, 12 years old, 719 North Dearborn street. The latter's mother took the money from James and said she would keep it for him.

Yesterday the story reached the boy's teacher, Miss Laura Davis, who informed police. Sergt. Howard Tobin went to the Ferrice home, where Mrs. Ferrice willingly gave him the money, saying, "I'm glad to get rid of it. I was beginning to be worried about what to do with it."

The policemen took the money to a bank and was told it was genuine. Then he questioned James. The boy told a straightforward story, which was believed by the police.

Obeys Absent Father.

"My father, who runs a boarding house at 63 West Huron street, told me three weeks ago that he was going to Denver," said James. "He told me that Edward Beebe, a boarder, would look out for me and for me to cook my own meals. He said if he didn't come back to look in a tin can in the clothes closet. So I finally decided to look in the can and found the money."

The money was placed in the police vault while the police began a search for the father. His parents were separated some time ago, James said.

14 JURORS PICKED FOR STONE TRIAL UNDER NEW LAW

Alternates Chosen Because of Long Hearing.

Fourteen jurors were chosen yesterday in the federal court of Judge Charles E. Woodward to try Henry F. Norcott, president of the defunct H. O. Stone & Co., and eight associates on charges of using the mails to defraud. Two alternate jurors were selected under a new law adopted by congress on June 29, 1932, which provides that 14 men shall be impaneled to hear cases in which the evidence requires a long hearing.

Orders Alternates Chosen.

Judge Woodward ordered the alternates to be chosen after Prosecutor Joseph A. Struett said that the government's case would take three to four weeks and defense attorneys announced their side would require equally long time. It is the first time that the new jury law has been used in local federal courts.

The alternates were installed in special seats near the regular jury over the objections of Attorney Benjamin Bachrach of defense counsel, who argued that the constitution specifically stated that a defendant had a right to trial by a jury of twelve men.

Names of the Jurors.

The jury, which will hear the opening statement of the government today, is made up as follows:

CAROL WILSON ALTON, 1217 Michigan avenue, Evanston.
GODFREY F. FOZYOKI, 1545 North Wood street.
WILLIAM H. FIRCHAW, Tinley Park.
FRED A. FENSKE, 3606 North Springfield avenue.
WILLIAM JIBIKE, 9 North 16th avenue, Melrose Park.
ARTHUR KOLLS, Harvard, McHenry county.
FRANK MERCER, 181 Hazel avenue, Highland Park.
ROBERT C. WARDEL, 6918 Osceola avenue.
J. V. FARWELL III., 65 East Oak street.

FOUND DEAD; FIGHT BLAMED.

Arthur Brauer, 37 years old, 2827 Clybourn avenue, an unemployed laborer, was found dead in his bed yesterday morning, supposedly from injuries suffered in a fight on Tuesday night.

DR. FRANK BILLINGS.

The influence of Dr. Frank Billings in this community was great. His loss will be felt widely and for a long time. He was a great physician combining, to an unusual degree, the good qualities of the old time medical practitioner and those of the modern medical scientist.

He came to Chicago from Wisconsin to enter the medical profession in just the period of greatest discovery in medical bacteriology. Pasteur had recently laid a foundation for the discoveries of Koch in Germany and other bacteriologists in Europe and America. In his student days the discovery of the microbe that caused some important disease was not infrequently a part of the day's news. How vastly important these discoveries were we have since realized.

Dr. Billings accepted these discoveries and prepared himself to use them for the benefit of his patients. Throughout his career he remained abreast of the times, accepting the newer methods and opinions as they were put on a working basis. He did not permit his mind to crystallize. At the same time he retained much of the older approach toward medicine. He was somewhat exceptional in the way he mixed common sense, ordinary everyday judgment, the more scientific methods of the laboratory, and the clinical observations of bedside practice. In addition to being a great physician he was a great man and a most useful citizen.

He was tall and broad, and gave one a feeling of solidity and strength. When to this is added, as was true in this case, respect for scientific attainments, independence of thought, the courage of convictions, a likable personality, and a social point of view, the possessor is bound to be a man of high standing.

Dr. Billings was especially influential with men of power. Physicians gave weight to his opinions; and men of position in the business and political world, sensing the combination of common sense, science, and altruism, generally followed his advice. As an organizer of philanthropy and educational enterprises he had much ability.

But, more than for all else, the community honors him for the great influence he had over others and the wise way in which he exercised this power. He served his community well. It honors him for his service.

THE EXPECTED HAPPENS.

A warning given in these columns less than a week ago has been tragically emphasized. THE TRIBUNE last Friday called attention to the persistence of bombing in the cleaning and dyeing industry. We pointed out then that the fact that only a relatively few individuals are directly affected should not deceive the public, for the toleration of this evil is an encouragement to violence everywhere, an advertisement of the insufficiency of the law to protect the law abiding, an undermining of the morale of the police, the prosecuting agencies, the courts and the public. Now a bomb is planted with the intention perhaps of intimidating or injuring a prominent judge and destroys the sight and perhaps the life of a child and seriously injures another.

This hideous outrage no doubt will rouse the authorities to a special effort, but it is only a logical consequence of the toleration of bombing. Bombing can be stopped in spite of the ramifications of racketeering and underworld activities. As we have insisted, it is not a mere impulsive, individual offense. It requires preparation and the coöperation of more than one person. In fact, it has become a system and it can be smashed up and abolished as a common resort of crime by thorough and persistent detective work.

The consequences of the latest bomb outrage are so shocking and its possible implications as an insolent gesture of the underworld against Judge McGoorty are so serious that it may result in the running down and punishment of the miscreants responsible. The city will devoutly hope so—will, in fact, demand that the authorities use every means to accomplish it. But we may be certain that unless the practice of bombing which has developed in racketeering business and other profitable criminality is broken up it will claim other innocent victims like the children of Tuesday's outrage. No civilized community can afford to ignore or tolerate this condition.

MR. TROTZKY AS AUTHOR.

Ex-Comrade Trotzky had been granted permission to leave his place of exile in Turkey and take the cure in Czechoslovakia. He was obliged to pledge himself to talk to no one except his doctor, to keep hidden while on the train, and to return to Turkey when the cure was completed, but despite all these precautions, the Czech government at the last moment changed its mind. After all, Mr. Trotzky is not going to take the cure. We hope the deprivation will not prove costly.

We want Mr. Trotzky to live at least long enough to get one promised book out of his system, the book in which he will tell how he, as commissar in command of the armies, fought half a dozen wars on as many fronts and defeated all the invaders. It was a substantial military achievement in a nation whose martial spirit had almost disintegrated in defeat and despair. It was the more remarkable in view of the fact that Trotzky knew little or nothing of military science and had every reason to suspect that every one in Russia who did know the art of war was likely to betray him and his cause.

It will be interesting to see what he has to say about the Americans at Archangel and in Siberia. If his military chapters are as vividly written as was his autobiography they will be worth reading. Mr. Trotzky's ethics permit him to lie and steal in the interest of his cause, but when he sits down to write he discovers a bourgeois literary conscience. He tells the truth as he remembers it. He never pulls his punch, but he does not hit below the belt.

THE CUBS.

Candor compels the admission that in the past there have been baseball constellations which contained more first magnitude stars than are to be found among the Cubs of 1932. But there never was a championship team in all the history of baseball which so completely satisfied its followers. The progress of the Cubs this year was less baseball than heroic drama. The season has that characteristic when examined as a whole or game by game.

Through the spring and early summer the Cubs were going along adequately, but none too well. Something was wrong somewhere. Even when they were in the lead in those weeks every one doubted their ability to hold on. In due course the slump came. Then, under Grimm, the Cubs suddenly struck their true stride. They were unbeatable. Other teams could pile up early inning leads only to have the Cubs come from behind to win. Extra inning victories became almost commonplace.

The Cubs ought to be favorites in the world's series. They came through the final drive at the top of their form. They have the pitchers for a short series and above all they have demonstrated such a will to win as no team within memory has possessed.

RAILROAD INNOVATIONS.

In a recent article Scrutator calls attention to developments in the effort of the railroads to regain passenger traffic lost to motor bus transportation. Improvements in the coach increasing the comfort of the passenger are to be noted but, in our opinion, have not gone far enough. The automobile designers have made comfort a study for years and the motor bus has benefited by it. The railroads have held to much the same design until lately, and the seats even of the Pullman "palace cars" are far from the acme of comfort. The Pullman company, however, has waked up in recent years and is getting results. But the regulation passenger coach is still a rather rigid and uncomfortable affair and the railroads must recognize that if they are to meet the motor bus on this point they must make some radical changes. It is true that movement on rails on a well ballasted roadbed is smoother than on highways in the average condition. But this advantage has not equalized the service as to comfort with the modern long distance motor coach.

Scrutator's article has to do, however, chiefly with reductions of fare, which have produced some results highly satisfactory to the railroads and should be carried as far as practicable. Improved coaches and excursion rates, as W. J. Black, the passenger traffic manager of the Santa Fé, says, are transition steps, and the railroads in seeking to build up everyday traffic, not merely excursion or week-end travel, must lower between station fares.

But the discussion does not touch what we are convinced is the chief weapon of the railroads in the competition with the highways—namely: speed. It is the one factor in service in which they cannot be effectively met by highway transport. The American railways are lagging behind British and some continental railways in this respect and must catch up. Schedules could be materially shortened throughout, and while speed costs money, this cannot be accepted as a decisive objection, even in these days of depleted revenues, unless the railroads are ready to give up. Higher speed is practicable and the railroads cannot afford to neglect the greatest of their advantages over highway transport.

Editorial of the Day

[Des Moines Register.]

With the farm price of corn ranging from 20 to 25 cents, it is difficult to be overwhelmed with joy over Iowa's record breaking crop of half a billion bushels. This bountiful gift of nature, sufficient at 1918 and 1919 prices to pay off the state's entire farm mortgage debt, would in fact be little more than enough to pay the interest on that debt if it were all appropriated to that purpose at present prices.

The major portion of this crop, of course, will be transformed as usual into pork, beef and mutton, probably at a profit above feeding costs.

When it is realized, however, that a great portion of our present billion dollar farm mortgage debt dates back to the days of war prices, and that since that time an abnormal economic cycle has shorn away nine-tenths of the income of the Iowa farmer who sells his corn, it is not surprising that he should be ready in so many cases to adopt the desperate remedies of picketing the highways and calling for an embargo upon his products and those of his neighbors.

It is silly to condemn the farmer for having been misled by the high commodity prices of 1919. Surely there is not any one anywhere but has been fooled within the last 15 years into the belief that things were normal which turned out later to have been abnormal.

Perhaps most gullible of all are those who are ready to accept the present price setup as enduring, yet there are plenty of people [not on farms] who have already accepted 20 cent corn as a matter of course thing.

It is as certain as the coming of day that 20 cent corn cannot last unless we are to have a complete revamping of our entire economic structure. It may conceivably last a considerable time or it may rebound overnight, as it has often done in the past.

And if we accept the idea that present low prices cannot become permanent there is immense reassurance in the knowledge that productivity of Iowa soil is still unimpaired; that the greatest corn crop in our history has been produced in a period when maintenance of soil fertility is most difficult. It is a striking demonstration of the fundamental stability of farm values in Iowa—the state that never experiences a real crop failure.

THE HOTEL MAN IN UNIONTOWN, PA., who has ordered fifty barrels of beer from Germany, to be delivered to him April 15 next year, says he knows he's right because of the promises made by both the Democratic and Republican platforms. It is indeed lovely in this cold, hard world to know that there is still a man who has such a sweet and childlike faith in campaign promises. If we were evilly inclined we'd hop right on the train and go to Uniontown and sell him a gold brick.

AUTUMN RAIN.

Never it falls to the earth in vain,
But the rain of autumn is fruitless quite,
Falling straight through a ghostly light.
Tears of joy are the drops of spring,
Glistening fresh on the robin's wing,
But the cry of the autumn rain is heard
In a note of grief where the leaves are stirred.
Barren of promise, with cold disdain,
That is the measure of autumn rain.
The showers of spring hold prophecy,
Promise is tendered the once bare tree,
A message comes to a garden fair,
With the rain of spring in the bland, mild air.
But where, I say, is the boast of rain
That futile, bounds from the scarlet stain
Of a dying leaf, nor has power to stay
Cold hands of death but a single day?

CLARENCE MILLIGAN.

A WOMAN HELD FOR RANSOM by Chinese bandits has written to friends in Shanghai that all she wants them to send her is a powder puff, face cream, and a lipstick. That's a woman for you. And yet they claim to be man's equal and demanded the ballot. And got it, too. Why, if a man was held by Chinese bandits and threatened with death he wouldn't send to his friends for a powder puff, face cream, and a lipstick. But, no! Men are made of sterner stuff. All a man would ask in similar circumstances would be a deck of cards, a stack of poker chips, and a bottle of whisky. And a carton of cigarettes.

Did they jump me? Oh boy! It was a sweet fight while it lasted. And ever since I've been going around boosting for Norman Thomas. Some of the fights have been grand and glorious. But privately and between friends, who the'll is Norman Thomas anyhow? EAZIE NEOW.

A CO-ED striving for the higher knowledge is paying her way through a college down in Indiana with a delivery of fresh eggs every day. She has fixed up an alarm clock in the hennery which goes off before dawn every morning, turning on the electric light, which fools the hens into thinking it's time to go to work, and they jump right in laying eggs. But, after all, if the higher knowledge is to be used in deceiving poor, unsuspecting hens we are compelled to rise and ask again, Is it worth while? Better to go through life without a college degree than to feel that it was obtained by tricking poor hens out of their well earned rest.

DALE FISHER.

AND AN EVEN SADDER STORY comes from a college out west where a student will receive his tuition on credit, to be paid when a colt he is raising has reached maturity. Being quite poor, the student is raising the colt in his own room. It sleeps in the bath tub and it is so intelligent it gallops to the door and turns the knob with its teeth to let in visitors. This is all very well, but what is bound to be the future of a colt raised in such an environment? Undoubtedly it will learn to browse around at midnight and steal signs and street lamps and carry them home and try in every way to emulate the example of the boisterous students with whom it associates. It is already reported that the colt is learning to sing "Sweet Adeline" and the result is said to be horrible. Can such a colt expect to grow up and become a Derby winner? It might, but the chances are all against it. Again we point out that the colleges and universities in their eagerness to accept horses, hens, chickens, oats, clover hay, and garden truck in exchange for a college education may be doing the horses, hens, chickens, oats, clover hay, and garden truck a great injury. This side of the question has never been looked at before. Something should be done about this at once. Write to your congressman today.

HELP FOR BLEEDERS.

THE publicity given hemophilia in the recently exiled Spanish royal family has aroused popular interest in the subject of bleeders. The condition—for it is a condition rather than a disease—has been known for a long time, but we have learned more about it in the last five years than the observations of the previous thousand years had revealed.

The blood of a bleeder will not coagulate. If he commences to bleed from a wound there seems to be nothing in his makeup that will stop the hemorrhage. It has been discovered that the principle that his blood lacks is a something that the female sex gland, probably the ovary, has the capacity of supplying promptly and in efficient quantities. The average man whose blood clots normally has some of this material within him as a part of the equipment of female qualities with the rudiments of which every man is endowed.

Women, in connection with maternity and the functions that lead thereto, are in danger of death from hemorrhage and nature prepares to protect them by equipping them to make ample quantities of the blood coagulating principles.

The practical application of these studies is in the stoppage of hemorrhage in bleeders and in its prevention. If a bleeder needs to have his tonsils removed or to have a tooth pulled he can be prepared for the operation by a blood transfusion. If he be transfused with blood from a normal male he will be safe from dangerous hemorrhage for, say, two days. If the transfused blood is drawn from a normal female he is safe from dangerous hemorrhage for two weeks and sometimes a little longer.

If a bleeder is wounded and hemorrhage follows the best way to stop it is to catch some blood from a normal person on some cotton and apply this to the bleeding wound. If there is any difficulty in getting blood it will suffice to apply a piece of fresh, moist meat—the old remedy for a black eye. Meanwhile, it is advisable to transfuse some blood from a normal person.

Effort is now being made to cure hemophilics by implanting ovaries and by giving them ovarian extracts. If some way of bringing about more durable action could be found the method would be looked on more favorably.

Some English students report that not all persons with the reputation of bleeders are truly such. In a period of one hundred years the medical literature contained records of 272 hemophilic families. These scientists reported that only forty-four of these were true hemophilics. There are four requirements that must be met and most of these families failed to meet them:

1. The trouble is inherited.
2. It is never present in females.
3. There is a history of a tendency to repeated hemorrhages.
4. The time for blood clotting is long.
5. The sufferers are deficient in the blood clotting function.

EPILEPSY.

A. H. B. writes: My father began having attacks of epilepsy when he was in his late forties. At first the attacks were very violent. However, he kept on with his work and when he was 75 his attacks stopped, after a few years in which they were very mild. When he was 85 and had been free from epileptic seizures for ten years one day he took his customary daily three mile walk, came home, had an attack of apoplexy, and died. I have a friend now living and in good health. He is 88 years old. When he was in his late sixties he began having epileptic attacks. When he was about 75 his teeth were found to be in very bad condition. He had them all pulled, after which his epilepsy stopped. For the last thirteen years he has had no seizure. In his case the cause of epilepsy was bad teeth and having them removed cured him. I do not know what cured my father unless it was his habit of taking a long daily walk. I do not remember about his teeth.

REPLY.

These cases have more than one lesson for us. One is that we can take epilepsy too seriously. These men did not let it interfere with their work or change their outlook on life. Another is that bad teeth cause some cases. Removal of the teeth cures some. Another is that muscle exercise and work is good for an epileptic.

ATHLETE'S FOOT.

M. T. A. writes: I have an itchy spot on the bottom of one foot. When I scratched it it seemed to be a blister. It was still itchy and was slightly red and dry. Then two more developed. Tell the fellow with bunions to tie them up in slices of lemon. It won't cure them, but it will take out the soreness and inflammation.

REPLY.

This probably is that form of athlete's foot that goes by the name pompholyx. Treatment for ringworm cures it. Wear sandals and no socks, or go barefooted, or somehow prevent friction, keep your feet cool and exposed to air and light as much as possible.

MAY NEED EXERCISE.

Miss A. W. writes: Though I am about normal weight, my flesh is very soft and flabby. I am inclined to gain, so I eliminate fats and starches in my diet to either one at a meal. Would this be the cause or is it glandular? It surely cannot be lack of exercise, as I walk all day. I reduced 25 pounds two years ago, but have not lost any weight for a year. I have been advised by an athlete to lose fifteen or eighteen pounds more and then build up again under strenuous exercise. Would this be advisable, in your opinion, or is there another way?

REPLY.

My guess is that you are "soft and flabby" because you do not exercise enough. You can "walk all day" and still not get the muscle work you need. My advice is that you go in for some athletic sports or do gymnasium work or some form of manual work. Nothing is gained by reducing as a preliminary to building up muscles by work.

FOLLOW UP IN COURT.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Last spring B put a wire fence between his property and that of A. A proved that the fence was nine inches on his side of the dividing line. In the presence of witnesses B threatened violence rather than remove the fence. Finally, after being taken to court, B was put under peace bonds and (1) ordered to move the fence. The fence is still there. 2. Has A the right to take the fence down himself, or would he put himself in danger by so doing?

H. S.

1. We do not understand why you have not followed this up.

2. Yes; but, since the matter has already been taken to court, we would consider it preferable to follow up the court proceedings. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SPECIAL POLICE.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A man is employed by a loop bank as a policeman. He was sworn in at the commissioner of police office and carries a badge inscribed "Chicago Special Police Patrolman." 1. Is this man allowed to carry a gun outside of working hours in the city of Chicago according to law? 2. If allowed in Chicago, can he carry same in the state of Illinois? O. R.

1 and 2. Under the Sadler act watchmen can carry revolvers only while engaged in their employments. As to the effect of his being "sworn" the police commissioner's office can advise to better advantage than we can, since they have the facts before them. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

COURT ACTION NECESSARY.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I submitted to a New York publisher two original manuscripts, also two others of less value, with return postage. He returned the last two. I asked for the other two manuscripts, but have had no success in having them returned. 1. What can I do to recover these papers? 2. What recourse have I if he should publish them without notifying me or under another name instead of mine? D. B.

1. We see no way of forcing matters other than by court proceedings, which would necessitate the employment of an attorney.

2. You would be entitled to relief by court proceedings. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NOT AN APPETIZER.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—[Friend of the People.]—While eating in a lunchroom on Van Buren street which has a tire shop in the place one of the employés was using some elements in vulcanizing a tire which resulted in the most sickening and obnoxious odors. I was unable to eat. Milk, butter, and other foods absorb odors. Why is this permitted in a place where people eat? R. J. M.

You are advised that one of our inspectors made an investigation which resulted in the following report: "Have a tire repair shop in rear of lunchroom; no fumes from shop at time of inspection. Proprietor states that repair shop will be vacated in about ten days." However, our inspector will keep these premises under observation.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 22, 1916.

LONDON.—German, Bulgarian, and Turkish troops under Field Marshal von Mackensen have been defeated in the Rumanian province of Dobrudja, according to the official announcement from Bucharest. It is declared that the invaders have been crushed and have retired to the south and are burning villages in their retreat. The great battle, which was the climax of Von Mackensen's swift campaign in the Dobrudja district, immediately after the declaration of war by Rumania, began Sept. 15, and gradually increased in scope and intensity until Sept. 19. With reference to these operations Berlin merely says that "fighting in Dobrudja has come to a standstill." In Macedonia, on the extreme western wing, the entente forces, mostly Serbians, have pushed their way three miles northwest of Pisoderi, according to Paris. Hard fighting for the Kaimakcalan plateau, on the Greek-Serbo border, northwest of Vodena, is in progress, but with neither side having been able to secure an advance. In the Transylvania theater of the war, Bucharest says a Rumanian force has entered Droderhei, better known as Szekely Udvarhely, fifty miles northeast of Kronstadt. One-fourth of Transylvania now is in Rumanian hands.

LONDON.—Gains in the Somme region by the British were the features of the day's operations on the western front. New Zealanders are credited with a gain of some ground south of the Ancre in the Somme region. The Germans launched heavy counter attacks, but the allied troops beat them off with heavy losses.

ROME.—Italian troops have occupied a new position east of Goritz on the Isonzo front and repulsed an Austrian attack in the Carso sector, says the war office statement. The Italian offensive in the mountain region northeast of Trent continues.

BERLIN.—Regiments of the Russian guard, in conjunction with other strong forces, continued their attacks on a front twelve miles wide in the region west of Lutsk, in Volhynia, says the German official statement. Except near Korynitza, where a battle is still in progress, repeated Russian storming attacks failed with sanguinary losses.

PETROGRAD. — German troops have assumed the offensive against the Russians on the River Stokhod in the region of the Kovel-Rovno railway in Volhynia, says the Russian official statement. The attacks were repulsed by the Russians. In the region of Svinlusky and Korynitza fighting is still in progress.

LONDON.—Developments pointing to a crisis in the affairs of Greece are coming thick and fast, judging from dispatches. Crete, the Grecian island in the eastern Mediterranean, has seceded, the rebels having overthrown the authorities, disowned King Constantine, and proclaimed a provisional government. Venizelos, in a statement at Athens, voiced anew his disapproval of the Greek policy of neutrality adhered to by King Constantine. A conspiracy to kill Venizelos is reported from Saloniki.

WASHINGTON.—The administration was amazed by a report from Gen. Funston, officially stating that on Sept. 16 Villa captured Chihuahua City, spent several hours there, and departed to the nearby mountains with his command more than doubled and with supplies enough to last him in a spirited campaign against whomsoever he cares to wage it.

CONGRATULATIONS FROM TEXAS.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—In 1924 Mr. Davis, Democratic presidential candidate, received 483,536 votes at the polls in Texas [evidently reflecting the normal Democratic vote].

Mr. Coolidge, Republican candidate, received 130,023 votes [evidently reflecting the normal Republican vote in Texas].

In 1928 Texas cast 284,335 votes for Mr. Alfred Smith, and Mr. Hoover received 301,847 votes. Stated another way approximately 200,000 Texas Democrats, so-called in 1924, or 40 per cent, were not to be counted in 1928.

Now we have the burlesque spectacle of the tolerant Texans congratulating the people of Maine for having taken the reins of government from the hands of what they consider a faithless administration.

From the above figures it would appear that relatively speaking Texas made a better showing for the Republicans than any other state in the Union in 1928.

I hesitate to suggest that it would fall within the category of real news if the senate of Maine would send belated sympathy to the same governing body of Texas on the splendid showing the citizens of that state made toward placing in control the very administration they now attempt to criticize.

ADVICE RESPECTING CHARITY.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—The best remedy to protect charity funds is to incorporate in the law a clause that not only contributors to relief funds but also recipients of charity should have their names open for inspection with the amount contributed or received. In this manner the general public would have access to the record and impostors would be eliminated. A proper presentation of the income and disbursements would then be possible and criticism as to overhead expenses or to graft would be eliminated.

Donors to charity funds are entitled to know where their money goes and people who are denied charity have the right to know whether those who have been favored are proper subjects of charity.

If we turn the flashlight of publicity into the matter and make any person who applies for charity execute a statement under oath showing his conditions, in this manner running the risk of being sent to the penitentiary for perjury if caught lying, the charity problem would be half solved. Donors to charity funds would increase rapidly and recipients of charity would decrease, in this manner bringing the relief problem under complete control and making its solution comparatively easier.

A MIRACLE EXPLAINED.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—In explanation of "One in Four's" bridge hand, be it known that if a new deck was used [in which the cards would naturally range from ace to king in sequence through each suit in turn] and south, as he says, being "in a conversation," forgot to shuffle, west could cut the deck as often as he chose and the result must be A, K, 9, 5 in on suit, Q, 8, 4 in another suit, and J, 7, 3 and 10, 6, 2, as he describes it. Try it, but be sure that west completes each cut before he starts another.

A CHANGE.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Whenever I hear thoughtless or ignorant ones among our voters clamoring for a change this fall I think of what happened to our country during and as a result of previous Democratic administrations, and I am reminded of the old story about the fellow who went to the summer resort hotel for "change and rest." You remember: The waiters and bellhops got all of his change, and the proprietor got the rest.

THE FUTURE OF ELEVATED LINES.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—In regard to your editorial concerning the "Future of Elevated Railroads," I can add that there are many reasons why the elevated does not pay. First, speed is today not so much greater on the elevated than on the surface lines. Years ago the horses and wagons were in the way, which slowed up surface traffic. Then the Logan Square elevated was express. Now it is local.

I have often raced with my son from Wood street and Milwaukee avenue to Dearborn and Washington, I taking the street car and he the elevated, and I would get there first.

I would get on the car within 200 paces of my home while he walked three long blocks. I'd get off at our destination while he walked either from Madison and Wabash or Randolph and Wells, a distance of 3 or 4 blocks, besides climbing stairs and paying 3 cents extra.

It seems that our public utility magnates do not live in our town or are extremely stupid. It appears that they are not aware of the depression, otherwise after reducing wages they would reduce the cost of their services.

In good times the gas and electric companies would not have to fear the competition of kerosene, but, believe me, it shows today. Where my neighbor had a gas and electric bill together totaling slightly less than $5, he uses less than $1.25 worth of oil. He admits the old way was better, but he has so many uses for the $3.75 per month that until he will be on full time and get a decent week's pay he will stick to the oily way.

In conclusion I would suggest to the surface lines a sure fire method to increase their earnings, by making the transfers stopover checks. What is the difference to the surface lines whether I use the transfer at the right time or later? Will it increase the company's expenses if I use the transfer later?

If salesmen, agents, canvassers, and messengers and others were permitted to have stopover privileges there would be many thousands fewer autos on our streets and the car company would reap a rich harvest at that time of the day when there are no peak loads. People who have a few stops to make on their routes find auto transportation much cheaper than street car fare and act accordingly. S. S.

THE CREDIT OF A CHURCH.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—I am the treasurer of the Calvary Presbyterian church, 4201 Jackson boulevard, which in this situation wants to help a little by making some repairs and giving union men some jobs. We have a building worth $100,000, free of all debt, and a board of ten trustees who never would stand for any default.

To loop banks, some of which have received millions in credit from the government to aid them to extend credit to building enterprises, I have gone seeking $1,000 to $2,000 on this $100,000 choice realty security, but although their vaults are bursting with cash they politely say no. Most of it would go out in wages, yet that is no inducement.

We would pay 6 or 7 per cent on such a loan for a year, and it would be as safe as Liberty bonds. Where can we go for such a loan? We have already paid out several hundred dollars and have depleted our cash reserves. If we don't find it, it simply means that much more will have to be paid out via taxes for relief purposes and keep men idle who want to work, at the same time letting valuable property deteriorate. I am convinced there are hundreds of others like us, wanting to spend money usefully. Maybe a TRIBUNE editorial would aid the situation in loosening money for those with ample security who wish to make improvements.

McKEE IS VICTOR IN FIRST TEST ON RIGHT TO OFFICE

Special Election Is Ruled Against by Court.

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Tammany Hall's plan to run James J. Walker for mayor at the general election on Nov. 8 and thus lessen the chances of Gov. Franklin Roosevelt carrying the state for President, received a severe if not fatal setback today.

Justice John E. McGeehan handed down a decision holding that Mayor Joseph V. McKee, who succeeded to the mayoralty when Walker resigned while under fire before Gov. Roosevelt, must serve out the Walker term which does not expire until Dec. 31, 1934.

Tammany began at once an appeal to the Appellate court, but the feeling in political circles was to the effect that the Tammany-Walker revenge scheme had received a knockout blow.

Justice Makes Ruling.

Justice McGeehan, in his decision, held that article 10, section 5, of the constitution, authorizing the legislature to provide for filling vacancies in office, with a provision that in the case of elected officers, the appointment should be good only until the end of the year, applied only to constitutional officers. In 1928, under the home rule law, all reference to mayors was eliminated from the constitution, and the mayor is not now, if he ever was, a constitutional officer, Justice McGeehan held.

"The remaining constitution provision to be considered is article 12, section 6, requiring elections of city officers to be held in odd-numbered years," the court said. "By express exception contained therein this provision does not apply to filling vacancies. There appears therefore to be no limitation on the power of the legislature to deal with this subject as it may deem proper."

Tammany for Election.

Attorneys for Tammany Hall had contended that a vacancy was created when Walker resigned, and that the vacancy should be filled at the "next election" which, in this case, would tie up the mayoralty campaign with the presidential election. The court's ruling will if sustained delay the new mayoralty election until November of next year. Meantime, McKee will continue to serve and will have a year and five months to build up such public support as possibly to compel his nomination for a full term.

Tammany has been opposed to a year's delay, because of the general feeling that if Walker is to win a vindication battle against Roosevelt, he must do it while "the iron is hot" and the issue alive. In resigning, Walker took caustic flings at Gov. Roosevelt for the manner in which the governor conducted the hearing on charges brought by Samuel Seabury.

Roosevelt Forces Optimistic.

The fear in the Roosevelt camp has been that if Walker got himself on the same ticket with the governor and continued his attacks, there would be a wide split in the Democratic vote which would insure the state to Hoover. With the mayoralty election put off until next year however, there would be less danger of an open split, and the Roosevelt forces say they will certainly carry the state.

Tammany Leader John F. Curry had no comment to make on Justice McGeehan's decision, nor had Brooklyn Leader John H. McCooey.

Gov. Roosevelt, who has been hoping for peace and harmony in the Democratic organization in the city, declined to comment. Former Mayor Walker in Naples also declined to comment except to remark that he understood an appeal would be taken.

Busy on Budget Pruning.

Mayor McKee was silent on the court decision. He continued his conference with city budget makers in an endeavor to cut from $80,000,000 to $100,000,000 from the 1932 budget. He announced a saving of $1,000,000 in the city's contracts for light and power.

The mayor announced an adjustment of 4 per cent with the lighting companies supplying the city with light and power. This in itself will save $289,739.51. Other economies projected at this time will save an additional $521,000, it is estimated. The rest of the million will be saved from the normal increase caused by the opening of new city buildings and new streets—a sum estimated at $210,000.

The budget figures, excluding the charges for new service, will be $61,969,856 in 1933.

The mayor made his first public speech today, asking the support of the citizens of the city for the baseball game to be played between the fire and police departments at Yankee stadium on Sunday, the proceeds to go to the mayor's committee on relief.

Junk Yard Owner and Aid Held on Larceny Charges

Charles Warshawsky, owner of a junk yard and auto parts salesroom at 3220 Ogden avenue, and Isadore Poncher, 5030 North Harding avenue, an employé, were held to the grand jury yesterday on charges of larceny by Municipal Judge J. William Brooks. A stolen automobile was found in the junk yard and the pair were accused of preparing to dismantle it and sell its accessories.

We've always used paint!

SAID THE PURCHASING AGENT

• AN ADVERTISEMENT FOR ADVERTISERS

THE scene was the office of a purchasing agent in an automobile factory. The time—a few years ago. A new salesman called to see the purchasing agent, and spread out a series of color cards.

"What is it?" asked the p. a. doubtfully.

"Cellulose lacquer," said the salesman. "You need only three coats of this instead of the usual dozen."

"For what?" asked the p. a. "What's it for?"

"But—" said the salesman, "this lacquer saves time and labor and money. You spray it on—"

"We use brushes," said the p. a. placidly.

"And it lasts longer and looks better than paint. You can make lots of new color combinations."

"But it doesn't look like paint," said the p. a. brightly, "and we don't need new combinations. You see, most of our owners like black—"

"But it reduces your investment and expense. It's cheaper and better—"

"No," said the p. a. "You don't understand. We have a big investment in our paint works, and a lot of trained men who know just how to do our jobs—and we wouldn't be interested."

Well, when the purchasing agent was fired, he evidently got a job buying advertising somewhere—because there are still purchasing agents like him who buy advertising space.

THEY are still paint-minded, still brush-buying. They fail to recognize the New York News for the advertising medium it is because it has a different form, comes in a different package. They dismiss giant comprehensive coverage in favor of brush media which dab at the market. They ignore the efficiency of the small News page, with its higher visibility and greater reader attention. They disregard public preference and the trend of public taste, which affect newspapers as much as automobiles, hosiery, cosmetics or tableware. They also assume their customers' preference for old fashioned media, when there is obvious evidence on hand that a majority of New York people prefer the newer News.

And they continue to spend money in inadequate media because they have done so in the past—"We have a big investment in that paper."

BUY advertising today—to meet today's problems—to sell today's audience in the media that have most weight and influence today—in today's best markets!

The News by itself and alone, gives you majority coverage of the New York market, reaches more of your customers and prospects, and can influence all of your distributors and outlets. Its 1,370,000 weekday circulation is 93% concentrated in the metropolitan district, includes two out of three city families, and one in five in the suburbs. News circulation exceeds that of the next three largest New York morning papers combined—or the three leading evening papers combined.

And the News small page is still a more effective presentation of the advertising message, reaching more eyes, more minds, more buying impulses and buying power.

And The News milline is at an all time low!

Any advertiser in New York—in these times of all times—needs News coverage, News effectiveness, and News economy. And if you do a thoroughly informed, unprejudiced, conscientious space buying job—New York and The News will get a considerable portion of your selling dollars! Details available if you want them.

Paves Way for $8,100,000 Loan Request.

Officials of the Reconstruction Finance corporation in Washington will hear today how unemployment relief needs have grown in Chicago from a total of $3,591,424 of public and private funds expended in 1930 to a total of $17,520,036 of public and private funds expended in the first seven months of this year. In all $33,521,437 has been spent for relief in Chicago in two years and seven months.

They will be told that the demand for relief has increased so sharply that with the additional needs of 52 downstate counties the estimated cost of continuing relief throughout Illinois this winter will amount to twice as much each month as Chicago's total relief bill for the year of 1930.

Seek Loan of $8,100,000.

These conditions will be described by Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, who left for Washington yesterday afternoon. He will present the case today to pave the way for a request for a loan of $8,100,000 to be made tomorrow by a group of city, state, and legislative officials.

When its last loan of six million dollars was advanced to Illinois, bringing the total federal funds advanced to nine million dollars, the board of the R. F. C. demanded proof that Illinois had exhausted its own resources, public and private, before it would advance any more to the state.

Mr. Reynolds plans to present the story of the raising of relief funds, first from private sources in Chicago and then from public sources through the state at large.

Mr. Reynolds is prepared to give RFC officials the data made public yesterday on the anticipated revenue from two legislative measures proposed to raise additional state funds for relief. The measures, which provide for the diversion of gasoline tax funds by the counties and the enactment of county sales taxes up to 5 per cent, will be sponsored next Monday by the joint legislative committee which met last Monday at the reconvening of the legislature. Such legislation was suggested by the RFC as evidence that the state was doing all it could to raise relief funds at home.

Expect Increasing Demand.

In the estimates prepared by the relief commission for the winter months an increasing demand for statewide relief is anticipated. For September a total of $4,934,000 was estimated as the cost of relief; in December the need is expected to rise to $6,505,000, and in February to $7,035,000.

Mayor Cermak will head the party of city and state officials leaving for Washington this afternoon at 2:45 o'clock over the B. & O. railroad. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the relief commission; Corporation Counsel Sexton, State Senators Richard J. Barr, and Thomas J. Courtney, and Representatives Roger Little of Champaign, and Michael L. Igoe will accompany him. Gov. Emmerson will be represented by De Witt Billman, his legal adviser, if he decides not to go. Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, also plans to make the trip.

A. of C. for Sales Tax.

Meanwhile officials of the Chicago Association of Commerce moved yesterday to stimulate local relief measures by adopting a resolution recommending a general state-wide sales tax. More than forty business leaders, including James B. Forgan Jr., first vice president; Harold Smith, executive chairman, and Edward L. Ryerson, head of the emergency relief fund, were present.

The resolution emphasized that taxes should be lowered and governmental costs reduced, but declared that due to the emergency threatened in relief work between $30,000,000 and $36,000,000 is needed.

OLD STOP LIGHTS CAUSE AUTOISTS HEAVY TIME LOSS

Tests Show Cost; South Parks Block Change.

BY HAL FOUST.

THE TRIBUNE roadster was among 8,000 automobiles carrying 16,000 persons who were delayed an average of 2 minutes and 11 seconds during the morning rush hours yesterday due to the antiquated traffic lights in Michigan avenue.

Valuing the time of these motorists at 2 cents a minute, which is less than the scale paid to building trades, the economic loss between 7:30 and 9:30 a. m. was $697.60. At this rate, the time saving in the morning rush hours alone would pay for the installation of a modern traffic control system in less than twenty-three days. The installation cost is estimated at $16,000.

South Park Blocks Change.

The city and the Lincoln park board for more than a year have favored a new stop-and-go system for Michigan avenue, but the south park board has blocked the improvement on the boulevard under its jurisdiction, south of Randolph street.

Test runs in yesterday's morning rush hour, conducted with the assistance of George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club, illustrated the hazards and annoyance of the Michigan avenue lights, as well as the delays from the old fashioned system. Drives in La Salle street, where progressive control has been functioning for a year, were found to be comparatively free of weaving maneuvers, sudden stops and starts, and patience taxing waits.

Spurts in Michigan avenue at 35 miles an hour and open field running failed to compensate for the avoidable delays for red lights. The average speed was 15.3 miles per hour. In La Salle street with the lights encouraging a moderate, uniform, and continuous flow of traffic, the average speed from Lincoln park to the loop was 24.4 miles per hour with a maximum of 28 miles per hour.

Lights Keep Traffic Moving.

In La Salle, with a system such as proposed for Michigan avenue, traffic was kept in an orderly procession at speeds designated by signs. The maintenance of this speed is enforced by the timing of the lights which are synchronized so that the red changes to green at the approach of those adhering to the posted pace.

In Michigan avenue cars were racing, cutting around, and zig-zagging to progress as far as possible before the lights, with simultaneous timing, changed from green to red. East and west traffic was held for as much as 95 seconds waiting to cross Michigan, while the wait to cross the modern La Salle street system was about 35 seconds.

The average driving time during the morning rush hour in La Salle was four minutes and twenty-eight seconds from Lincoln park to Wacker drive, a distance of 9,500 feet or nearly two miles. The average driving time in Michigan avenue and Lake Shore drive from North avenue to Randolph street, a distance of 9,700 feet, was six minutes and fifty-nine seconds.

Lights Run Independently.

In three out of four drives in Michigan avenue, THE TRIBUNE roadster was halted twice by red lights between Ohio street and Randolph street. There is no connection between the traffic lights north of the bridge and those south of the river. A wait of twenty-three seconds for the pedestrian lights in front of the Tribune Tower was followed by a delay of twenty-five seconds for a red light at Wacker. Northbound, after waiting for a red light to change to green at Wacker, traffic was halted by another red light at Ohio street.

This is a story solely on the delays to the morning rush hour traffic due to the failure of officials to modernize the Michigan avenue lights, but the Chicago Motor club has estimated that in twenty-hour hours 75,000 automobiles with 150,000 passengers suffer an avoidable loss of two minutes and forty seconds each. With the time of the car and its passenger valued at 3 cents a minute, this is a loss of $2,300,000 a year. The modernization of the boulevard's light control system is estimated at $16,000 with $30,000 more for refinements desireable although not essential.

Even Neckties Figure in One Course.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Chicago's junior high schools devote much time and money to socializing the children, or, as one teacher put it, "to fit them for class life."

This process includes teaching the value of good manners, the choice of a career, the need of wearing neckties, the study of color harmony, acquisition of a "sense of beauty," folk dancing, painting batiks, baking pies, mechanical drawing, printing and carpentry, and what to do to get "muscle tone."

Suggestions in Art Course.

The board of education's teachers' bulletin on the course of study in art for junior high schools for 1932, under the heading of "specific objectives," says:

"All students should have full opportunity for experimentation in various and self-chosen art expressions for the emotional and esthetic reaction and gain which cannot be adequately measured and judged by material results."

Under "specific problems from the consumer's standpoint," one subtitle is "personal appearance and behavior." Grade 7 should consider "neatness of personal attire" and "effect of color on light and dark haired, blue eyed and brown eyed persons," according to "suggestions for art appreciation." Grade 8 studies in addition "effect of choice of line and pattern for different types of figures," and in Grade 9 "harmony and fitness of accessories" is one point suggested.

The new course of study in English for junior high schools as published by the bureau of curriculum, states that "the teacher [of literature] should carry out the conception of the curriculum as a series of activities which should present a related and progressive survey of the chief elements of happy and successful living."

Principal Explains Trend.

The entire present tendency in education, possibly accentuated in junior high schools, was explained by Miss Mary G. Guthrie, principal of the Burbank junior high school, at 2035 North Mobile avenue, which is adjacent to the Milwaukee railroad tracks.

"Education used to be for the few, now it is for the many," she said. "When I was a girl any number of one's classmates dropped out after the eighth grade. The girls' families said they had 'nervous breakdowns,' and we cruelly used to say it was only that they were stupid. Those girls wouldn't drop out today. The course would be fitted to them.

"Our school in this neighborhood, in which we have 726 junior high school pupils and 763 elementary pupils, is a typical cross section of one part of Chicago. We have almost every nationality here. In few homes is English spoken. We have Scandinavians, Italians, Poles, a few Bohemians and a few Germans. Many of these people owned their own little homes and lived thriftily but comfortably before the depression.

"We want to teach them American ways. So we teach them some things that they would learn in the home otherwise. It is done all over Chicago, and I think is made most interesting. We teach them what they will be able to use in daily living. They like making things with their hands."

As part of his or her school work in Burbank Junior High, each child must join some club. He has his choice. Last year there was a soap carving club, a club which adopted the commercial name of a tissue paper in which girls made paper lampshades, picture frames, graduation gowns and caps and paper flowers; a costume club in which costumes for assembly plays were made; an art club, a dramatic club, a radio club, a stunt club, a dance club, a handicraft club, a marionette club, and others.

In the Burbank Junior High Lights, the school paper, which will be printed in the schol shops if a teacher for printing is supplied this year, the stunt and tumbling club outlined its specialties as "balance, rhythm, coordination, agility, poise, finer muscle tone, strength and clear thinking."

Boys Must Wear Neckties.

No boy may stay in Mrs. Leah G. Wolf's classes in social sciences, which are popular with the pupils, unless he wears a necktie. If he forgets one he chooses one from a stock she keeps on hand.

"I try to instill ideals of higher standards of living in my children," said Mrs. Wolf. "It is uphill work, but it's worth it."

Skyscrapers, boats, bridges, Indians and animals are the favorite subjects in the art classes, said Mrs. Jane M. Perry, head of the department in the junior high school. One of the subjects suggested in the study course outline is called "design based upon rhythmic expression through music experience." For Grade 7 "distinction of conscious relation of music and art" is the first step, the second being "comparison of different tempos—the feeling emphasized through experiencing."

Fewer Students

Lake Forest college opened its 57th session yesterday with an enrollment of 310 students, including a freshman class of 102. The enrollment was 5 per cent less than in 1931. President Herbert M. Moore presided at the chapel exercises in Reid Memorial chapel and addressed the students.

Teachers Make New Plea to Mayor for Pay Help

The South Side Teachers' association last night appealed to Mayor Cermak for assistance in procuring a pay day. The message, signed by Secretary Robert P. Russell, said the teachers' condition "is desperate, with salaries owing since March 30," and pointed out that the school season is now on and teachers are expected to carry on efficiently despite overwhelming debts.

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Jacob C. Kahn of Philadelphia recently paid $8,386.91 in customs duties and fines on foreign purchases they had failed to declare when they arrived here Sept. 13 on the liner Bremen, it was learned today.

DRIVES 80 MILES A WEEK TO AID UNCLE SAM FREE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—(AP)—As an unpaid volunteer, retired because of age by the economy law, Dr. Albert Hassall twice a week drives forty miles to give the government his scientific services free.

Assistant chief of the zoölogical division of the bureau of animal industry of the agricultural department, Dr. Hassall automatically was removed from his place July 1, since he is over 70.

The work he had started then, compiling of an index catalogue of medical and veterinary zoölogy, is being continued by Hassall, who drives in two days a week from his home at Bowie, Md., about twenty miles from the capital, and hopes to make it daily this winter.

The catalogue, said Dr. M. C. Hall, chief of the zoölogical division, is the only one of its kind in the world and indispensable to a proper study of parasites.

Nowadays with the setting sun woman's work is also done

Into the limbo of out-of-date traditions has gone the adage which held that "woman's work is never done!" Nowadays the home is run in a well ordered, business-like manner. Her work is not only done better, but is scheduled for completion before evening; evenings are for companionship and recreation or rest—not for household work or worries. She has modern appliances and modern methods and she charts her day the modern way—

"She plans her meals in the morning"

In the morning she is ready to start the day with renewed interest. She turns to her morning newspaper for its food news and suggestions and its advertisements. It is then that she wants to know about food and is receptive to advertisements that help her to decide what to put on the shopping list she is about to prepare. Tell her in her favorite morning newspaper!

The Herald Tribune is the choice of the type of New York women who can and do buy advertised goods. They choose this newpaper not only because it presents the news they want, in the way they want it, but also because it is of practical help to them every day in the year. They regularly read the food news and suggestions which the Herald Tribune brings to them every day, and also its illustrated fashion news and other helpful features. And they rely on the Herald Tribune's Institute for suggestions and assistance on all kinds of household matters. The regular volume of mail from these keenly interested women is significant of the spirit of close contact between this newspaper and its readers—and is directly reflected in the greater sales-influencing results that are constantly enjoyed by New York Herald Tribune advertisers.

THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR RESULTS!

THAT gift box of cigars you never smoke—that gift bottle of perfume your wife never uses—just money thrown away because the gifts bring no enjoyment, service, or other benefit.

It's the same with want advertising. Want ads that don't produce results aren't worth having as a gift.

Think twice before you spend your money for want ads. Keep your eye on results—not on the cost per line or per word.

Read these bona fide, never-before-quoted testimonials from people who have used Tribune Want Ads in recent weeks. None of these people are Tribune employes. All of them paid for their Tribune Ads at regular card rates. Read their testimony—and then remember:

Any want ad rate is high if you don't rent the apartment, sell the auto, find a buyer for your house, or do any of the hundreds of things that effective want advertising can do for you.

Ask yourself if you would answer a want ad printed in a medium in which you had no confidence or in a medium you didn't even read.

Experienced want ad users know that paper, ink, and circulation alone do not produce results. Without confidence in the medium which prints it, the most attractive, the most legitimate offer will go unheeded.

For twenty years the Chicago Tribune has built reader confidence by rigidly censoring all want advertising offered it.

It does not permit the confidence of readers in all advertising to be undermined by the questionable operations of a few advertisers. Neither knowingly nor carelessly does it tolerate shady dealing in any form.

It does not force reputable advertisers to carry this burden and so increase their cost of doing business.

It does not force some advertisers to compete at a disadvantage by favoring a special few.

It does not allow reruns, except for reasons outlined in its rate card.

The Tribune insists that all advertisers enjoy equal opportunities, pay promptly and at regular card rates.

—why the Tribune gets better results and gets them more quickly than any other Chicago newspaper.

—why the Tribune during the first eight months of 1932, as it has for the past 20 years, printed more want advertising than any other Chicago newspaper.

When you have any job that a want ad can do, phone it to the newspaper that can do the job quickly and at low cost—the Tribune. Call Superior 0100—Want Ad-Viser.

ELECT CRIMINAL COURT DIRECTLY, DAVID PROPOSES Says Plan Would Save Cash, Speed Justice.

Direct election of judges to the Criminal court to replace the present system of selecting them yearly from the Circuit and Superior courts was advocated yesterday in a statement issued by Superior Judge Joseph B. David. He urged that an amendment to the state constitution be submitted to the voters providing for the direct election of Criminal court judges, subject to recall by the state legislature.

JUDGE DAVID.

This plan, he said, would save money, tend to speed up the civil courts, and remove Criminal court judges from all political entaglements.

Informed of the statement, Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime Commission, said there were "serious objections" to the plan.

Loesch Explains Objections.

"I do not believe that Criminal court judges should be elected," he said. "I favor their appointment by the governor, in order that responsibility may be fixed. At present judges try to evade service in the Criminal court. If Judge David's plan were adopted I believe it would tend to attract a lower type of candidate to the Criminal bench. The better type of candidate probably would set up his candidacy for a civil judgeship, glad to be relieved of the criminal work.

"Another objection is that the judges are likely to fall under malign influences and become a sort of fixture to be dealt with by unscrupulous persons. The system of direct election of Criminal court judges was abandoned in 1870 after consideration of these factors."

Thinks Change Is Needed.

In his statement, Judge David quoted the constitution of 1870, under which the present plan was set up, and said: "We have now been operating under this constitution for nearly 60 years, and in my judgment the time is ripe for a change."

He pointed out that as Cook county alone would be interested in the amendment, it would not be difficult to obtain such a change if no additional expense is saddled on the voters. The change would free Circuit and Superior judges to devote their entire time to civil cases, and do away with necessity of country judges sitting in Chicago at added expense, Judge David said.

Criminal court judges elected under his plan would try to keep pace with their work and would become expert in administration of criminal law, the judge said.

Judge David urged that the amendment be submitted at the next general assembly, and provide for 10 judges, including a chief justice; that the salary be the same as that of Circuit and Superior court judges with additional compensation for the chief justice of $2,500 annually.

SON OF BANKER SUICIDE DIES IN 8 STORY PLUNGE

Chance Acquaintance Is Questioned.

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—William Bartley Knox, son of the late William E. Knox, president of the Bowery Savings bank, who shot himself in February, 1927, jumped or fell to his death from an eighth story window of his apartment house in East 54th street early today.

A chance acquaintance whom he had picked up a few hours earlier on the French line pier, a checker who gave his name as Larry Morgan, was asleep in an adjoining room and was found there when investigating detectives broke into the apartment.

Knox's wife, the former Alice Castree Williams, was not in the apartment last night and, according to other residents of the house, has not been there for several weeks. They believed she was away from the city for the summer season.

When awakened by detectives, Morgan said he met Knox as the latter was leaving the French line pier, where he had bid good-by to a friend sailing on the Paris. Together they went to a speakeasy, he continued, and then to Knox's apartment. There they had a row and Knox retired to his own room, locking the door, Morgan said. Morgan said he then went to sleep in the living room. He was detained for further examination.

Knox's father was one of the leading bankers of New York. He shot himself through the chest in a private sleeping room over his office in the 42d street branch of the Bowery bank, leaving a will which made no mention of his son.

JUDGE FISHER'S $9,000 JURY FUND STIRS PROTESTS

'Politics,' Says Swanson; Unpaid Complain.

Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court indicated in a brief statement yesterday that he had not been consulted regarding the special grand jury impaneled by Judge Harry Fisher when he was chief justice and for which the latter obtained a $9,000 appropriation Tuesday from the county board.

"I know nothing about the matter," said the present chief justice. "I will confer at the earliest opportunity with Judge Fisher."

Court Upholds Fisher.

The grand jury is an outgrowth of the recent Republican primary fight for state's attorney between Judge Michael Feinberg and State's Attorney Swanson. At that time a petition was presented to Judge Feinberg asking for the special jury. Judge Fisher, then chief justice, took over the jury and sent a test case to the Supreme court to decide which judge had jurisdiction.

The Supreme court ruled the chief justice of the Criminal court had sole jurisdiction over the grand jury as well as over the administrative affairs of the Criminal court.

Swanson Criticises Fisher.

"It seems to me that Judge Fisher has nothing to do with any grand jury, either regular or special," said Prosecutor Swanson yesterday when asked regarding the legal aspects of the situation in view of the recent Supreme court decision. "Judge Fisher asked for a decision on the subject when he was chief justice, and he should abide by the ruling he obtained. The question of a grand jury is solely within the jurisdiction of Chief Justice Prystalski.

"Judge Fisher is now in the same position as was Judge Feinberg when the grand jury was taken away from him. Judge Fisher is no longer in the Criminal court, and his action in lobbying before the county board for an appropriation for a grand jury in which he is supposed to have no interest plainly shows the real motive behind the entire affair."

Unpaid Employés Protest.

The appropriation allowed by the county board for the payment of salaries of Attorney Edmund D. Adcock, who was appointed a special prosecutor by Judge Fisher, and such assistants as he may appoint, caused considerable dissension yesterday among Criminal court employés, who have received no salaries for five months.

"It is funny the county board can dig up $9,000 to give to some lawyers for an investigation and cannot find money to pay us," said one of the building employés.

Younger and Taller Men to Be Chosen.

The 400 men ordered by Mayor Cermak to be added to the Chicago police department by Dec. 1 are depended on to invigorate the force, it was learned yesterday. In the words of Richard J. Collins, president of the civil service commission, they will be "healthy, strong, rugged young men who will not go on the disability list very soon."

The plan to have the additional policemen on the streets during the winter when crime increases was announced by the mayor on Tuesday. The police force, he pointed out, has fallen off from 5,345 men to 5,180 men since last Jan. 1. An eligibility list will be posted by the civil service commission next week.

Younger and Taller Men.

"The new policemen will be younger and taller men," Mr. Collins said in explaining the revised specifications for patrolmen. "More than that, their personal records must stand investigating.

"The age limit has been reduced from 21 to 21 years. The former minimum height was 5 feet 8 inches. Now it is 5 feet 9 inches, and the minimum weight is 150 pounds. Big men always make a greater impression on offenders.

"I have great faith in these new policemen. They will be surrounded by a better atmosphere. They will be taken honestly from the list of eligibles. Character is going to tell. If a man has a bad record of any kind, off he goes. There have been men on the force with criminal records, but they are going.

The Pick of 17,000.

"As for these new men, I am sure the city will be proud of them. None of them look like drivers of brewery wagons. They are the finest kind of athletes and we get the pick of 17,000 applicants in this group of 400 men. Some are college and university graduates.

"One of these men replied when I asked him why he chose to be a policeman: 'If I pass this examination I want to make my start in the police department. I want you to watch my career because I am going to be a captain of police in a short time.'"

The new men, after being certified by the civil service commission, will be sent to the police training school, headed by Maj. John Bander, at the Fillmore station. They will receive two months of intensive training instead of the usual three months, so that they may be on the streets by Dec. 1.

Seek to Bar Bachrach from Private Law Practice

Attorney Mary Belle Spencer, acting in behalf of a group of taxpayers, yesterday notified President Emmett Whealan of the county board that unless the salary of Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach is stopped at once proceedings will be started against each of the county commissioners. The action was based on the fact that Attorney Bachrach is privately employed as a defense counsel in the case of nine officials of H. O. Stone & Co. in the federal court. Attorney Bachrach said he had obtained a leave of absence to appear in the Stone trial and added that he had not had a vacation for two years.

CHURCH TO FEED NEEDY AT COST OF 15C A MEAL

Monroe, Mich., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The First Baptist church of Monroe is making plans to open a dining room in which meals can be obtained at a low cost to the needy. Three meals will be served every day in the dining room of the church at 15 cents each. The food will be purchased from and cooked by those who need the money, the Rev. S. T. Dunks stated.

"Many families in Monroe are going hungry because they won't accept charity from the city or from the organized private charities, so we have devised this plan. We are going to urge those who can afford it to buy books of tickets and give them or loan them to their needy friends."

The menu for the noon meal Thursday is thick vegetable soup, home made bread and butter, rice pudding, and coffee. At the evening meal the menu will be meat pie, bread and butter, applesauce, and coffee. The dining room will serve 150.

OLD TIMERS OF KLONDIKE MOURN FOR 'BLACKJACK'

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Sourdoughs and old timers of the Klondike gold rush and early construction days of British Columbia mourned today at the funeral of one of the northwest's most picturesque characters, Ronald J. "Blackjack" MacDonnell. He died in Vancouver at the age of 80.

MacDonnell was born in San Francisco. He came here when five years of age. Growing up with Victoria, he opened up the famous Savoy, best known dance hall, bar, and vaudeville house on the Pacific coast, where the pioneers and political lights who brought British Columbia into the confederation mingled freely.

When the Klondike gold strike brought the famous trail of '98, Blackjack moved north. Later he followed the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific and at Port Essington, B. C., opened what was claimed to be the largest bar, not only in America, but in the world. He passed out the fortunes he made rapidly to an army of broken down old miners.

SCORES HEALED BY DR. BILLINGS TO ATTEND RITES

Profession Pays Tribute to Physician.

Hundreds of those whom he had treated and restored to health are expected to attend the funeral today of Dr. Frank Billings, dean of Chicago physicians, who died Tuesday evening at his home, 1550 North State parkway, after a brief illness.

The services will be held from the residence to the Fourth Presbyterian church at 2:30 p. m. Burial will be private and friends have been requested not to send flowers.

Changes Living Habits.

Many stories were current yesterday of the influence of Dr. Billings on the lives and living habits of Chicagoans; this, in addition to his spectacular achievements in founding and maintaining famous institutions which brought out new facts that have proven invaluable in combating diseases that were previously epidemic.

Dr. Franklin H. Martin yesterday attributed to Dr. Billings a change in the habits of certain prominent Chicagoans of the nineties. One business leader, he said, sought out Dr. Billings in his office at State street and Jackson boulevard.

The young practitioner—he was 35 at the time—told the financial autocrat to remove all his clothing. Then he went over the large body in a thorough way and announced:

"There's nothing the matter with you except that you're too fat and you work too hard. Learn to walk from your home to your office and cut out your big luncheons. Then you'll be all right."

Doctor's Advice Works.

Trying out the advice, this leader found it worked. Others followed, and Dr. Billings gained the following that remained his up almost to the day of his death. Among those whom he treated were Marshall Field, Byron L. Smith, Levi Leiter, Harlow Higinbotham, Edward Carey, Gustavus Swift, P. D. Armour, Marvin Hughitt, Moses Wentworth, Cyrus McCormick, John G. Shedd, and Carter Harrison Sr.

Some of his patients, it was related, balked against giving up all alcoholic drinks. Dr. Billings, ever the diplomat, used this mild retort to promote other healthful measures:

"You can have a drink, but you'll have to earn it," he said.

Work for Their Drinks.

"There's a Scotch game called golf. It furnishes a mild exercise. Play nine or eighteen holes twice a week and take a drink or two of whisky with soda as your reward."

Dr. Billings was said to have been the first physician in Chicago to insist that his patients undergo periodic physical examinations which enabled him to find and remedy defects before they became serious.

BOLIVIAN TROOPS GET FOOD BY AIR IN LONG SIEGE

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 21.—A desperate battle in the depths of the disputed Chaco jungle between embattled Bolivian troops and besieging Paraguayans is described in dispatches today from Asuncion, Paraguay.

Both sides still claim possession of Fort Boqueron after two weeks of bitter fighting. From conflicting dispatches from the capitals of the two countries, it appeared that Bolivian troops still occupy the fort, but that they are surrounded by Paraguayan troops and are cut off from all but airplane communication with their headquarters.

Airplanes, it is said, are dropping food supplies to the beleaguered fortress. Not far from the fort, it is declared, there is a well of fresh water, in a 500 foot clearing in the jungle. From time to time Bolivian soldiers try to crawl out to this well. Concealed Paraguayan snipers pick off the Bolivians one by one as they appear.

The army is incorporated under the British Columbia societies act and has six directors. Neither salaries nor wages are paid. There is a general store and coupons have been issued to the amount of $5,000, the value of the stock.

'Luxury Liner' Runs Emotional Scale of Life

Germans Place It Above 'Grand Hotel.'

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Luxury Liner," by Gina Kaus [Long-Smith].

GERMANY was critically much more excited over "Luxury Liner," than it was over Vicki Baum's enormously popular success, "Grand Hotel," with which it naturally was compared. The German critics found in it everything that was present in "Grand Hotel" and more besides.

One of the critics declared, "In Frau Kaus' book everything is warm humanity, wise and penetrating understanding. Frau Baum contents herself with the superficial description of situations with ready made types and sensations which are not very sensational. One needs only to take up both books and compare them to see clearly which has the real quality and which only pretense."

"Luxury Liner" is labeled with such brilliant tags as "real masterpiece," "a work of art," "a model of how fiction should be written," "one of the best of modern books." Germany was swept off its feet—critical and otherwise—by Frau Kaus' novel.

Readers of English will also find it a fascinating piece of work. From sun deck to hold a great ocean liner is alive with life in its pages. There are intensely individualized characters. They love, they are gay, they sicken, their hearts break, and all of the emotions which rack or elate them are somehow intensified by the strange power which the sea has over mankind, suspending in some inexplicable way, man in space, between continent and continent, emotionally as well as physically.

Gina Kaus has written certainly the most exciting novel yet penned about that brief sojourn in space which is an ocean voyage. It has drama on every page. All of the human emotions are celebrated in it, lives are made and wrecked, and the presence on board of the richest man in the world and the most beautiful woman affect the lives above and below decks.

A hint from the girl, and the stock of a vast company controlled by the man is shot to the skies. Almost every human being on the boat takes a flyer in the stock, the passengers in the steerage massing the dollars vital to their entry into America to buy a share or two communally. Added to the tenseness of the tale of the individual human reactions is the tensity of the future to the little world afloat at sea. There are no acts of God to give the book drama. No storms leave the passengers shuddering with terror, no shrill shrieks in the even, calm song of the machinery. The drama is all in the human terrors and joys and gentlenesses and cruelties.

And how exciting that drama is a reader will soon discover. The book opens with a Bad Kissingen doctor's discovery that his wife has run away with an American. When he traces her and her lover to the great luxury liner and is unable to get one bed in any cabin on her mileage of corridors fate offers him the chance to go on the boat as the ship's doctor. That is only one of the materials out of which human drama boils from the penpoint of Gina Kaus.

The translation of "Luxury Liner" was made by Otto Theis.

Among the many books published today is another of the famous Belloc-Chesterton collaborations. "The Postmaster General," by Hilaire Belloc, with 30 sketches by G. K. Chesterton, is as much a delight as the previous jolly literary bastinadoes of Mr. Belloc. This time the satire is of a day slightly remote, 1980, in the second administration of Mrs. Boulger, and concerns the antics of the postmaster general who did a little sleight of handling of a couple of envelopes. He tells of those purloined documents in the hands of absurd financiers and absurd politicians, with absurd society hostesses clamoring in the back and foreground.

Also published today is "Adventures in Living," by Muriel Jaeger [Morrow]. The author has chosen a stoic, a Christian, a man of the world, a child of nature, and a free woman as examples of humans who set out to live their own lives . . . Cato, St. Francis, Lord Chesterfield, Thomas Day, and George Sand . . . and in a shrewd and entertaining volume she has told how they succeeded.

Loyola Dean Cites Slump in Plea for a "Different" Ideal

Loyola university freshmen were urged yesterday to be "different from those who have caused our present economic, political, and religious muddle" by the Rev. Thomas A. Egan, S. J., dean of the college of arts and sciences, at the first convocation of the school year.

"Your forbears have produced a world surcharged with synthesis; a Frankenstein of unsympathetic, greedy, mechanized men," he said. "Success is the only code of ethics; failure the supreme sin. The result is our present colossal, cosmic collapse, deceitfully dubbed the depression."

"When a man fails," the dean continued, "even though his business sins be not as great as those of his contemporaries, vulture-like, the public fattens on his bones. To combat this debacle, your philosophy of life must be a well thought out unity, not a patched together crazy quilt. Mind must master matter. You must be convinced that 'in the beginning, God created heaven and earth' according to an infinitely wise plan. You must discover that plan and your place in it."

Dickie is the son of the John W. O'Connells, Scotty and Beth are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Davis, and Mary is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Carpenter. Ines de Soriano Is Engaged to Young Spaniard

Chauncey B. Blair Gets News in Cable.

BY JUDITH CASS.

INTERESTING news about the lovely Ines de Soriano was received yesterday in a cable from her mother, the Marquise de Iyanrey, to the latter's brother, Chauncey B. Blair. Miss de Soriano is engaged to a young Spaniard, Gonzalo de Lagandara, and the only information about him contained in the cable is that he is a fine young man and the family is delighted at the engagement.

The cable is from Geneva, Switzerland, where the marquise and her daughter are visiting the former's mother, Mrs. Chauncey J. Blair, at her villa at Chambesy, just out of Geneva.

Miss de Soriano has visited in Chicago numerous times and made her debut here at a reception at the Casino on Dec. 10, 1928. She is an attractive girl and lovely looking, but not the great beauty that marked her mother, the former Italia Blair, as one of the most radiant beauties Chicago ever had and before her marriage to the Spanish nobleman in 1907 in Paris she was acclaimed by Sir Philip Burne Jones as "the most beautiful woman in America," and his opinion was shared by experts in this country and abroad.

The marquise and her daughter have been living in Paris recently and it is probable that the marriage will take place there, although that information was not contained in Mr. Blair's cable; in fact, no mention was made of wedding plans.

Mrs. Dewey and Louise Return.

Mrs. Charles S. Dewey and Miss Louise Dewey arrived at home yesterday from their summer abroad, and although Mrs. Dewey hadn't had time to decide on a date for Louise's debut when I talked to her yesterday she did say that she and Louise had about decided to have a debut tea this autumn at home, which to the Deweys is an attractive house at 1507 State parkway.

Louise was presented at the British court in June and then she and her mother went to Granville in Normandy, where they were joined by the younger son of the family, Peter; Mr. Dewey, and his father, Albert B. Dewey. The Charles Deweys left their family in Granville while they visited Poland [where they renew old friendships made in the days when he was financial adviser to that country], Germany, Switzerland and Italy, and then he came home, but he was in New York to meet the others when they landed on the Paris Monday.

Peter went directly to Concord, N. H., from New York to be on hand for the opening of St. Paul's school today. The senior Mr. Dewey still is in Paris, but he will return in about a month. In addition to having the honor of being presented at the British court in June, Miss Dewey won a prize at the Concour d'Elegance held in Granville this summer for being the best dressed young woman there, and since her mother tells me she was wearing a blue and white foulard which was bought, if not actually made, in Chicago, that really is quite a compliment for this country as well as for Miss Dewey, isn't it?

In the same competition she won the prize for driving the smartest motor car, which was her grandfather's and also American made, so, all in all, American made fashions, girls, and motor cars scored a success over French ones that day. The Deweys bought an old abbey in Nor-

Good Morning!

Ah, those good old days when we shivered ecstatically through "The Adventures of Kathlyn" and "The Perils of Pauline" made us swallow our gum! Remember them? You will when you see "Chandu."

This bloodcurdling reminder of serial thrillers of yore is also reminiscent of the epic controversy between Sherlock Holmes and Prof. Moriarty. Chandu, a yogi with a hypnotizing eye, is dedicated to the cause of right. Roxor, a madman of fiendish and varied powers, is concerned with devilment and devilment only. When the two come to swords' points you know that, in the long run, it is just going to be too bad for one or the other adversary. And, wotting your movies as you do, how can you doubt as to which foe comes out on top?

Chandu had once been a Capt. Channing, famous in the English army for deeds of bravery and magic. Because of his powers along the latter line he had decided to study with the holy men. When the picture opens you see him at his graduation exercises—walking through fire, creating rope out of nothing and causing little boys to vanish into thin air. When he looks in a crystal he sees things and when danger threatens anybody near to him an astral bell sounds a sepulchral warning. No sooner has he become yogi than ball and bell get busy and Chandu beholds his brother-in-law, who has just completed a great invention, enmeshed in the toils of the wicked Roxor.

CHANDU TO THE RESCUE . . . !

Messrs. Lowe and Lugosi play their respective rôles with relish and a deal of eye work. Irene Ware is properly pretty and helpless in the romantic feminine lead, while Virginia Hammond and June Vlasek pleasingly portray Chandu's sister and niece. Herbert Mundun, as one Miggles, who had orderlied for Channing in the war and becomes Man Friday to Chandu, contributes the comedy. Weldon Heyburn is handsome and reasonably sinister as a sort of "other man."

The piece has been staged with appropriate eeriness and photography and direction are adequate.

"Chandu," which, I am told, has radio connections in serial form as "The Adventures of Chandu," is not for the blasé. But for those who don't take their movies too seriously—and like to remember—the film furnishes an honest two bits' worth of entertainment.

See you soon!

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Suits to wear from the magic hour of five until midnight are an autumn hobby of the Paris couturiers. They are a continuance of the "Don't Dress" movement which has had such a success in Paris these last few months. The kind of formal suit shown in our sketch is the suit that smart women like to wear from five to bedtime whenever they aren't obliged to put on formal evening clothes.

Suits like these are usually made of velvet or its sturdier sister, velveteen. Women prefer dull finished velvet when they choose silk velvet, but quite as many prefer their dressy suits in velveteen. Dark colors are invariably the choice of particular women for such suits. Dark brown, green, red, black are a quartet of the smartest velvet suit colors this season. The jacket is either trimmed with fur, or it has a fur piece that seems to belong to it, and to it alone.

The Lucile Parny suit shown in our sketch is a fur trimmed velvet suit, a symphony in dark, reddish brown. The fitted hip length jacket has the fashionable feminine shoulder line, secured in this case by tiny capelets over the sleeves. The dark brown fox fur collar has an amusing twist. It is made of two fox skins, and the heads are at the bottom turned outward and placed on the hips.

Charges Alliance with Capitalism Threatens Church

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Entangling alliances between capitalism and the church will soon strangle the church, Prof. George A. Coe, a former professor in Columbia university, told about 50 religious educators of the Methodist Episcopal church yesterday at Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston.

Dr. Coe told these leaders, who are assembled to revise the Sunday school curricula used by Methodists throughout the country, that the only way the church can be saved is to lead it out of the "clutches of capitalism."

"If we don't do that we're lost," said Dr. Coe. "Capitalism and democracy do not go together."

Present day leadership in religious education, Dr. Coe asserted, is the most effective instrument for shedding new light on the economic situation. Dr. Coe charged evasion against any system of religious education which did not reject capitalism for the demand that the social order rest solely on Christianity.

The Rev. Roy E. Burt, Socialist candidate for governor of Illinois, led the devotions of the group at the opening of the sessions. The conference will continue until Sept. 30.

Suits Arrive in Full Force for Shoppers

BY RHEA SEEGER.

WHILE a certain amount of suit enthusiasm seems to have been stifled by one person or another in weeks gone by, lately the bars have been removed and—we the suit shoppers are now being deluged with some of the best looking fur trimmed suits starved female suit collectors have ever waited for. Black suits, brown suits, tweed suits, checked suits and colored suits, all with clever new tricks in fur decoration are now hanging in every shop in town.

Suits with blouses are the answer to what to wear for a festive afternoon and evening . . . and how you are going to like the blouses. They are made of the softest and smoothest satins imaginable. High choked necklines are contrived with real bows that tie, and some of the newest blouses have at least three, the idea being the more to tie the better the blouse.

Creamy blush pink blouses and old ivory satins gleam entrancingly against the suede smooth fabrics of black and brown and other dark toned suits. These blouses are intricate affairs with puffed sleeves achieved with pleats and tucks . . . they slide easily into the sleeves of the suit coat that are also fashioned with puffs.

There is a new bronze green suit that will leave you in a state until you buy it for your own. The coat is trimmed with cinnamon brown Persian lamb fur and lavish amounts of this fur decorate both sides of the front panels of the coat, a flared stand-up collar frames the face and a wide belt of the same green bronze wool of the suit is clasped with a bronze metal buckle over the side panels of fur. The coat sleeves remind you of the perky puffed sleeves the gay belles of the nineties fluttered about in. . . then they were called leg-o-mutton, but what they will be christened this season remains a mystery.

Black broadcloth suits and three piece costumes or ensembles of this suave, mysterious, and utterly feminine fabric are just starting on what will probably be the dizziest whirl of fashionable popularity.

Clinging dresses that are starkly simple in design and absolutely guiltless of decoration or any sort of color contrast, hug the fashionable silhouette for afternoon and evening . . . and fascinating short puffed sleeved coats and jackets of black broadcloth always top these dresses.

One stunning ensemble consists of a gorgeous evening gown of chiffon thin broadcloth . . . it is gored and fashioned like the swirling bell shaped creations of 30 or 40 years ago, when a skirt was made of so many different shaped sections that only an expert could succeed in assembling the pieces. This year the makers cut and assembled in the same way but went further and designed the skirt as part of the dress, all in one long smooth silhouette bodice top and skirt.

The matching coat is made with large sleeves and the wide flattering lapels are encrusted with snowy ermine.

Russian looking suits are made of steel grey wool trimmed with bands of shaded grey Persian lamb . . . wine red suits also use bands of Persian in gray and black or brown. Some stunning red suits are knockouts with yards of rich brown nutria wandering around the neckline, sleeves and cuffs, and some interesting models are available with matching round roguish looking muffs.

Suit shoppers can now spend the money they have been hoarding while waiting for the new crop of ideas . . . the suit collections are something to see this year. They are unusually becoming for every personality and priced with due respect for all budgets.

Thirty cowboy musicians, members of Col. W. T. Johnson's famous Texas musical organization, will arrive in Chicago tonight to make personal appearances prior to the opening of the second annual world's championship rodeo at the Chicago Stadium on Friday night, Sept. 30. Norma Talmadge Knows Secret of Keeping Slim

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I saw Norma Talmadge recently back stage at the theater at which she was appearing for a week. I had not seen her for a long, long time, she being out of pictures or away on vacations when I happened to be in Hollywood.

She was wearing a form fitting black evening gown, floor length, of course, and more or less backless. A long rope of amber beads and a tier of amber bracelets completed her costume, except, perhaps, for a rare coat of tan which should be included in the ensemble.

Norma is just as stunning a beauty as ever. Her short cut, blue-black hair waves just as beautifully on that small and shapely head of hers. But her figure is the thing to write home and tell the folks about! It's grand! That's one young woman who won't have to worry about belt landings. She can tie one wherever the fancy strikes her and it will be all right with me and the Paris couturiers and you and any one else who happens to see her.

You hear Hollywood tales about girls who, idling between pictures, plunge into forbidden food orgies and plump themselves into screen oblivion. But I guess they're just tall tales around our favorite gossiped-about characters. Anyway, Norma's figure hasn't a single "sweets" bulge. It's better, if anything, than it ever was.

She has that grand curved-in line running between breast-hollow and waist, a beautifully curved bustline and a lovely, slender hip line. There's nothing like a simple black, form fitting, long skirted evening frock to emphasize a beautiful silhouette's slender beauty, is there?

Miss Talmadge tells me of a diet for which you'd have to pay a heap of money did you spend a couple of weeks at the Californian sanitarium where it is practiced by would-be thinners. It's three fruits for breakfast, light meat for luncheon, and three vegetables. At dinner, meat and three vegetables. Fruit juice in between meals if you must have something.

The Murder of Caroline Bundy

By ALICE CAMPBELL.

SYNOPSIS.

Neil Starkey, American biographer, is engaged by Caroline Bundy to compile the life and letters of her late father, a famous English biologist. Neil is mystified by the peculiarities of Miss Bundy, who is broken in health and mentally disturbed. She has hired a photographer, named Tilbury, as bailiff, who with his wife, a common, illiterate couple, occupy the lodge, and hold a strange influence over Caroline. Neil meets Natasha Andreyev, Caroline's half Russian niece, beautiful, but fiery tempered, who is Caroline's secretary. He moves to the Bundy estate in Somerset and Caroline puts him in charge of the library in the daytime, cautioning him to admit no one. She tells him her father, a man of science, was also a mystic. Caroline and the Tilburys hold nightly meetings in the library. Neil has a friend, Giles Gisborne, who is vicar of a nearby parish and lives with his sister, Rachel. Neil has lunch in Bath with Rachel and Tasha. He sees Tasha hold a secret meeting with a strange man and later sees her pay the stranger's bill in the tearoom. Neil is attracted to Tasha, but is baffled by her odd behavior.

INSTALLMENT X.

SUPPRESSED EMOTIONS.

"If I may say so," said Neil, "your aunt doesn't seem quite normal. I noticed it as soon as I arrived."

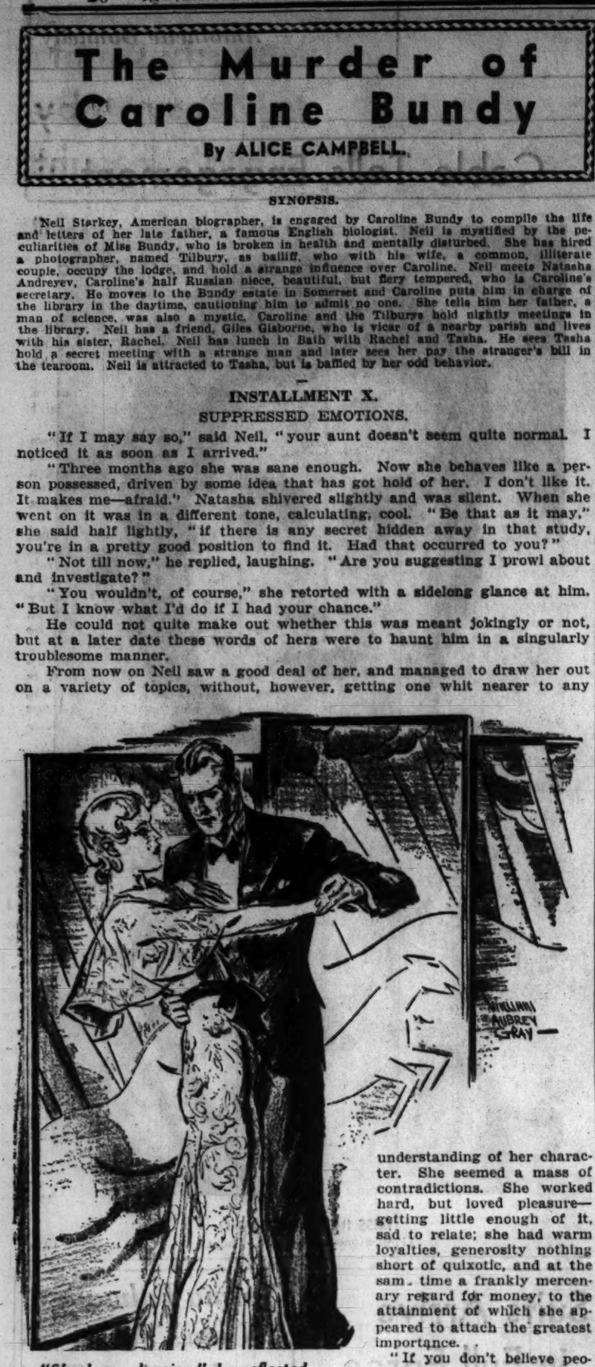
"Three months ago she was sane enough. Now she behaves like a person possessed, driven by some idea that has got hold of her. I don't like it. It makes me—afraid." Natasha shivered slightly and was silent. When she went on it was in a different tone, calculating, cool. "Be that as it may," she said half lightly, "if there is any secret hidden away in that study, you're in a pretty good position to find it. Had that occurred to you?"

"Not till now," he replied, laughing. "Are you suggesting I prowl about and investigate?"

"You wouldn't, of course," she retorted with a sidelong glance at him. "But I know what I'd do if I had your chance."

He could not quite make out whether this was meant jokingly or not, but at a later date these words of hers were to haunt him in a singularly troublesome manner.

From now on Neil saw a good deal of her, and managed to draw her out on a variety of topics, without, however, getting one whit nearer to any understanding of her character. She seemed a mass of contradictions. She worked hard, but loved pleasure—getting little enough of it, sad to relate; she had warm loyalties, generosity nothing short of quixotic, and at the same time a frankly mercenary regard for money, to the attainment of which she appeared to attach the greatest importance.



"She loves dancing," he reflected, "she loves dancing—with me."

"If you don't believe people will do almost anything to get money," she once said to him, "it's because you've never happened to need it badly yourself. "It's by far the biggest thing in life—when you haven't got it. It makes crooked ways straight."

"Sometimes the reverse," he reminded her.

"No, only the lack of it. Think of the men who go wrong when a little—O, a very little—help would keep them to the right track! And the rotten part of it is that those who can give that help refuse to do anyhing."

He guessed that she was brooding on a definite case, also that her frequent restlessness and look of unhappy preoccupation came from worry over the affairs of the man in whom she was interested, but not once did she let fall any hint which could clear the matter up in his own mind. Her reticence about her present life and even the later years in Paris was so pronounced that he soon despaired of learning anything about either. Whenever he brought the conversation round to matters which concerned her personally she turned the subject at once.

"There's nothing worth telling," she would say. "Just one long fight to keep alive—till I came here, of course . . . I'd much rather you talked to me about your early days in America."

She seemed to be weaving romance out of the history which had never before been other than commonplace to him. She made him describe his home in the Chesapeake valley, the big farmhouse in which he had grown up, his father, the staid judge who had sat in the United States senate and longed for Neil to follow in his footsteps, the whole life at Princeton university, and the chain of circumstances which had led to literature and wanderings.

Sometimes, without a word of explanation, she would drive off alone in the evenings, not returning till after midnight, on which occasions Neil conjured up scenes distinctly displeasing, though he stoutly refused to call his feelings by their proper name. What—jealous, when he was not in love?

He was now positively convinced of Natasha's infatuation for the unknown in Bath, and sure in his own mind what these excursions of hers meant. Once or twice curiosity drove him almost to the point of making inquiries at the garage where he had purchased his two seater, but scruples forbade such a step. After all, what right had he to pry into Natasha Andreyev's private concerns? His activities in this direction were delayed till a later period, and so, wondering and inwardly chafing at the unanswered conundrum, he let three weeks drift by and bring him to the evening which, in more ways than one, represented a definite crisis in events.

Miss Bundy, for almost the first time since his arrival, had dined at her own table, a circumstance brought about by Mrs. Tilbury's cousin from Cornwall coming to spend the night. Lately the old lady, though still utterly absorbed in her project, had been slightly better tempered, but tonight she was as peevish as a child deprived of a treat. Possibly there was something more than disappointment to account for this. Neil was inclined to think so when, just as they were finishing coffee, Crabbe bent over her with a message which caused her to start as though touched on a raw spot.

"Peters wants to see me? What impertinence! Send him away at once."

"He won't go, miss. He says he'll wait till you come."

"Very well, I will see him—though it won't do him any good. The man must be mad to think I have nothing better to do than go over his misdeeds!"

So saying, she trudged resolutely from the room, the living embodiment of a brewing storm. Natasha looked after her with silent apprehension, then bent her head towards the match Neil held out for her cigaret. The firelight glinted along the tarnished gold ripples of her hair, from which stole an indefinable fragrance, fresh and wild like the scent of daffodils.

Her green and yellow chiffon frock had a narrow belt defining her waist, and a fluttering shoulder cape through which her arms showed slender and firmly modeled; her hair swept back boldly behind her small ears and lay on her neck in a smooth roll. She was so soignée, so exquisite, for all the free sweep of her carriage, that it was hard to imagine her as he had seen her a few hours before, clad in rough overalls, tinkering with the car—and yet she was as unstudied now as then.

"This rag? Yes—it came over with me, nearly two years ago," she replied with rueful scorn. "All my clothes are ancient—not that it matters in the least in these wilds."

It did matter, though. He guessed how much from the disgust with which she suddenly eyed the neat darn on her silk ankle. No one could care more for beautiful clothes than she did, or wear them to better advantage. Was she denying herself in order to provide for another's wants?

Perhaps his continued scrutiny conveyed something of what he was thinking. At all events she turned away quickly, and going to a cabinet he had not noticed till now bent over to turn a handle. At once the warm strains of dance music flooded in upon them—saxophones and horns blended together in a seductive rhythm.

"Whence the radio?" he exclaimed in surprise. "I thought Miss Bundy hated it."

"So she does, but—well, other people can't exist without one. The two valve set at the lodge isn't quite good enough, it seems. Connie likes tuning in to foreign stations."

Their eyes met, and they broke into surreptitious laughter over this new proof of the old lady's subservience to her favorites' whims. Not for Natasha, who long ago might have enjoyed this mild diversion, had the super-instrument been installed. No, it was for the little Cockney woman, now in and out of the house from morning to night. It passed comprehension.

The music swelled and pulsed till it became an irresistible invocation. Neil threw his cigaret into the fire and held out his arms with a gesture quickly understood. Natasha smiled, moved toward him, and in another second it was as though twin bits of magnetized steel had drawn together.

"She loves dancing," he reflected, and soon afterwards, with an odd exultation, "she loves dancing—with me." The triumph which surged through him was charged with immense potentialities.

Casting Office Hunts in Vain for Big Girls

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 21.—For 15 years it has been the proud boast of the Hollywood casting offices that they could go right out and supply any needed types in any needed number, but, alas, the casting officers and Cecil B. De Mille quickly found themselves stumped when they wanted to sign up 20 "muscular women weighing more than 135 pounds" to play in De Mille's "Sign of the Cross."

The confession of defeat appeared in the help wanted columns of all dailies today, stipulating that the women must be "physically powerful, between five feet nine inches and six feet tall." The big girls, when finally gathered together, will be fitted with breastplates and short skirts and used in a Roman gladiatorial battle scene against armed dwarfs.

Nancy Drexel and young Tom Ince took out their three day notice of intention to wed yesterday. Nancy used her real name, Dorothy Kitchen, and gave her age as 20—the same age as her husband-to-be. Ince's mother, widow of the late Tom Ince and now a woman hotel magnate in Hollywood, where she married Holmes Herbert, the actor, appeared at the license bureau with the young couple, who intend to leave Hollywood after their marriage Sept. 28 and spend their honeymoon attending college together.

James Cagney, the redheaded actor who struck for more money from Warner Brothers, has won his battle of many months. At an extended conference attended yesterday by motion picture academy "sh-sh" men, Warner field generals, and Cagney's representative, a truce was agreed upon. Jimmy goes back to work probably next week as soon as details of the agreement are completed.

mandy this summer, so it looks as if they planned to spend at least a part of every summer there.

Miss Harrington Bride Today.

The marriage of Miss Sophia Harrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bates Harrington, to Jacob Bischof will take place this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest, the Rev. Herbert Prince officiating.

Only the relatives and a few friends will witness the ceremony, but there will be a larger company at the reception to follow at 945 Maplewood road, Lake Forest, where the Harringtons have spent the summer.

Miss Mary Bates Harrington will be her sister's honor maid and Ann Harrington and Mrs. Richard H. Fleming will be the bridesmaids. Warren Bicknell Jr. of Cleveland will be the best man and ushering will be John B. Ryerson of Cooperstown, N. Y.; Augustus W. Bennet of Newburgh, N. Y.; John W. Blodgett Jr. of Grand Rapids, Charles Hines and Davis Kales of Chicago.

Among the out of town guests here for the occasion are Mr. and Mrs. Bicknell Sr. of Cleveland, Mrs. Harrington's sister; Miss Katherine Williamson of Chestnut Hill, Pa., and Mr. Harrington's aunt, Mrs. Willard Hall Porter of Wilmington, Del. Mr. Bischof and his bride will be at home after Oct. 15 at 73 East Elm street.

A popular place in Lake Forest this morning will be Mrs. Clyde M. Carr's house, for Miss Janet Fairbank is to give a recital there, starting at 11 o'clock, and numbers of Miss Fairbank's friends will be there. Mrs. Tiffany Blake is entertaining at luncheon for Miss Fairbank afterwards.

Fashion Show for St. Luke's.

Now that Mrs. John W. Gary, general chairman and treasurer of the committee in charge, is back from Scotland, work will start in earnest on the fashion show for the benefit of St. Luke's hospital, which is an annual affair and one of the outstanding events of each season.

This year the show is to be on Tuesday, Oct. 25, at the Stevens hotel and the women arranging it say it is to be more gorgeous than ever, which is hard to believe, isn't it, it always being such a lovely spectacle? Next Tuesday Mrs. Gary is giving a luncheon at the Fortnightly for the members of the committee. Mrs. A. Watson Armour and Mrs. Philip L. Reed are in charge of the sale of boxes. Mrs. Sterling Morton will direct the sale of tickets, or rather arranged for their sale before she left for France several weeks ago, for although she will not return until about Nov. 1 she was appointed ticket chairman last spring and she did all the preliminary work before she left.

Mrs. Walter B. Wolf will arrange the exhibits and Mrs. George A. Ranney has the job of securing the prettiest debutantes and young women to model. Mrs. Augustus W. Eddy is program chairman, Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr. will direct the publicity campaign, Mrs. Charles F. Glore will help swell the proceeds by selling shares, and Mrs. Raymond M. Ashcraft is flower chairman. Mrs. George N. Northrop, Mrs. William L. Hodgkins, and Mrs. Charles I. Pierce will be the "bosses" of the dressing rooms that busy afternoon and Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed will be the stage manager.

Announces Benefit Polo Match.

Mrs. Philip Maher writes from Desbarats to announce a polo match on Saturday, Nov. 5, to raise money for the Eli Bates Settlement house. Every year the board takes over a first night at the theater or gives something to benefit the settlement and this year it chose a polo match, feeling that interest in polo is keener now than ever before and that the hundreds who have enjoyed watching the spirit sport this summer at Fort Sheridan and Oak Brook will be glad to go to an indoor match.

A picked Chicago team will play an eastern team in the 124th Field Artillery armory on the south side. Mrs. Maher is publicity chairman for the benefit.

Mrs. Maher will be at home from Desbarats in time for the Latin Quarter Fête to be given for the architects' relief fund on Sept. 30 at the Drake hotel, for she and Mr. Maher, the Walter Paepckes, and the Alfred Shaws are to give a large dinner party before the ball. Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Owings and the Louis K. Skidmores also are to be joint dinner hosts that night.

The committee in charge of the ball announces that the doors will be opened at 10 o'clock, so that those who want to spend an hour or two in the Paris Latin Quarter, to be reproduced on the first floor of the hotel, and be at home in bed shortly after midnight may do so.

Mrs. Bowen Goes to New York.

Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen Jr. of Lake Forest has gone to New York to see her sister, Lady Burney of London, before she sails for England with her young son, Cecil. Lady Burney, the former Gladys High, and Cecil have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Henry High, at Osterville on Cape Cod for a month. The Highs will return to their apartment at the Lake Shore Drive hotel shortly.

Miss Catharine Noyes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Paul Noyes of 19 Scott street, who has just been at home about a week from a summer in the east, entertained sixteen at dinner last night at her residence for Miss Elinor Durbin and Prentice Porter, who are to be married next Tuesday. Miss Noyes visited Miss Jane Rowe at Duxbury first and then visited Mrs. William K. Kenly at Manchester, Mass. Mrs. Noyes will return at the end of this week from a trip.

Mrs. Fifield Workum of New York, who is landing today with her husband from a holiday spent in Scotland and England, will arrive in Chicago Monday to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Hamill, in Hinsdale, with whom little Robert Hamill Workum has been while his parents were vacationing.

Mrs. M. W. Martin and Miss Lucy Martin arrived at home Tuesday from having spent the summer in Europe. They are at the Ambassador East again.

Miss Julie R. Adams of the Pearson hotel has returned from having spent the summer in England, Ireland, and France.

Mrs. William P. Martin of Lake Forest and Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen Haines of New York, formerly of Chicago, are sailing today from France after a summer spent abroad. Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Haines are sisters.

The South Shore Country club will celebrate its twenty-sixth birthday with a dinner dance Saturday night. That afternoon at 1:30 o'clock there will be a children's party, with races, a merry-go-round, county fair booths, and prizes for the youngsters.

The Chicago Council on Foreign Relations and the Japan-America society announce a joint luncheon and address by Dr. Inazo Nitobe, who will speak on "Japan, Manchukuo, and the Kellogg Pact" next Monday at 12:30 o'clock at the Palmer house. Dr. Nitobe is the independent leader of the Japanese house of peers.

Husband's Kind, but Wife Yearns for Co-Worker

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She is 22 and has been married three years to a man who is very good to her. His kindness, in fact, is the stumbling block to the happiness she feels can only be found with the young man who works in the same office with her.

She knew the young man before she married her husband. She liked him a great deal then, but he was tied up with another girl. Now that she is married the young man advances the news that he always loved her and always will.

His position is a minor one. But for that, he claims, he would go to the husband and tell everything. She doesn't want to hurt this man to whom she is married. And so the twain meet in out of the way places, their secret locked deep in their respective hearts, they say. When they are together all they do, the girl reports, is to cry and cry.

Thus some of us poor, weak mortals known as humans go out of our way to make martyrs of ourselves. It must be some deep yen for tears that inspires these morbid alliances. Some queer quirk that permits people to be happy only when they're able to cry over themselves. Else, why the indulgence?

What particular fun to a normal individual would there be in meeting a lover surreptitiously but to spend the fleeting moments in tears and more tears? A couple of unstable characters, emotionally!

No, sister, you're off on the wrong foot! Any man who fails to speak his matrimonial piece until the lady is safely launched in matrimony is no one to meet in hideouts and weep over. He's not worth a grain of the salt in the tears. It's the easiest trick in the world to make love to a woman when some other man is buried deep in the business of meeting her household and dress expenses. It's all smooth sailing for that baby. But the one worth while is the one with a smile while he struggles to meet the living emergencies!

Costume Ball Gratifies Your Secret Hopes

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

What a lot of fun society is to have the last evening of this month finding out, for instance, that Nat Owings has always wanted to be a pirate and that Andrew Rebori wishes he were a "gendarme."

Not that the two gentlemen in ate these characters at the Latin quarate these characters at the Latin Quarter fête, for they are NOT telling. But it is a fact that many of the 2,500 guests Chicago's well known architects have bid to the ball will reveal some of their innermost ambitions when they don the togs of struggling young artists and authors, of Cleopatra and Helen of Troy, even of the butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker.

For, as Thomas Tallmadge, the chairman of the costume committee, agreed yesterday, freedom for a single evening to become another person is the big idea in "dressing up"—some one infinitely more beautiful or more comic, more dashing or more original than the placid walks of everyday life allow.

Proof enough of this principle has been found right here at home for years past in the gay Twelfth Night balls that have grown out of the "Widows and Widowers" and the "Butchers and Bakers" parties of days gone by—and abroad in the Beaux Arts balls, those brilliant affairs that highlight New York's winter social season.

Society hasn't yet forgotten the sensation created by Mrs. Robert McGann a number of years back when she appeared at a Twelfth Night party as the Queen of Sheba or again the time that Mrs. Walter S. Brewster impersonated a Roman lady and Mrs. James Ward Thorne took the part of a nun.

In New York not so many seasons ago the mandate went out that the Beaux Arts ball was to be a circus party. Guests were invited to appear in anything appropriate to the circus ring or side show. And they did. Even the most liberal expecations were overshadowed as guests gave vent to long suppressed urges to walk tight ropes or tame lions.

How strict the architects' costume committee is going to be in judging whether or no a costume is appropriate to Paris' Latin quarter, given its name, as few persons know, by Rabelais, remains to be seen. But, as Mrs. Nathaniel Owings said the other day, "the Latin quarter does embrace almost everything."

The question, however, recalls a story told about a recent costume ball in a distant city. Weeks before, the ultimatum was issued that no one wearing incorrect costume for the period of Louis XIV. would be admitted. The night of the party arrived and as the guests entered the ballroom their costumes were examined and, if approved, stamped with an indelible mark. Arguments were frequent. At last a gentleman in a handsome mandarin coat was brought to a dead halt.

"You can't go in. You're not correctly dressed," said the inspector.

"Don't be silly," replied the guest, "I'm an ambassador from China to the court of Louis." He got in and the news spread like wildfire. Thereafter every one from a circus performer to an Arab assured the bewildered guardians that they were visitors at the court and were, of course, in perfect character.

So there may be strange visitors in the Latin quarter the evening of Sept. 30.

This whole idea of "dressing up" is ages old, for primitive peoples disguised themselves as a protection against evil spirits. It was not, however, until the late 18th century when Gardel, a well known dancer of the day, taking the part of Apollo in Rameau's opera, "Castor and Pollux," discarded his mask and wig and appeared precisely as he was, that the costume ball became one of the favorite court entertainments.

As the stage abandoned disguise royalty adopted it.

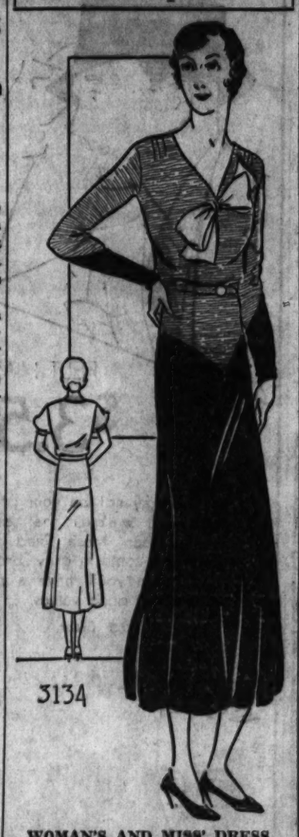
Dress Combines Figured Top with Plain Crepe Skirt



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Here is a stunning dress for fall. The original was made of a wine red silk crêpe. The upper part was made of a novelty silk mixture in wine red tones. It would be charming, too, in brown satin crêpe, using the reverse side for the trim and using short puffed sleeves.

The pattern, 3,134, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 1¾ yards of 39 inch material, with ¼ yard of 39 inch for the bow, and 1½ yards of 39 inch contrasting.

Uhm-m-m-m! Mother's made apple pie!

Only in one thing does the noble pie need a champion—and that in order to squelch once and forever the old bugaboo which still bobs up now and again to cast aspersions at the digestibility of pastry. For [time out for cheers from pie lovers] experiments have proved conclusively that if properly combined and conjured up from the right ingredients, pie is even more easily digested than cake.

But apple pie forms more than a one-man family. The flaky short crust for above and below may remain constant once experiment and practice have brought you the happiest results. But there convention ends. Inside that crust fancy and adventure may dictate. The first recipe—custard apple sauce pie—is, I believe, my first choice in variations.

2 egg yolks
¼ cup sugar.
Rind of ½ lemon shaved thin
¼ tspn. salt
2½ cups thick sweetened apple sauce
Pastry shell

Prepare one-half of a regular pie crust recipe, roll the paste out and pat into a pie tin, build up the edge and bake in a hot oven [450 degrees F.] until golden brown and crisp. Remove and cool. Meanwhile, scald the lemon rind in the milk in a double boiler. Beat the eggs till lemon colored and add the sugar and salt. Beat again and add a little of the hot milk. Mix together and pour, stirring constantly, into the remaining milk in the double boiler.

Let cook slowly with frequent stirrings until the mixture quite heavily coats a spoon. Now pour the apple sauce, which has been sieved and cooked until quite thick, into the pie shell and cover with the custard mixture. Chill before serving.

APPLE-CREAM CHEESE PIE.

But now back to our more familiar two crust sliced apple pie, and some ways to glorify it these fall days when both apples and pies are constantly in demand. The first glorifier, as I hinted earlier, is cheese, not served by the wedge outside, but spread inside the pie's lusciousness. Use thin slices of cream cheese and arrange over the whole tip of the sweetened apples just before the crust is put on. In baking, the cheese melts onto the upper crust as well as blending its flavor deliciously with the apples. For a change, one cheese lover I know mixes a few tablespoons of grated American cheese in the apple mixture before it goes into the crust. Or for a new flavoring in the more simple apple pie, cut down on the cinnamon and nutmeg and let grated lemon or orange rind and a little juice give a tangy new flavor.

Your family's best beloved two crust apple pie may be given still another tempting flavor by the addition of one-third cup each of seeded raisins and chopped nuts added to the fruit mixture just before turning it into the crust.

Review Gains in Travel at Fair Ceremony

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Transportation since the days of the sailing vessel and stage coach was reviewed yesterday at the dedication of the Travel and Transport building of A Century of Progress. About 300 persons, including many railroad executives, attended, the crowd appearing small in the center of the dome of the building, which extends upward for 125 feet and is free of obstructions.

Late afternoon sunlight poured through the vast window at the west, which forms a framework for sunsets, and fell on the steel beams within. Outside, an occasional visitor strolled along the landscaped grounds with their borders of box hedge and rows of young elm trees.

The swift progress made in transportation in the last 100 years was outlined by Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific railway. The introduction of railways and their rapid construction caused the greatest revolution in commerce and production in the history of man, wide distribution of goods making possible mass production, he said.

"At the time of the opening of the Columbian exposition in 1893 there was no question as to the dominance of the railroads in the field of land transportation," said Mr. Donnelly.

"Since that exposition the motor vehicle and the airplane have been given to the world," he continued, "and it is not easy to exaggerate the importance of either of them or to set bounds to the influence which each of them is destined to exert in the transportation field."

These new transportation agencies, however, have not supplanted and are not likely to supplant the railroads, Mr. Donnelly said.

"The work that lies immediately ahead of us is that of coördination," he said. "There is lost motion and economic waste in their present methods of functioning."

Mr. Donnelly was introduced by Rufus C. Dawes, president of A Century of Progress. Henry A. Palmer, president of the Traffic club of Chicago, presided. Dr. John Timothy Stone, president, Presbyterian Theological seminary, gave the invocation. The Morgan Park Military academy band and the Illinois Central Railroad Men's chorus provided music.

Robert Isham Randolph, director of operations of A Century of Progress, recalled that his father laid out the terminal for the cable cars that were used to transport passengers to the World's fair in 1893.

Napoleon F. Briggs, 70 years old, of 310 West 71st street, who will retire from the Rock Island railroad Nov. 11, was engineer on the first trip of the Golden State Limited in 1902. P. W. Fitzgerald of Joliet, who also will retire soon after service with the Rock Island since 1882, was the conductor on the Golden State Limited on its maiden trip.

E. F. Miller, 6552 Loomis boulevard, who in 1892 was guard on the first elevated train in Chicago, running into the fair grounds, still is a guard on a south side elevated train.

Bright Sayings of the Children

A small boy with a bad sliver in his toe was taken to the doctor by his grandmother, who was recovering from a severe heart attack. While the doctor removed the sliver the little boy cried a great deal. On the way home he looked up at his grandmother and said, "I'm sorry I cried so hard, grandmother, 'cause I know a broken heart is worse than a sliver, but you're older than me."

Maturity Can't Be Measured by Child's Height

He May Be Six Feet Tall, Yet Only 15 Years Old.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"My boy at last is beginning to be grown up," said a friend to me the other day.

"I thought he was grown up a long time ago—he's six feet, isn't he?" I answered.

"I don't mean physically. He's been that for a long time. And I don't mean mentally, either, for he has a really fine mind. But I mean so far as an adult sense of responsibility is concerned.

"I realize now that the trouble has been with his father and me. Because he had the stature of a man we felt he should develop into a man. He's been so carefree and happy-go-lucky that we've been worried. But at 15 and 16 that was natural. Now he has developed a more responsible attitude. His maturity has caught up with the maturity of his body. It is a great handicap for a 15 year old boy to be six feet high. We are apt to forget the fifteen years and remember the six feet."

A father said substantially the same thing to me.

"Bill's 17. He's inches taller than I, and has been for two years—though that's not saying much. He's been spending his summers on our farm, as you know, riding his horse, swimming, fishing, and roaming the fields. Ever since he's been so grown up I haven't been able to get him down to some of the hard facts of life on a farm. With all the chores that a farm represents staring him in the face, he's gone his irresponsible way. But this summer—he's 17—he's been quite different. He sharpens saws, replenishes the wood box, made some darn good suggestions about next year's planting, and mended the gutter without being asked. He's coming along.

"I never would have expected the things of him that I did if he had been the average height for his age. But when I see a young man almost towering above me I forget the boy he really is. These young giants are handicapped for that reason. He's caught up with his height at last."

We've all seen these young giants—tall of body, strong as can be. And we expect a responsible attitude toward life commensurate with their height. But, thank goodness, we don't get it. When Nature is ready for this development she goes ahead in her own time.

GERMAN LABOR FIGHTS DECREE FOR WAGE CUTS

Workers in Two Mills Go on Strike.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 21.—The first strikes broke out in Germany today as a sequel to the emergency decree issued by the Von Papen government with the support of President von Hindenburg permitting industrial firms to reduce wages if they increase the total number of employes. Four hundred of the 500 workers at the Wittman steel works at Hagen-Haspe, Westphalia, walked out when a 10 per cent cut in wages was announced. National Socialist workers appeared in their uniforms as pickets.

Government Warns Unions.

An administrative decree issued tonight warns labor unions that any support given the workers in their struggle against wage cuts under the government's program will be illegal.

The German railway company today announced its intention to place orders amounting to nearly $67,000,000, of which $43,000,000 will be raised on "tax rebate certificates" under the government's scheme for stimulation of industry. This would enable the company to employ 30,000 more men.

The labor ministry announced today that the number of jobless increased in the first half of September by 38,000. The total of unemployed is now 5,261,000. The increase in the corresponding period of last year was 109,000.

Prussia Aids Royalist Move.

Monarchist activities in Prussia were boosted today by the Prussian ministry of interior, which informed the "league of the upright" that it may resume its activities. The aim of the league is to unite monarchist supporters. It was prohibited in Prussia in 1922, but now proposes to make Prussia the center of the monarchist movement.

Two other monarchist bodies stepped into the limelight today when the "Front of the Kaiserists" and the "League for Cultivation of Hohenzollern Ideals" issued a joint proclamation "for honor and arms." The proclamation calls upon the government to stand firm on its demand for equality of armaments and quotes former Kaiser Wilhelm's words that "Germany need never expect foreign help in regaining her rightful place in the world."

The two organizations asked the federal home minister to hold a plebiscite on the question of authorizing the government to ignore part five of the Versailles treaty, which deals with restriction of German armaments, and to reintroduce general conscription.

Nazis Back Down in Prussia.

Adolf Hitler's National Socialists bowed to government by the federal commissioner of Prussia in the Prussian diet today. Their spokesman, Paul Hinkler, proclaimed it the duty of Prussian officials to respect the constitution "so long as the reich commissioners named by Chancellor Von Papen also act within the framework of the constitution under pressure from President Von Hindenburg, whose loyalty to the constitution cannot be questioned."

The diet had passed a resolution releasing officials from the duty of obeying the commissioner. The parliament was threatened with dissolution and therefore the Hitlerites backed down. The commissioner will not be satisfied, however, until the house formally withdraws the resolution.

8 JOBLESS WAR VETS TRY SUICIDE; 2 DIE, 6 ARRESTED

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Two unemployed world war veterans were dead and six others were in custody today after what authorities described as an apparent "mass suicide" attempt.

Police engaged in a terrific battle with the former service men last night on the banks of Rideau canal, near Parliament hill. Authorities said all the men were intoxicated and attempted to hurl themselves into the canal.

Daniel McLean, 36, who served overseas with a Canadian battalion, and Don Clarke, 35, veteran of the Black Watch Imperials, plunged into the canal before police and other rescuers could halt them.

DISARM PARLEY SENDS GERMANY PLEA TO RETURN

Committee Awaits Reply from Absentee Nation.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 21.—The disarmament conference today took up the German demand for equality of armaments officially, but with cotton gloves.

In his opening address to the steering committee of the conference which had reconvened after a recess since July, Chairman Arthur Henderson alluded to the equality demand, which led to the withdrawal of the German delegation from the conference, and implied that the steering committee itself must take action. He suggested, however, that the question rest until Germany replies to the note which he recently addressed to Berlin pleading with them to come back.

How much time will be given the Germans to reply was not stated. It was reported here that the steering committee will adjourn some time before the end of the week and will not reconvene until Oct. 10.

See Victory for France.

Henderson's reference to the necessity of the committee taking some action in the face of the German withdrawal, vague though it was, is considered here as a partial victory for Premier Edouard Herriot of France.

For the moment, however, the French did not make any effort to carry out their threat of invoking article 213 of the Versailles treaty demanding an investigation of Germany's alleged secret armaments. This threat is being used to bring the Germans back into the conference, but little hope is entertained here of its success.

Today's meeting was a lugubrious one. Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov of Russia announced that the soviets will not participate in the work of the technical commission until the conference has pronounced itself for the principle of a real armament cut. The gloom reached its height when the resolution for abolishing chemical warfare, which had been hailed as the conference's own concrete accomplishment to date, was hauled out again for examination and was discovered to be less effective than was originally believed.

Asks Experts' Report.

Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, asked for a report from experts on the feasibility of prohibiting poison gas manufacture in times of peace. Other delegates pointed out that the archives of the conference are already full of experts' report, and that one is on this very subject.

Herriot returned to Paris tonight, having remained here only one day, during which time he did not budge from his hotel.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 21.—Wilhelmstrasse today perused President Hoover's advice that Germany should continue participation in the disarmament conference and concluded that the advice emphasized the need of the real disarmament that Germany would like to see.

At the same time government spokesmen pointed out that Germany has not backed down on its equality demand or its determination to stay away from the disarmament parley. The only promise that will sway Germany, it was indicated, is for Geneva to agree to consider the demand frankly. It was hoped that the latest Hoover message would spur the conference to treat disarmament in a more material aspect.

OFFICERS HUNT FOR SUSPECT IN KIDNAPING CASE

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Eighteen uniformed policemen and thirty-six detectives, armed with shotguns, rifles and tear gas bombs, today surrounded the house at 70 East 55th street, Brooklyn, in search of a man they sought for questioning in connection with the kidnaping of 5 year old Jackie Russell.

The boy, son of Arthur S. Russell, stock exchange broker, was kidnaped Monday afternoon and released that evening.

The police were ordered to the East 55th street address in a radio alarm, which directed them to detain one Irving Balosky for questioning.

The officers failed to find Balosky, but they did find Irving Blesser, who, police said, admitted he was a brother-in-law of the man sought.

700 Players Can't Be Setups.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 21.—Those Notre Dame lads who are expected to carry the leading roles in the 1932 football cast, which in the next three months will play to a half million fans from coast to coast, held their first important rehearsals yesterday and today.

The second varsity, at one time popularized as shock troops, but who have again become replacements, played a full length game with the fourth team yesterday. This afternoon the first eleven went to work along the same plan of action against the third team, with Coach Hunk Anderson handling the whistle.

Victory Prospects Bright.

Before we get too far down this column and become affected with amazement, as we do each year, at the system which keeps 700 boys playing football, and annually moves two score to the top where they become nationally known, we would like to say this about Notre Dame's prospects of victory:

Unless an epidemic of injuries, comparable to the wholesale removal of full backs last season, hits Notre Dame, it seems quite reasonable to predict a national championship. This year's team will have experienced, talented players for each position. The schedule, while not a letdown in caliber of contests, is better arranged than last year.

Open with Haskell.

The first game, with Haskell, is scheduled for Oct. 8, a week later than a year ago. Haskell is followed by Drake, and then Carnegie Tech appears at Notre Dame. The early season is climaxed with Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh. Then comes Kansas university at Lawrence, which marks the first time Notre Dame has visited that section of the country. Already it is indicated that the K. U. stadium, seating 43,000, will be filled.

Northwestern travels to Notre Dame on Nov. 12. This is the best game scheduled at Notre Dame this year, and, as usual, will add another page to what is developing into one of the great rivalries in the central west. Cleveland will place its new Municipal stadium at the disposal of Notre Dame and the Navy on Nov. 19.

And What a Finish!

The Army at New York and Southern California at Los Angeles conclude the nine game schedule. It is unnecessary to add that the Irish will be campaigning for revenge against the Cadets and Trojans, or don't you remember those games last year?

Invitations to return for practice with the varsity squad on Sept. 15 were sent out to 110 Notre Dame players. According to Jesse Harper, director of athletics, more than forty others also received equipment. No player ever is cut from the varsity squad, and no player ever need quit playing football. There are the hall teams for those who can't get into action otherwise.

Hundreds of Frosh Work.

Rounding out this army of football men, undoubtedly the largest in the country, are the freshmen. The remote corners of the practice field today seemed overrun with green shirts. Big and little, from village and city, they went about their tasks learning the fundamentals of the system of play which three or four years from now they will demonstrate to opponents.

These freshmen will get their first shock Saturday when they scrimmage informally against the varsity. One week from Saturday the annual varsity-freshman game will be held in the Stadium. It will have all the trappings of intercollegiate football. Admission will be 25 cents.

This array of varsity material permits a mastery of attack. At Notre Dame it is unusual to change a player's position after fall practice starts. All this is done in the spring. A left guard remains a left guard. He masters the assignments for that position. All of which permits the daily routine

PLAYERS THE CUBS MUST BEAT TO WIN WORLD BASEBALL TITLE

Here they are—the mainstays of the New York Yankees who will battle the Cubs for the world's baseball championship next week. The Y not only stands for Yankees but it is symbolic of the Yankee team, with all of its branches converging upon Babe Ruth in the center, for as the Babe goes, so go the Yankees. And indications are that the Yankees will be going strong next Wednesday when the series opens in New York, for Ruth returned to the lineup yesterday and appeared to be in condition for the title battle.

MAROONS WILL TAPER OFF TODAY FOR MONMOUTH

The burden of work for first string Maroon players was lightened yesterday by Coach A. A. Stagg, but reserves were sent against the freshmen in a long scrimmage. Practice today will be the last serious drill before the Maroons meet Monmouth in the season opener at Stagg field Saturday.

Ray Zenner probably will start at center against Monmouth, with Manelkis and Rapp at guards and Spearing and Cassels at tackles. The flanks are Stagg's most vulnerable spot, and at yesterday's count, three of the leading end candidates had ailments which may diminish their usefulness Saturday. The three are Bellstrom, Toigo and Smith. The latter two are victims of a 200 pound freshman tackle, Tarzan Deems, who has been mussing up the varsity line. Stagg was undecided yesterday on the starting ends. Manelkis has a long cut on his cheek which may mean an early withdrawal from the game.

N. U. FROSH CONFIDENT

A confident Northwestern freshman football team went about preparations yesterday for Saturday's game with the varsity. The yearlings openly boast of their ability to beat the varsity, and possess a line averaging nearly 200 pounds to back up their threat.

Saturday's game will be open to the public. An admission price of 25 cents will be charged in an effort to raise funds to send the Northwestern band to the Michigan and Illinois games.

Coach Maury Kent, who has charge of the freshman squad, has picked the biggest team available. Although the frosh took a 32 to 0 trimming from the varsity last Saturday, they claim that this was due to the fact that they had only two days of practice.

Among the 200 pounders in the freshman line will be Kopecky, a guard from Morton High; Lind, center, of Wilmette; Epstein, tackle, Sioux City, Ia.; Cullnahan, tackle, St. George High, Evanston; Berg, end, Detroit, and Anderson, end, Superior, Wis. The back field will consist of Schwartz, Oak Park, full back; Cruise, right half, Milwaukee; Mondela, Crane High, left half, and Hedblom, Evanston, quarter back.

Max Schmeling Speeds Drill as Bout Nears

Speculator, N. Y., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Max Schmeling boxed four rounds today with a relish that would lead an observer to suspect that he had just begun to train for his scheduled fifteen round bout with Mickey Walker in the Garden bowl at Long Island City Monday night.

The German heavyweight labored in privacy behind a completely curtained ring while outside rain poured in torrents. Lou Barba and Tommy de Stefano, the remnants of a training retinue of six men, boxed two rounds each with Schmeling.

Schmeling tore into his opponents and raked them with a two fisted attack that had both weary when the workout was over.

WALKER WORKS HARD.

Summit, N. J., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Mickey Walker traveled six rounds today in the fastest clip he has displayed since he began training for his bout with Max Schmeling. He bombarded his three spar mates, Paul Cavalier, Herman Heller, and Pietro Corri, who faced him for two rounds apiece. Four rounds of bag punching and road work in the morning rounded out Walker's work for the day.

The New York state boxing commission staff physician paid his last visit to camp today and after an examination declared that Walker has no trace of skin eruption of any kind except the scar on his left arm.

English Lets Performances Speak for Him

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Elwood English, who doesn't care whether the Cubs play him at short or at third, is a sort of baseball Topsy. He just grew up from nowhere and didn't get much attention; so little in fact that few people realize his playing importance. That's partly his own fault. He never toots the English horn. He doesn't even talk enough to let you know he has a tongue—at least not off the field. But on it he can be a pretty snappy fellow when it becomes a matter of "jockeying" some enemy player. In such cases Woody says plenty in a few words.

When it becomes time for the annual guesses on the year's most valuable player in the National league, English probably will finish well down the list. Part of this can be explained by the homage due Riggs Stephenson in this particular and part of it by the fact that English's actual worth isn't appreciated.

He's in There Every Day, Barring Injury.

English is in there every day, barring serious injury. He's been in there almost steadily since he became sufficiently settled in his fielding ways to deserve a regular berth. When he does stay out with some minor hurt it is because those are orders. He doesn't believe in being petted by

CROSETTI'S JUST ONE OF YANKEES' SHORTSTOP CREW

[This is the eighth of a series of sketches of Yankee players who will oppose the Cubs in the world series.]

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 21.—Unfortunately, I am not very well acquainted with Frank Crosetti, who probably will play shortstop for the Yankees in the world series, but if it were Lyn Lary, I could spin you quite a piece. But that is just the way it goes. The fellow I happen to know most about holds the job most of the season and then, along toward world series time, does something to make Joe McCarthy sore. So McCarthy takes him out and puts in this comparative stranger.

I don't know what he did to make McCarthy sore. Stayed out late, maybe, or wouldn't eat his spinach.

Still, maybe McCarthy will not stay sore and will put Lary back in any way because there apparently isn't much to choose between them, and it is even possible that before this series is over he will be giving Eddie Farrell a job of work to do out there. Crosetti, Lary and Farrell have been shoving and wrestling around in a triangular competition for the place, and Lary generally seemed to be best, Crosetti second best and Farrell last, except that Farrell, having been around more, is supposed to be more steady than either of the others.

Pay San Francisco Club $75,000, but Lary Gets Job.

The fact is that the Yankees have not been very stable at shortstop since the best days of Mark Koenig.

Well, any way, they got Crosetti from San Francisco this year, paying $75,000 for him, and during the training exercises in Florida last spring he looked as though he was all ball player and a major leaguer ready to start making a great record for himself. Nobody in the squad was more written about than Crosetti, who seemed to be as good as Lazzeri, but when hard work began, it was Lary who got most of the work. He was a better fielder and thrower.

The high price which the Yankees paid for Crosetti is supposed to have intimidated the boy, but the truth probably is that he was still a little while away as a major leaguer. They paid a high price for Lary, too, but he wasn't intimidated.

Lary was brought in, along with another fellow [what was his name, now—Jimmy Reese], also from the Pirates Clinch 2d with 9-6 Victory.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The champion Cubs assembled in their clubhouse yesterday afternoon and had a dandy time cutting up the shares of world series money until somebody recalled that there was a game carded with a team called the Pittsburgh Pirates.

So a team was chosen and at 3 o'clock the champions took the field. While the boys went through baseball motions, they still were thinking about money. After one hour and 55 minutes, some one checked up on the ball game and it was learned the Pirates had won, 9 to 6, and clinched second place. Then the fellows went back to the clubhouse, where they could talk about money in private.

22 Get Full Shares.

It ultimately was decided that the world series pot should be divided into 24 major portions, these to be distributed among 27 members of the Cub organization.

Full shares were awarded the 19 regulars who were on the roster throughout the year, Manager Grimm, and Coaches Charley O'Leary and John Corriden. Mark Koenig, who joined the team on Aug. 11, was awarded a half share, as were Traveling Secretary Robert Lewis and Trainer Andrew Lotshaw. Pitcher Leroy Herrmann, recalled from the Los Angeles club, and Frank Demaree, purchased from the Sacramento club, both of whom reported late in July, were awarded a quarter share each.

Other disbursements will be made to club and park attachés in the form of purses to which the players will contribute, these to be governed somewhat by whether the team collects the winners' end in the series.

No Word on Hornsby.

No announcement was made as to whether Rogers Hornsby, who managed the team more than half the season, will be awarded a purse. The division of series money is one which rests entirely in the hands of the players, except in cases of rare injustice which can cause Commissioner Landis to intervene. Only one such case has come to public attention, that being an occasion when the White Sox players tried to pinch down Art Shires in the cut of the city series swag.

Yesterday's game was pleasant for several fellows who are eager to fatten up their batting averages. Several regulars played throughout, notably Paul Waner, who is trying for a doubles record, and Billy Herman, who thought he was trying for a base hit record, which is out of reach, as Bill and Manager Grimm learned after the game.

Waner Too Far Ahead.

Herman was under the impression that the record for a player in his first full year in the majors was 203 hits. Bill entered the game with a total of 200 and was quite cheered when he singled his first two times up. Then came the disillusioning knowledge that Lloyd Waner holds the record for freshmen with 223, with Chuck Klein the runner-up on a total of 219. Bill, however, has the distinction of being the tenth player in history to reach the 200 mark in his first full year. Willie Keeler was the first. He did it in 1894.

Each team scored a run in the first inning, the Cubs getting theirs on a single by Herman, a passed ball and Stephenson's double.

The Pirates took a 3 to 1 lead in the third but in the fourth the Cubs went ahead when they scored three runs on Hemsley's single, an error on Richbourg, Herman's 202d hit, and a triple by Hack.

Herrmann took over the pitching job in the fifth and retired the Pirates in order for two innings. In the seventh he gave up a run on a walk and the double P. Waner was playing for. And in the eighth the second placers fell on him for five hits, including two doubles, all of which were good for four runs and victory. Each team scored a run in the ninth.

MERRILY ON GOES MERRILY ON HIS WAY TO VICTORY

Races Favorites Into Mud at Lincoln Fields.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Old John P. Grier, who once lost only by a length of a cigaret to the mighty Man o' War, has a most successful son racing for him at Lincoln Fields.

Old John P.'s son's name is Merrily On. He won the Burr Oak purse before 8,000 spectators yesterday; won it in a canter by five lengths from Jimmy Moran, with Butter Beans third.

It was his third victory in five starts in Chicago and he scored this one easier than he did either of the other two. The track was slow and holding but that didn't stop Merrily On. He was running on his favorite track and he immediately jumped out into a long lead.

Wins in Fastest Time.

When Merrily On sailed into that early advantage the race was over. The backers of Jimmy Moran began to groan early. Merrily On was out striding every body behind him and kept up the fast pace until they were well down the stretch. Then Jockey Hainsworth took hold of him and eased him off as they neared the finish.

Merrily On ran the six furlongs in 1:13 4-5, much faster than any other horse all afternoon. He paid numerous backers $6.78, but Jimmy Moran was the favorite and would have been at even money had he been able to head Merrily On.

Merrily On races for Mrs. J. Grossman of Chicago. He is trained by A. T. Walker. Until a month ago he had done all his racing in the east. After he quit the east, where he lost every time he started, he began to do things in a big way in Chicago.

Daily Double Popular.

Folks with the winners of the second and third races were most numerous. They centered on Cayuga to win the second and Bettina H. to capture the third.

Cayuga, an old stake star, running with a lot of $1,200 platers, had no trouble winning the six furlong second event, triumphing by two and one-half lengths after being in front all the way. Town Limit was second and Suitor third. Neither offered a dangerous challenge.

Then along came Bettina H. to tow-rope her field in the third. This also was at six furlongs. Jockey T. P. Martin only had to rest quietly in the saddle and let her canter down the stretch in advance of the field.

SOX BATS RING OUT GLAD NEWS IN TWIN VICTORY

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—This was a happy day in the dreary life of the White Sox. They defeated the Tigers in both games of a double header, winning the first 11 to 3 and the second 3 to 1. Red Kress and Milton Gaston dominated the first triumph and the heroes in the second were Paul Gregory and Charley English.

Kress hammered out seven hits, four in the first game, including a home run. Gaston allowed only six hits until the ninth in this contest, then was touched for three.

Elon Hogsett had a 1 to 0 advantage over Gregory when the Sox came to bat in the eighth inning of the afterpiece. It was here that English, making his first appearance since being sent home from the east because of an injured arm, hit a home run with one on and two out to win the game. Gregory doubled in the ninth and scored on Seeds' two bagger to assure the victory.

FIRST GAME

Kress started his hitting spree in the third inning by driving the ball far over the left field wall for the first run of the game. Gaston reached first on a fumble by Rogell and Funk walked. Hayes' hit through the box scored Gaston and sent Funk to third. Funk was cut down at the plate on an attempted double steal, Hayes taking second, whence he scored on Seeds' single to left.

Kress Gets Some More.

Kress was the lead off man in the sixth again and he doubled to right center. Berry doubled to left field, scoring Kress. Berry beat Wyatt's throw to third on Gaston's bunt and scored on Funk's single.

Still the Sox weren't satisfied. Swanson walked to start the seventh, and went to third on Appling's single. That brought up Kress again and he hit the first ball pitched to right for a single, scoring Swanson. The runners moved up on Berry's sacrifice and Appling scored while Rogell was tossing out Gaston.

Appling Drives in a Run.

The final Sox run was accomplished in the eighth when Hayes and Sullivan walked and Hayes stole third, scoring on Appling's single.

Detroit's first run came in the fifth inning when Davis singled and scored on Gehringer's double. Two baggers by Pinch Hitter Doljack and Davis and Gehringer's single gave the Tigers their other two runs in the ninth.

SECOND GAME

After Gregory had held the Tigers scoreless, despite three errors, in the first two innings, they broke through in the third for their only run and the first score of the game. Davis walked with one out, but was forced by Gehringer, Hayes to English. Gehringer went to third on Doljack's single and scored when Webb beat out a hit to English.

The Sox had eight men left on bases in the first five innings. With two out English and Kress singled in the second and Grube walked, but Hogsett threw out Gregory. Hayes beat out a bunt and Seeds doubled in the third, but the next two hitters popped up. Kress kept up his hitting with a double in the fourth and Grube reached first on an error by Rogell.

Just when it seemed the Hose were doomed to a shutout things started happening in the eighth. Swanson doubled between first and second with two out. This brought up English, who had singled twice, and he hit a high fly that fell gently over the left field wall, giving Chicago a 2 to 1 victory. Kress kept up his terrific hitting with a double to the left field fence, but Grube flied out.

SMITTY—ON THE SPOT

HANDY MAN

undergoing rubs with fancy liniments when his day's work is done. He just takes a shower, puts on his street clothes and goes out to see whether anybody has stolen his car. He's lost so many that way that he can't count them.

Woody, as has been mentioned before, escaped by the narrowest of margins from becoming an employé of the New York Giants. The Toledo club found him drifting around semi-pro and obscure minor circuits down in Ohio late in 1924 and signed him for the next season. He was a flop as a hitter that year, but a few pointers from a wise old man like Casey Stengel, the manager, corrected the fault.

Thought They

Were Sticking Cubs.

At the time the Giants' bosses were considerably concerned about Travis Jackson's pegs, and the understanding was that the Toledo find would be brought up. The club was owned by the Giants. But the story runs that the Giant officials, upon hearing the Cubs were offering $30,000 for the youth, declared: "Well, take the $30,000 and let the Cubs be stuck with the man."

If there are any more like him in the minors today the Cubs will gladly pay another $30,000 for each and no questions asked. And even the Giant chiefs, now that Jackson's legs really are about done, probably would loosen up to the same extent, if they had the chance, or the money.

English first showed up as a Cub in the spring of 1926. He was just approaching his twentieth birthday. So when he began throwing baseballs from short into the grandstand instead of to the first baseman there was no great concern. His youth excused him. Toward the middle of that season his aim became a bit better. The next spring he reverted to his wild tactics, only to settle down a second time. After that things progressed fairly well, and today if you're seeking either an outstanding third sacker or shortstop you'll make no mistake on this lad.

GIANTS DEFEAT BRAVES, 2 TO 1, IN 10TH INNING

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Tom Zachary relaxed a trifle at the end of a 10 inning pitching duel with Carl Hubbell today and passed Mel Ott with the bases full in the 10th to force in the run that gave the Giants a 2 to 1 victory over the Boston Braves.

Macks Defeat Yankees, 8-4; Ruth Returns

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Merritt [Sugar] Cain subdued the bats of the New York Yankees today and the Athletics pounded out an 8 to 4 victory.

The A's walloped three home runs off Charley Ruffing, including Jimmie Foxx's 54th of the season, Al Simmons' 34th, and Eric McNair's 17th.

Babe Ruth returned to the Yankees' lineup today, after an absence of 15 games. The Babe said he felt much better than when he left Detroit Sept. 8 with symptoms of appendicitis. Ruth went out his first three times at bat, but got a single on a bad bounce the fourth time up and drove in the tying run. He was taken out for a pinch runner. Score:

Cleveland, O., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Walter Stewart, Browns' southpaw, tightened after a bad start today and St. Louis came from behind to beat the Indians, 4 to 3. The defeat cost Cleveland its last mathematical chance for third place and closed the interclub series with the Indians victors in 16 out of 22 contests. Score:

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

The sport pages are beginning to boil with hot items from the camps of the world series rivals.

For instance, Guy Bush, who will pitch the opening game for the Cubs, has been placed on a diet. He has foresworn rich foods in order to be on edge for his big assignment.

From now on Mr. Bush's victuals will be important news. If he were a piano mover, a newspaper reporter, or a truck driver readers probably would not care whether he ate or not.

Sharing national interest with Mr. Bush is the return of Babe Ruth to the Yankees' lineup. If you can believe what you read, and once in a while you can, people the country over have been gathering in little groups discussing with anxiety and hope the possibility of the Babe's appendix holding out until after the series.

Ruth's return to the lineup is notice that he is ready to go. So you may look for the stock market to have a sharp upturn, the White House to issue a proclamation, and children to gather in the street yodeling "O! Thee I Sing, Babee."

Meanwhile Bill Veeck, president of the Cubs, wonders how he can accommodate the thousands who are clamoring for box seats at $19.80 apiece. While the demand for tickets is far short of the requests that rolled in for the 1929 series, the supply of seats will be inadequate to meet the demand. The box seats have nearly all been taken. There are still grandstand seats available.

Asked if he didn't think the price—$19.80 for three home games—was excessive for box seats, Mr. Veeck replied:

"Baseball did not capitalize on the prosperity wave. Prices have remained at practically the same level for 20 years. That holds good for world series tickets too.

"We are going to considerable expense to erect temporary bleachers so we can take care of the greatest number possible. The chances are that we will not get back the money involved in the construction. That is immaterial, however. The fans have supported us loyally and we want to accommodate every one we can.

"We are unable to fill all the orders we receive at present prices. If the admission fee were reduced, there would be less chance than ever of a fan seeing the series, for there probably would be heavier application."

The Central A. A. U. has taken a step forward in the regulation of amateur boxing by eliminating from membership any organization whose interest in conducting bouts is purely commercial. According to the new ruling, income derived from the promotion of any sport by members of the C. A. A. U. must be used for the further promotion of amateur sport, for an approved charity or for the general welfare of the promoting organization as a whole.

The intention of the boxing committee of the Central A. A. U. is to place the control of amateur fighting in the hands of responsible organizations. There will be little trouble in keeping the sport on an amateur basis, if the officials are sincere in their efforts to enforce the rules.

Forward Pass Penalties Are Few and Not Confusing

[This is the thirteenth of a series of articles on football. Address questions to the Football Editor, Sports Department, Chicago Tribune.]

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 21.—What happens when a forward pass is incomplete?

1. The offense loses a down, loses a down and additional yards as a penalty, or loses the ball and yards as penalty. If the incomplete forward pass is made on fourth down, the ball becomes the possession of the opponents at the point where it was put into play, unless a penalty changes that location. If the pass is incomplete over the opponents' goal line, no matter the down, it is a touchback and the ball goes to the opponents on their own 20 yard line.

2. For a second, third and fourth incomplete forward pass in the same series of downs the offense loses five yards. Example: The offense passes unsuccessfully on first down. Now it is second down and 10 yards to gain. Again an incomplete pass. Third down and 15 yards, which includes the loss of 5 yards for a second incomplete pass in the same series of downs. Once again an incomplete pass. Fourth down and 20 yards. Another incomplete pass, a penalty of 5 yards, and the ball goes to opponents for failure to make the required distance in four downs.

Penalty For 2 Failures.

First down and 10 yards to gain. An incomplete pass. Second down and 10 yards. A running play which does not gain 10 yards. Third down and another incomplete pass. This is the SECOND incomplete forward pass in the series. A penalty of FIVE yards is inflicted. Fourth down and the team runs, punts, or passes.

The distance to be gained for first down, the score, the position of the ball [in own territory, midfield, in opponents' territory], and the time remaining to play determine to a great degree when a forward pass play shall be used. Of course, to this might be added whether the attacking team possesses a good passer or receivers who are skilled at catching forward passes.

Some Are Surprises.

Passes on first down are called as surprise plays or are used because the defense obviously is not in position to cover either the receivers or territory into which successful passes may be made, or because the element of the unexpected increases chance of success. Even so, most coaches would not sanction a pass deep in their own team's territory in the early part of the game, no matter what the score is.

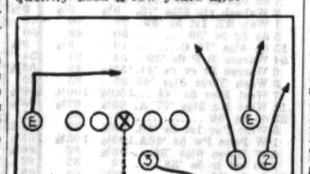
If the distance to be gained makes it improbable that a plunge or run will gain enough yardage to warrant the attempt a pass may be called. Hence the accepted preparation for a forward pass on third down when more than five or six yards remain to be gained.

When the attacking team nears its opponents' goal line the passer should be careful not to forward the ball into the end zone before the fourth down, unless an open man warrants the attempt. Since an incompleted forward pass into the end zone becomes a touchback and gives the ball to the opponents, further opportunity to score is lost to the attack.

Short Passes Best.

The character of the pass also is considered. Short passes are more quickly completed [giving the opposition less time to cover] and the gain may be increased after the pass is caught. A short pass for first down may lead to a score as well as a longer pass. Some passers are only accurate at short distances. Some receivers are more adept on short passes. The style of the passing play depends on the abilities of the players executing the play as well as the defense.

A pass play from a formation which can be used for runs and plunges is more valuable than from a formation which obviously has passing strength but less plunging or running possibilities. Where a pass is indicated the defense will shift to meet that attack. Following is a spread formation frequently used a few years ago:



The passer is from eight to ten yards back. This serves to give him some protection other than from his blocker [No. 3] and the linemen. The receivers, the ends and No. 1 and No. 2 backs, do not necessarily have to run as shown here, but they probably will spread out. While there is some plunging strength, if the ball is passed to No. 3, the formation is primarily a passing formation.

Brown Replaces Gen. Clinnin as N. B. A. President

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—James M. Brown today was elected to succeed Gen. John V. Clinnin of Chicago as president of the National Boxing association. Brown is chairman of the Michigan state board of athletic control. Gen. Clinnin was not a candidate for reelection.

Other officers chosen were Edward C. Foster, Providence, R. I., first vice president; Harry Landry, Friars Point, Miss., second vice president; Robert Sindall, Baltimore, third vice president; Victor Manhardt, Milwaukee, fourth vice president, and W. Frazier Dunlap, Louisville, Ky., treasurer. The 1933 convention will be held at Minneapolis.

Magnussen Named Iowa Grid Captain

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Marcus Magnussen, University of Iowa's hard luck center, reported for his first active football workout of the season today and a few hours later was elected captain.

Magnussen, a 190 pounder from Clinton, Ia., starred at center on the 1929 Hawkeye team. He was elected captain of the 1930 team, but was declared ineligible before the season started. Last year he suffered a broken leg in a September scrimmage and was lost for the season.

The new captain may see little action in the opening game against Bradley Tech, Oct. 1. He has not been allowed to scrimmage because of a sprained back.

Magnussen is in his second year in the college of medicine. He is 26 years old.

ILLINI GET SCRIMMAGE

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The University of Illinois football squad was put through a full game scrimmage today to open the regular drill a day schedule. Coach Zuppke centered his attention on the line, concentrating on the work of Dick O'Neil and Bart Cummings, 190 pound tackles. Jack Beynon, sophomore quarter back, and Capt. Gil Berry matched long punts on opposing elevens. George Frederick, former Harrison Tech of Chicago player, a center, and Laverne Joslin, a tackle, both newcomers, received consideration. John Snook, out last season following an operation, was shifted from full back to half. Julius Hoeft, another sophomore, was moved back to end after a brief trial at tackle.

CLASSES LIMIT BADGERS

Walter McGuire, Hawaiian half back, punted 55 and 65 yards consistently, while Capt. Greg Kabat, quarter back, did about as well.

During the scrimmage only five men have held the positions for which they were originally selected. They are Richard Haworth, left end; Bert Densmore, right end; Robert Schiller, half back; Nello Pacetti, full back, and McGuire. Haworth's position appears to be less disputed than the others.

CRIPPLES RETURN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Michigan's casualty list of 18 players, about one-third of the squad, appeared to have shrunk today when Coach Harry Kipke put his most promising men through scrimmage. Among those who participated were Tom Austin, tackle, and Carl Savage, guard, who have not been in a heavy workout this season, and John Kowalik, guard, who was out yesterday.

WANT THAT EXTRA POINT

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Purdue still remembers those missed kicks after touchdowns which have been responsible for two of the three defeats the team has suffered in the last three seasons. This afternoon Paul Pardonner, chunky drop-kicking quarter back, who ended the one point hoodoo last season by making 11 out of 12 points after touchdown, devoted his time to practicing his specialty and his attempts went over the crossbar regularly.

JONES LEADS KICKERS

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—The regular practice field was dry enough today for Indiana football candidates to hold scrimmage. Bob Jones, full back, featured the kicking practice. Otis Edmonds and Halary Sawicki also got off long punts. A back field of Otis Edmonds, Jones, Fitzhugh Lyons, regular end, and Eugene Opasik, quarter back, was tried for the first time. It proved a powerful ground gainer. Opasik is the only man of the quartet who weighs less than

New York, Sept. 21.—In step with the stock market, bonds today had a brisk upswing that included virtually every domestic group as well as foreign.

Rail bonds set the pace for the advance on revival of buying, the improvement being the sharpest seen this month, with gains of 1@4 points. The vigorous upturn in this section was generally attributed, aside from stock buoyancy, to renewed strength in wheat prices and to hopes for expansion of car loadings.

Speculative carrier issues were most popular in the buying, scoring the sharpest advances. These included issues of Baltimore and Ohio, Allegheny Corporation, Missouri Pacific, Rock Island, St. Paul, Southern Pacific, Milwaukee, Chicago and North Western, Illinois Central, New York Central, and others.

Buying Helps Utilities, Too.

Buying was just as insistent in the case of low priced industrials and public utilities, particularly American and Foreign Power 5s, Certainteed 5½s, Chile Copper 5s, Goodrich 6s, General Cable 5½s, Duke Price 6s, International Telephone 4½s and 5s, Postal and United Drug 5s. Bonds of International Telephone topped their yesterday's highs, with further gains extending to more than 4 points.

Demand for treasury bonds was constant and in sufficient volume to move prices higher. Several issues established new tops and all others, with the exception of the 3s and 3¼s, were within small fractions of their best prices of the year.

New York's Bonds Higher.

In the outside market an interesting development was the further rise in New York City bonds following the Supreme court decision against a mayoralty election this November. The 4¼s and 4½s advanced about a point, extending to about 8 points their improvement since the beginning of the McKee administration.

Two to four point gains were registered in the Argentines, this being the third consecutive day of rapidly rising prices for the group. German government issues were firm and more active and higher prices were paid for most European bonds. A feature was the spirited buying of Cuban 5½s, on which they rose several points.

Stone & Webster, Inc.

Will you kindly forward your latest analysis on Stone & Webster, Inc.?—E. L. H.

Stone & Webster, Inc., was originally established in 1889. It supervises public utility operations, does designing and construction work, and buys and sell securities.

Preliminary net income for the first half of 1932 was $744,000, or 35 cents per share. These figures are not comparable with results in 1931, as assets have been revalued since last year.

Gross income for 1931 was $59,522,000 and net income was $3,292,000, or $1.56 per share.

In addition, $1,597,000 was deducted from surplus to reduce the stated value of holdings in Stone & Webster & Blodgett, a subsidiary, to reflect more accurately the actual value of such holdings as of June 30, 1931. Restatement of capital transferred $72,370,000 from the capital stock account to paid-in surplus. The company reduced the valuation of Engineers Public Service company stock and Sierra Pacific company stock on its books (charged to surplus) by $56,839,000 and investments in other subsidiaries by $18,944,000.

As a result of these adjustments profit and loss surplus on Jan. 1, 1932, was $22,005,000.

Gross revenues for 1930 were $52,509,000 and net income was $6,430,000, or $3.06 per common share.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $21,720,000 and current liabilities were $22,521,000. Cash was $8,250,000 and notes and collateral loans payable totaled $14,679,000.

The parent company itself has no funded debt, but funded debt of subsidiaries totals $157,294,000. There are 2,104,500 shares of no par capital stock outstanding.

The company owns 91 per cent (1,737,750 shares) of Engineers Public Service company common stock. The dividend on it due Oct. 1, 1932, was passed because of decreased earnings and the presence of a substantial amount of notes payable. The omission of this dividend will eliminate one of the principal current sources of Stone & Webster's cash income.

General Motors Acceptance.

Please give me an opinion on General Motors Acceptance 6s, due 1937.—Mrs. W. F. S.

General Motors Acceptance corporation provides credit facilities exclusively for General Motors corporation. Interest and discount charges have been covered by wide margins in the last six years. In 1931 net before charges was $18,661,000. Charges were $9,681,000.

The $37,953,000 unsecured 6s, due 1937, are regarded as sound.

UNION LEADERS REFUSE PARLEY ON RAIL WAGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—Railroad labor today flatly rejected the first effort of the railroads to confer on the carriers' proposal of a 20 per cent reduction in basic wage rates.

A. F. Whitney, chairman of the railway labor executives' association, in a letter to W. F. Thiehoff, chairman of the railway management committee, informed the railroads that the labor executives "are unanimously of the opinion that a wage conference at this time would be unwise and that, having no authority to enter upon such a conference, we should not either seek such authority or encourage any effort to inaugurate wage reductions."

Next Step Uncertain.

Railroad officials declined to say what the next step would be, or whether formal notice of an intended further reduction would be served on the employés, thereby creating a dispute to be handled under the provisions of the railway labor act. Another effort might be made, it was pointed out, to bring about negotiations looking to a voluntary agreement. The present wage agreement under which rail wages have been cut 10 per cent expires Jan. 31, 1933.

Mr. Thiehoff's railway management committee conferred yesterday with the members of the railway executives' association representing the twenty-one so-called standard railroad labor organizations, seeking to ascertain whether the labor leaders "would care to facilitate conferences concerning the matter of wages to be effective after Feb. 1, 1933."

Text of Letter.

Mr. Whitney noted in his letter today that the expiration of the present agreement is four months off and added that many of the expectations that led to the signing of the existing agreement had not been fulfilled in the last eight months "and few persons will assume the foresight to prophesy the conditions which may exist at the end of the next four months."

"You know that the railway employés have suffered not only a forty per cent loss of employment but that a majority of those working have had only part time employment with a ten per cent deduction from compensation," Mr. Whitney said. "You know that our conditions have grown steadily worse since the agreement of Jan. 31, 1932. No one would truly represent the employés by encouraging any effort to do anything except to improve present conditions. The employés certainly have no desire or willingness to coöperate in making them worse."

CANADIAN RAIL PLANS

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Government backing today was pledged to a program to release the government owned Canadian National railways from "political and community influences" and to ease up its competition with the Canadian Pacific railways, even to the point of combining certain services.

Appointment of three trustees to replace the directorate of seventeen and the creation of an arbitral tribunal to settle disagreements between the C. N. R. and Canadian Pacific railways were among recommendations of a royal commission on railways and transportation, made public today.

Premier R. B. Bennett said the recommendations, to terminate "financial irresponsibility on the part of the management of the C. N. R." and "aggressive and unprofitable competition between the C. N. R. and C. P. R.," would be backed by the government.

Legislation to give effect to the long list of remedies proposed by the commission will be introduced after the recommendations are presented in parliament, Oct. 6, he declared.

The commission's report concluded with the warning that unless the dominion adopts its plan or measures equally effective, the stability of the nation's finances and the financial credit of the C. P. R. will be threatened "with serious consequences to the people of Canada and to those who have invested their savings in the C. P. R."

Says Hoover Favors Selling China 25,000,000 Bu Wheat

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Senator Jones announced here today that President Hoover has assured him the Reconstruction Finance corporation and other federal units are coöperating in plans for selling 25,000,000 bushels of wheat to China. The corporation would be asked to provide $15,000,000 as credit for the Chinese government.

U. S. Taxes Up 11½ Millions During August

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—[Special.]—A gain of eleven and a half million dollars in internal revenues for August, as compared with August, 1931, was reported by the treasury today.

The gain was made despite a 10 million dollar drop in income tax revenues and was the result almost entirely of new excise and miscellaneous taxes and increases in those taxes enacted at the last session of congress in the 1932 tax bill.

Internal revenue collections for August totaled $79,940,310, while those for the same month last year were $68,394,139.

Income Taxes Off.

Treasury officials expressed gratification at the returns from the new and increased taxes, but stated that the full effects of them would not be felt until October or perhaps November.

This lag, it was explained, was due to three factors. Retailers who loaded up with supplies of taxed articles before the taxes became effective have still to work off surplus stocks. It has taken time to set up the administrative machinery for the new excises. And lastly it will not be possible until this machinery is functioning to collect from those who have voluntarily withheld taxes.

Gasoline Nets Most.

Of the new taxes, that on gasoline, with a return of nearly nine million dollars; that on electrical energy, with a return of nearly one million dollars, that on tires and tubes, which returned a million and a half dollars, and that on checks, which brought in nearly three and a half million dollars, were the most important revenue getters.

The comparative statement of collections for August was as follows:

OPEN WAY FOR NEW RECEIVERS OF N.Y. TRACTIONS

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Benjamin F. Johnson of Winchester, Ky., obtained federal court authorization today to institute suit looking toward the appointment of new receivers for the Interborough Rapid Transit company and the Manhattan Railway company.

Johnson, a Manhattan railway stockholder, seeks to have the present receiverships set aside on the ground he believed the appointments were irregular and void.

He also asks for an accounting of sums allegedly due the Manhattan from the Interborough, a fixation of amounts to be paid by the Interborough receivers for the privilege of operating the Manhattan and the awarding of damages for alleged violation of the Manhattan lines' lease to the Interborough.

NICKEL PLATE URGES DEPOSIT OF 6 PCT. NOTES

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The New York, Chicago and St. Louis railroad [Nickel Plate] appealed to holders of its $20,000,000 issue of 6 per cent notes, due Oct. 1, urging prompt deposit under the plan recently offered for refunding them.

Unless the plan is approved by the noteholders, it was stated, the Reconstruction Finance corporation will not advance any portion of the $6,800,000, which was offered as a loan for refunding use if other arrangements were made to take care of the balance.

Bankers for the road said the amount of notes deposited, including those promised, was about 18½ per cent of the total. According to the road, it cannot meet the maturity without Reconstruction Finance corporation help.

Asks Barge Line Extension on Missouri and Mississippi

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—(AP)—The Inland Waterways corporation today applied to the interstate commerce commission for permission to extend its barge line up the Missouri river to Kansas City, Kas., to operate barges from that point southward on the Missouri and Mississippi rivers as well as north to Minneapolis and St. Paul. The petition asked that the commission order all other common carriers to establish through routes and joint rates for service by barge.

SPECIAL TRAIN, 69.1 MILES AN HOUR, FOR HYDE

The Pennsylvania railroad yesterday reported that a special train carrying Secretary of Agriculture Hyde over its line from Fort Wayne, Ind., to Chicago last week ran the 148 miles in 2 hours and 7 minutes, or 69.1 miles an hour. This is about the time the Cheltenham Flyer, English train, maintains on its regular 77.3 mile run between Swindon and London. The Broadway Limited averages 53 miles an hour between New York and Chicago.

The train carrying Secretary Hyde and his party of about 100 Chicagoans contained 2 parlor cars and 2 coaches. It was pulled by one of the Pennsylvania's standard passenger locomotives of the K-4 type. The Pennsylvania's fastest run occurred on June 11, 1927, when a train en route from Washington to New York with Lindberg reception pictures did the 96.1 miles between Baltimore and Philadelphia at a rate of 78.6 miles an hour.

Off Gold Standard a Year.

The world still is spinning on its axis despite the fact that Great Britain has been off the gold standard exactly one year. It was recalled in financial circles yesterday that just one year ago dire prophecies were being voiced because the Old Lady of Threadneedle Street could not longer continue payments in gold. Yesterday the pound sterling was quoted at approximately $3.46 in terms of American dollars which are still backed by gold. This compares with par of $4.8665.

German Sugar Situation.

For the first time in a decade Germany's production of sugar promises to be less than its consumption, according to Lamborn & Co., Inc. Dr. Gustav Mikusch, German sugar authority, estimates that the 1932-'33 crop will be 1,156,000 long tons whereas consumption for the last five years has averaged 1,600,000 tons. Prior to the world war Germany was the greatest sugar producing country in the world.

CUBAN OFFICIALS DENY DEAL FOR OIL MONOPOLY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 21.—Although dispatches yesterday reported the Cuban government contemplates granting a 40 year petroleum products monopoly in exchange for payment of Cuba's foreign and internal debt of more than $200,000,000, high officials today were certain the scheme would not materialize.

President Gerardo Machado said he opposes a monopoly and denied the government ever had proposed a concession to Standard Oil of New Jersey, Sinclair, or Shell representatives, as was asserted yesterday.

Although such a bill with the company unnamed is before the senate everything indicates that it will be pigeonholed indefinitely and will not reach the house.

It is common belief that 22 of the 28 senators and 96 of the 138 representatives are directly or indirectly connected with Standard, Sinclair, or Shell interests here. Some have considerable sums legitimately invested; the majority, it is claimed, receive subsidies.

SEATS EXPERTS AS DIRECTORS OF MIDDLE WEST

New Regime Brings About Changes.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The operating utility men in the Middle West Utilities company system are being brought to the front and given positions of greater responsibility as the result of the reorganization program being carried out by the receivers, Edward N. Hurley and Charles A. McCulloch.

During the Insull régime the board of directors of the parent corporation was made up largely of officers of other Insull companies not directly connected with the Middle West system. In the Insull system of interlocking directorates there was little room on the board of directors of the Middle West company for the heads of the operating companies of the system.

Long Operating Experience.

That this system of management is being definitely abandoned by the receivers was plainly indicated last week when announcement was made of the election of Grover C. Neff as president of Middle West. Mr. Neff was a vice president and the chief operating executive of the Wisconsin Power and Light company, an operating subsidiary, for several years, but had little to do with affairs of the top holding company.

Under the new system or organization the men directly in charge of operations are thoroughly familiar with the business are being given a new voice in the management.

Drawn from Other Concerns.

Until a few months prior to the appointment of receivers the affairs of Middle West were being directed by Martin J. Insull, brother of Samuel Insull. The board of directors included the executives of only two subsidiary companies. One of these men, Marshall E. Sampsell, has been removed since that time.

Other members of the board included business associates of Samuel Insull and officials in his other concerns outside of the Middle West system. These included Walter S. Brewster, partner of the brokerage firm of Russell, Brewster & Co.; Edward P. Russell, another partner of the same firm; Britton I. Budd, executive in several Insull companies; Edward J. Doyle, president of Commonwealth Edison, and four vice presidents of the latter concern.

Insull's Changes Too Late.

When the intricate holding company structure began to give under the strain last year Samuel Insull made several reforms in the Middle West organization that have since been pushed forward by the receivers. For several months prior to the appointment of receivers Insull himself was in personal charge of the affairs of Middle West and took steps to correct some of the weaknesses of that organization. He brought in J. Paul Clayton, an experienced operating man, to a position of responsibility in the holding company.

These reforms came too late to keep the top heavy company out of receivership, but the economies and other improvements effected by Insull have been continued by the receivers, who are carrying out a comprehensive plan of reorganization to put Middle West on a sound basis.

New York, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—Bull forces took the stock market in hand today and staged one of the most spectacular rallies of the entire recovery movement. Prices were whirled up from $2 to over $10 a share throughout the list and trading hit such a fast clip that the high speed tickers were distanced as much as six or seven minutes at times.

Outstanding gains of the day included United States Steel, up $7.37; Union Pacific Railroad, up $7.62½; Case Threshing Machine, $9.75; Coca Cola, $6.00; Brooklyn Union Gas, $6.00; American Can, $6.87½; Auburn Auto, $9.25; International Business Machine, $7.00; G. W. Helme, $8.37½; Western Union, $5.62½; Norfolk and Western Railroad, $5.75; American Telephone, $8.25; American Tobacco $6.25, and Allied Chemical and Dye $8.75 a share.

The fresh burst of bullish enthusiasm was attributed to a variety of causes. An abrupt advance of 2⅛ cents a bushel in wheat and a rise in cotton amounting to $2.00 a bale were chief among the stimulants.

Wisconsin Election a Factor.

The apparent swing toward conservatism in the west as typified in the overthrow of the La Follette régime in Wisconsin was a factor of no little importance. A mildly encouraging report by the department of labor on the employment situation and the accumulating evidences of general business improvement, including the growing figures on electric power output, acted as a constant spur to optimism.

Today's broad advance, coupled with the brief upturn yesterday afternoon, resulted in the cancellation of more than half of the ground lost by the stock market between Sept. 8 and Sept. 19. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S

DISCOUNT RATE OF REICHSBANK CUT TO 4 PER CENT

BERLIN, Sept. 21.—The central council of the Reichsbank agreed to the proposal of President Hans Luther to reduce the discount rate from 5 to 4 per cent. The new rate will be effective tomorrow. The Reichsbank states that since the last reduction on April 28 the status of the Reichsbank as well as the general liquidity of the German money markets has further improved and points to reductions in official rates abroad.

average of fifty stocks closed today at 67.23, or 9.97 points above the low point reached in the reaction of Sept. 8-9, which totaled 15.11 points. As a result of this advance the average is now only 5.15 points under its September high of 72.38, established Sept. 8.

United Aircraft Action.

One of the liveliest individual favorities was United Aircraft, which accounted for some 289,000 shares of the total. The aviation group leader advanced nearly $6 a share as a result of the attention it received. Other issues of the section were treated on a heavy scale at rising prices.

The rise in wheat hit the farm implements, where they thrive, and some of the most eager buying of the day took place at this well patronized buying counter. Case was, of course, the favorite. International Harvester rose more than 5 points, however, and other issues concerned moved up more or less vigorously.

Mail order issues basking in the same sunnier agricultural outlook made the most of their opportunities. Sears-Roebuck jumping ahead 3 points and Montgomery Ward 2½.

More good news was forthcoming from the big steel industry centers during the day—announcement of a slight stepup in output and predictions from an authoritative source of substantial improvement in the report for September so far—and steel issues were eagerly sought after. The preferred stock of United States Steel outdid the common with a jump of 10¼ points.

Rails Also Respond.

Some of the best gains of the day were recorded in the railroad department. Besides Union Pacific the big gainers of the section were Atchison, up 5%; Boston and Maine, up 5; New York Central, 4¼; Illinois Central, 3¾; Delaware and Hudson, 6¾; Delaware and Lackawanna, 4¾, and Southern Pacific, 3⅝ points.

Other markets moved in sympathy with the big board and the principal commodities. Bonds were generally higher and active, the curb advanced and substantial gains were made by sugar, coffee, rubber, silk, coca and other commodities.

CANADIAN PAPER MILLS CUT PRICE OF NEWSPRINT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 21.—War in the newsprint industry was declared today. Following Price Brothers' cut last week from $53 to $47.50 per ton, International Paper company announced at New York this afternoon a cut to $45 per ton.

All Canadian companies indicated they would go to the new prices as their contracts specify that they can meet cuts. The outlook is for a battle between Canadian and American companies, as well as between the companies and it is likely to be a war to the death of some companies, as all of them have been having a very difficult time of it. Some have had to default bond interest in the last year.

Official figures given out today were that newsprint exports from Canada had shown an increase in August exports for the month, totaling $7,251,-72, compared with $6,289,600 in July. The total was below a year ago, however. Newsprint exports for the eight months ending with August totalled $58,590,021, against $72,974,990 in the corresponding eight months a year ago.

Longshoremen Reject New Wage Rate of 75c an Hour

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The offer of 75 cents an hour and a dollar an hour for overtime submitted by the deep sea steamship operators as a new wage scale for 30,000 longshoremen from Maine to Virginia was rejected today by Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's association, and his colleagues at a conference with a committee of ship owners. Ryan said after the meeting that the rejection was "friendly but nevertheless emphatic."

CASH LARD IN DEMAND

Stocks of cash lard in Chicago are generally believed to be in strong hands and there was apparently no letup in the foreign or domestic demand yesterday despite an advance of 10c in loose on Tuesday as compared with the September. Cash interests absorbed the offerings of the latter and also the October with the close 15c higher while the distant positions were up 12½c. Cash lard was quoted at $5 at the close with loose $4.85 and leaf, $4.75. Bellies were taken fairly at $5.75 by the distributing trade while fat backs were marked up ½c. Futures were neglected and closed nominally unchanged. Hogs were in active demand and steady. Receipts were larger than a week ago, and about the same as last year. Prices follow:

WHEAT REGAINS LARGER PART OF RECENT LOSSES

Eastern Buying Adds to Local Support.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Soaring stock and cotton markets found quick reflection in grains. General buying developed in wheat. They found offerings limited and the highest prices of the day were made at the last with net gains of 2⅛@2⅜c. The September finished at 52⅛@52⅝c, while the December was 55⅛@55¼c and May 60⅜@60⅝c. Sentiment generally was more bullish than of late, and pit brokers claimed that the action of the market indicated that the trade in general was long only a moderate amount of grain.

Grain traders were inclined to place a bullish construction on the Wisconsin primary election. The apparent defeat of the radicals in that state following the elimination of Senator Brookhart in Iowa was regarded as forecasting less politics in general business and also in the grain markets.

Wheat Leads Advance.

Wheat prices advanced almost as much yesterday as they had declined in 10 days, the December at 55¼c showing 3⅝c above the low of last week and sold at the best figure since Sept. 12. There was some buying by houses with eastern connections, and some of the local professionals also were on the buying side, but the bulk of the buying was regarded as having been by commission houses in small lots and by local shorts. The recent decline was regarded as having materially strengthened the technical position.

Selling against offers checked the advance in wheat for a time and there was also selling here against purchases at Winnipeg by spreaders. However, the offerings finally were absorbed and the sellers of offers were forced to protect themselves, which added to the strength. Winnipeg gained 1⅜@1⅝c for the day with December closing at 54⅛c in Canadian funds. Liverpool was again strong and closed ⅝@⅝c higher, but the December there was only 3⅝c over Chicago when it closed, against 4⅜c on Tuesday.

Foreigners After Wheat.

Foreigners were again in the market for supplies of cash wheat, taking over 750,000 bu Manitobas, and Greece was said to be inquiring for hard winter at the gulf. Canadian marketings showed a material reduction, deliveries at interior points in the three provinces on Tuesday being only 1,147,000 bu, against 4,820,000 bu last year. According to Winnipeg reports, the movement was the smallest in about three weeks and reflected the unfavorable weather recently. Heavy hedging pressure was again reported, but the selling was absorbed by strong interests.

Country Sells Cash Corn.

Corn showed a strong undertone yesterday, and prices averaged higher in the face of the heaviest hedging pressure in some weeks. Purchases of between 400,000 and 500,000 bu cash corn were reported as made by local handlers from the country, but futures moved up readily and closed about the top with net gains of ⅜@⅝c. September was 23½c at the last, with December 29⅛@29⅝c and May 34⅝c.

Commission houses were fair buyers of oats and they closed ½c higher with September, 16¾c; December, 18⅜c, an May, 21⅛@21¼c. The nearby delivery sold at the best price since Sept. 9. Rye gained 1⅜@1⅝c with wheat, the December closing at 35½c and the May at 39¼c.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Fresh eggs were in active demand with extra firsts in carlots ½c higher. Receipts, 3,655 cases. Butter was steady to ¼c lower. Receipts, 6,815 tubs. Live poultry sold at former prices. Receipts, 2 cars and 40 trucks. Potatoes were steady with receipts 57 cars and 369 cars were on team track.

Upward Trend in Electric Power Output Continues

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 21.—The upward trend in electric power production, which started five weeks ago, was continued for the week ending Sept. 17, figures published today by the National Electric Light association reveal. While the comparison with 1931 was not as favorable as in the preceding seven days—the decline for Sept. 17 was 11.2 per cent against 8.7 per cent in the week before—there was an actual increase in output, due to the holiday in the previous seven days.
